A. P. MACDONNELL,
Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

NOTIFICATION.

The 1st June 1883.—A notification, dated the 14th May 1883, having been published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 16th and 23rd idem, declaring the intention of the Lieutenant-Governor to approve the undermentioned revised rules (section V of the Salt Manual), and no objection having been raised to these rules, they are hereby approved and confirmed under the provisions of Act VII (B.C.) of 1864.

SECTION V.—Rules regarding the crediting of fines and disbursement of rewards, Act VII (B.C.) of 1864.

1. All fines and penalties levied by magisterial officers from offenders against the salt law and the rules published by the Government are to be credited under the head Law and Justice in accordance with the orders of the Government of India, Financial Department, No. 2139, dated the 11th August 1879.

2. The Board attach great importance to the prompt payment of all rewards to informers and seizing officers in salt cases. Rewards should, therefore, be immediately paid from the treasury or sub-treasury, as the case may be, and debited to the Salt Department. The delay which must often occur in realizing the fines and penalties imposed, and before the sanction of the Board can be accorded under section 39 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1864 to the sale of confiscated salt, will thus be obviated.

3. When salt is confiscated, the police should be directed to take charge of the same until the expiration of three months from the date of the final order, when application should be made to the Board for sanction to the sale, and to the credit of the proceeds to the head "Law and Justice." Any small quantities, however, of confiscated salt, less than ten maunds in weight, should be sold at once, as it is liable to loss by wastage. As in the case of fines, the proceeds of such sales should be immediately credited to the head "Law and Justice."

4. Confiscated salt should not be sold for less than the duty; and if the place of sale is within rowannah limits, purchasers should be directed to apply to the Collector for the necessary protective documents in order to enable them to remove the salt if in excess of five seers. In the event of no offer being made sufficiently high to cover the Government duty, the salt, if not exceeding one maund, should be destroyed; if a larger quantity, the Board's orders should be applied for.

5. Except with the special sanction of the Board, the rewards adjudged in salt cases will not exceed the amount of fine imposed, plus the value of the salt confiscated in each case. This value will ordinarily be the price for which the confiscated salt is sold. Should the sale, however, be postponed (under rule 3 above), or the salt destroyed (under rule 4), the value will be estimated by the officer adjudging the reward at a price not exceeding the rate of Government duty.

6. Provided, however, that—

(1) no larger amount than Rs. 100 may be disbursed in any one case before the expiration of the period of appeal, except with the special sanction of the Board; and

(2) in cases in which the fine imposed is not realized, no larger amount than Rs. 100 may be disbursed on account of such fine without the special sanction of the Board.

7. Subject to the restrictions contained in the two preceding rules, Commissioners are authorized to sanction rewards up to the full amount of fine and the value of the salt confiscated in each case; and district officers are authorized to sanction rewards not exceeding Rs. 20 in each case. When a larger reward than Rs. 20 is deemed expedient, district officers should report the case for the orders of the Commissioner.

8. Magistrates trying cases of illegal manufacture, possession, or transport of salt, under sections 5 and 16 to 19 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1864, are authorized to grant rewards not exceeding the amount of the fine imposed, plus the estimated value of any seizure made, and not exceeding Rs. 20 in any one case, to any person or persons who may have contributed to the conviction of the offender. The amount of such reward will not be disbursed from the fine when collected, or from the sale proceeds, but should be at once paid from the sudder or sub-divisional treasury, as the case may be, on an order signed by the Magistrate trying the case. The fine and sale proceeds, when realized (in whole or part), will be credited in the treasury in the usual manner. Magistrates granting rewards under this rule should be careful to see that the order for payment is made over in each case to the payee, with directions to present it for encashment at the treasury before he leaves the Court.

9. The above rule applies only to the payment of rewards to private persons and to excise officers, and not to the payment of rewards to police officers. Rewards to police officers should be adjudged in the usual manner by the Collector, and should be disbursed to the District Superintendent of Police for distribution on monthly bills prepared by that officer, as is done in the case of payment of excise rewards. All police officers up to, and inclusive of, the grade of Inspectors may participate in the reward.

10. District officers should request all magisterial officers within their districts to send for their perusal all the papers of cases connected with offences against the salt laws immediately such cases are disposed of, together with any recommendations such officers may have to offer as to the payment of any special rewards which may appear to them to be deserved.

11. No time should be lost by the district officer in perusing the record and in passing such orders as the case may appear to require. Should he consider that the case deserves a reward which it is not within his competency to grant, an immediate reference should be made to the Commissioner for sanction.

12. District officers should show, in the appropriate columns of their half-yearly returns, the sums disbursed during the half-year as rewards, and the sums credited in the treasury on account of fines and forfeitures during the same period.

13. From the papers before them, and the information supplied by magisterial officers, Collectors are required to draw up and keep a register in the form given below. Immediately on receipt of the papers alluded to in rule 10, the first ten columns, or as many of them as possible, should be filled in, and it will be the duty of the district officer to see that no cause for any delay in the payment of rewards is allowed to exist:—

Register of Salt Prosecutions.

Serial number.	Number and date of case.	Section under which tried.	Date of Magistrate's order, and of final order, if appealed.	Quantity of salt confiscated.	Amount of fine imposed.	Price realized by sale of salt.	Amount of fine realized.	Amount paid in rewards by the Magistrate's order.	Date of payment of reward in column 9.	Special or additional reward paid by Revenue officers.	Date of payment of reward in column 11.	REMARKS.

THE Calcutta Medical College Session 1883-84 will commence on the 16th June next.

2. Students who may be desirous of commencing their studies are requested to apply to the Principal between the hours of 11 A.M. and 4 P.M. on or before the 15th June next.

Ten (10) free presentations will then be awarded. These are given to students according to their relative position in the University B.A., B.L., and F.A. Examinations, preference being given to those who have passed the highest examination.

3. No person shall be enrolled on the list of regular students of the college who has not previously passed the First Arts Examination of the Calcutta University, or some one of the preliminary Arts Examinations of the United Kingdom recognized by the British General Medical Council.

4. All regular students of the college are required to pay Rs. 15 on entrance, Rs. 30 for the Summer session on the 15th June, and Rs. 30 for the Winter session in November of each year.

5. Students who have failed to pass, and who, under the regulations of the University, are required to attend a further course of lectures and of hospital practice before being allowed to present themselves again for examination, will pay for such further course an annual fee of Rs. 45 in two instalments of Rs. 30 and Rs. 15, payable at the beginning of the Summer and Winter session respectively.

6. Any regular students of the college may, with the permission of the Principal and the Professors of the subject, attend courses of lectures or departments of hospital practice outside and in addition to the full curriculum for the year, and he shall be entitled to certificates of attendance at such extra lectures, if the Professor is satisfied that he has really studied the subject. The fees payable in advance for such additional courses are the following :—

	Rs.
For a single course of lectures on each subject	10
For six months' attendance in each department of hospital practice...	60

7. Any regular student who leaves the college before completing his University course with the object of continuing his studies at a medical school in Europe may receive certificates of attendance at lectures on payment of fees at the rates fixed in the foregoing rule But in calculating the sum to be so paid the amount of the fees already paid by him as a regular student, or, in the case of a free student, the amount which would have been paid by him had he been a paying student, shall be deducted.

8. Any person not being a regular student of the college, who may be desirous of attending any course of lectures or any department of hospital practice, may do so with the permission of the Principal and the Professor of the subject, on payment, in advance, of fees at the rates fixed in Rule 6.

If such student has passed the Entrance Examination of the University, he may receive certificates of attendance at lectures, provided the Professors are satisfied that he has attended the full course of lectures, and has mastered the subject taught.

A student who has not passed the Entrance Examination will be entitled to no certificates of any kind.

9. College scholarships, prizes, and certificates of honour are open for competition only to regular students of the college and the Hospital Apprentice class.

10. No fees are payable by the holders of the Calcutta Medical College Scholarships.

The holders of the Doorga Charan Laha and all other scholarships will be required to pay fees as a regular student. These scholars may pay their fees in advance, or have their scholarship money deducted till the full amount is received.

11. Any student holding a Medical College scholarship will be permitted to draw the stipend of the said scholarship at any recognized medical school in the United Kingdom, provided he furnishes from the head of such school a certificate of good conduct and diligent prosecution of his studies.

12. The offices of class assistant, clinical clerk, dressers, &c., can be held only by students whose names are on the rolls of the college.

METEOROLOGICAL OFFICE, BENGAL,
The 4th June 1883.

JOHN ELIOT,
Meteorological Reporter to the Government of Bengal.

RAINFALL SUMMARY FOR THE WEEK ENDING 1st JUNE 1883.

The following gives briefly the most important features in the meteorology of the past week:—

Saturday, 26th May.—The barometer began to rise in the Eastern districts, but continued to fall in the Western districts. Pressure was considerably below the average; temperature was high. It was 5° above the normal in Bengal and North Behar, and slightly below it in South Behar and Orissa. Westerly winds in South Behar and Chutia Nagpur made the air very dry. Light local showers fell during the day in a few districts of South-West Bengal and in Cooch Behar

Sunday, 27th May.—The barometer was now rising over the whole Province. Pressure was from ·03″ to ·07″ below the normal. Temperature was excessive. Mean temperature of the day was 6° above the normal in Bengal and North Behar, 3° above it in South Behar, and 1° in Orissa. Easterly winds set in over Behar and gave clouded skies and increased humidity. Rain fell in Orissa, the Moorshedabad district of South-West Bengal, and in several districts of North and East Bengal. Some heavy showers fell in the Moorshedabad district. The heaviest was a fall of 3 inches at Jungipore

Monday, 28th May.—The barometer continued to rise over the whole Province. Pressure was now very slightly below the average of the month. Heavy rain fell after the sultry weather of the preceding day over a large part of the Province and cooled the air, so that the mean temperature was generally slightly below the average. General rain, due to thunder-storms, occurred in South-West Bengal, and to a less extent in North Bengal, the Chumparun and Shahabad districts of Behar and Chutia Nagpur. The heaviest fall was 4 18 inches recorded at Cutwa in the Burdwan district.

Tuesday, 29th May.—The rise of the barometer continued, and pressure was now above the average. The mean temperature of the day was slightly above the normal in Bengal, but was 4° below it in Behar. Winds were shifting round to west again in South Behar. Little rain fell on this day, except in Chutia Nagpur and the Chittagong district and adjacent hills.

Wednesday, 30th May.—A further rapid rise of the barometer now raised the pressure over the Province from ·1″ to ·2″ above the average. Temperature varied slightly from the average. The weather was sultry, with very light moist winds in Bengal, and dry westerly winds in South Behar and Chutia Nagpur. Thunder-storms giving local showers occurred during the day in Orissa, South-West Bengal, Chutia Nagpur, and the Cooch Behar district. The heaviest fall (1·97 inches) was registered at Contai.

Thursday, 31st May.—The barometer at last began to fall again, the fall commencing slowly in East and North Bengal. Pressure was still very high, and was from ·1 inch to ·2 inches above the average over the Province. Temperature again increased and weather became more sultry. The air was very dry (20 per cent. below the average). In South Behar and Chutia Nagpur winds were everywhere unusually light. Less rain was recorded onthis day. Local showers limited in extent fell in Orissa, South-West Bengal (more especially the Moorshedabad district), Chutia Nagpur, and in the Julpigori and Cooch Behar districts.

Friday, 1st June.—The barometric fall now extended to the whole Province, but was as yet not large in amount. Temperature was again excessive. It was 4° above the average of the day in Bengal and North Behar. Thunder storms with rain occurred in Orissa, the Western districts of South-West Bengal, and in the Chittagong district.

Burdwan	1·6 above	4 below.
Cuttack	0	1 above.
Chittagong	0·8 below	10 „
Dacca	1·5 above	3 „
Purneah	3·4 „	11 below.

The following table gives the general distribution of rainfall for the past week and for the month of May (including the first day of June):—

	Normal rainfall, 1st May to 1st June.	Average rainfall, 1st May to 1st June 1883.	Percentage of actual to normal.	Normal rainfall of week from May 26th to 1st June.	Average rainfall of week from May 26th to 1st June 1883.	Percentage of actual to normal rainfal for last week.
Orissa	4·08	3·64	89	1·04	1·42	137
South-West Bengal	5·62	4·34	77	1·47	1·77	120
East Bengal	9·71	10 20	105	2·48	0·84	34
North Bengal	9 13	9·01	99	2·40	1·34	54
North Behar	3·09	1·53	50	0 62	0·20	32
South Behar	2·24	1·09	49	0·40	0·55	137
Chutia Nagpur	2·76	1·28	46	0·62	0·85	134

The table shews that the storms of the past week have given rainfall about 3· per cent above the average in Orissa, South-West Bengal, Chutia Nagpur, and South Behar. In those districts which received heavy rainfall a fortnight ago, where strong southerly winds were blowing into Bengal from the Bay, viz. East and North Bengal and North Behar, the rainfall of the past week has been barely 40 per cent of its normal amount. The unusual weakness of the south-westerly winds at the head of the Bay appears to account for this deficiency.

The mean pressure, temperature &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86 formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The direction of the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

No. 1755, dated Bombay Castle, the 23rd May 1883.

Telegram from—The Political Resident at Aden, dated 26th April 1883.

"British Vice-Consul at Jeddah reports appearance of cholera at Baros in Sumatra, and that arrivals from Sumatra will, in Ottoman Red Sea ports, be subject to quarantine under Turkish reglement. Shall I enforce B. Quarantine Rules at Aden against arrivals from Sumatra?"

Telegram to the Government of India, dated 26th April 1883, repeating the above telegram from the Political Resident, Aden.

Telegram from the Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department, dated 18th May 1883.

"See my telegrams dated 26th May and 15th June 1882 regarding imposition quarantine on arrivals from Sumatra and Batavia. Secretary of State now telegraphs. Message begins: In reply to your telegram of 1st May 1883, quarantine removed on arrivals from Sumatra in Egypt 7th May 1883. Quarantine removed on arrivals from Batavia last November. Message ends."

RESOLUTION.—It would appear from the Government of India's telegram that the quarantine on arrivals from Batavia imposed in Egypt was removed in November last, and that the quarantine imposed in May 1882 on arrivals from Sumatra was removed on the 7th instant. The fact should be communicated to the officers and departments concerned, with reference to Government Resolutions No. 2240, dated 16th June, and No 1979, dated 29th May 1882, by which quarantine was imposed at Bombay, Aden, and Karachi on arrivals from Batavia and Sumatra respectively. The Governments of Bengal and Madras, and the Chief Commissioner, British Burmah, should also be informed, with reference to the telegrams sent to them in accordance with those Resolutions. The Resident at Aden should be informed by telegraph with reference to his telegram of the 26th ultimo.

2. As is usual on such occasions, the notifications under which quarantine was imposed at Bombay, Aden, and Karachi on arrivals from Batavia and Sumatra—Government Notifications, General Department, No. 1975, dated 29th May 1882, and No. 2240, dated 16th June 1882, should be cancelled by a notification in the Government Gazette.

3. A copy of these orders should be placed on the Editors' table.

J. MONTEATH,
Acting Under-Secretary to Government.

No. 1814, dated Bombay Castle, the 28th May 1883.

Telegram from—The Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department, dated 26th May 1883:—

"My telegram 18th. Secretary of State's message begins:—Mine 16th. I do not think it necessary to quarantine Batavia, Sumatra in Indian ports. Message ends."

RESOLUTION.—The necessary orders directing the removal of quarantine at Bombay, Aden, and Karachi on vessels from Batavia and Sumatra have already been issued in Government Resolution No. 1755, dated 23rd instant, and Government notification of the same number and date.

2. Copies of the Government of India's telegram should be communicated to the officers and departments concerned for information, in continuation of the above resolution, and to the Governments of Bengal and Madras and the Chief Commissioner, British Burmah, in continuation of the letter from this Government, No. 1756A., dated 24th idem.

3. The Political Resident, Aden, should be informed by telegraph, in continuation of the telegram of the 23rd idem.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA (MARINE BRANCH), MILITARY DEPARTMENT.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.—(No. 23.)

BAY OF BENGAL—COAST OF ORISSA.

FALSE POINT.

Occasional Obscuration of Light by Fog.

THE attention of Mariners is called to the following remarks relative to False Point Light:—

During the months of January, February, and March, the prevalence of low-lying, heavy fog—over the land which lies between the light-house and the sea—occasionally interferes with the proper visibility of the light, and at times may even obscure it, although the weather at sea may be clear.

Mariners should, therefore, be specially cautious when approaching the light during the first quarter of the year, and use the lead continually.

By direction of the Government of India,

A. DUNDAS TAYLOR, Comdr., late I. N.,
Superintendent, Marine Survey of India.

EDUCATIONAL NOTICES.

THE Calcutta Medical College Session 1883-84 will commence on the 16th June next

2. Students who may be desirous of commencing their studies are requested to apply to the Principal between the hours of 11 A.M. and 4 P.M. on or before the 15th June next.

Ten (10) free presentations will then be awarded. These are given to students according to their relative position in the University B.A., B.L., and F.A. Examinations, preference being given to those who have passed the highest examination.

3. No person shall be enrolled on the list of regular students of the college who has not previously passed the First Arts Examination of the Calcutta University, or some one of the preliminary Arts Examinations of the United Kingdom recognized by the British General Medical Council.

4. All regular students of the college are required to pay Rs. 15 on entrance, Rs. 30 for the Summer session on the 15th June, and Rs. 30 for the Winter session in November of each year.

5. Students who have failed to pass, and who, under the regulations of the University, are required to attend a further course of lectures and of hospital practice before being allowed to present themselves again for examination, will pay for such further course an annual fee of Rs. 45 in two instalments of Rs. 30 and Rs. 15, payable at the beginning of the Summer and Winter session respectively.

6. Any regular students of the college may, with the permission of the Principal and the Professors of the subject, attend courses of lectures or departments of hospital practice outside and in addition to the full curriculum for the year, and he shall be entitled to certificates of attendance at such extra lectures, if the Professor is satisfied that he has really studied the subject. The fees payable in advance for such additional courses are the following :—

	Rs.
For a single course of lectures on each subject	40
For six months' attendance in each department of hospital practice...	60

7. Any regular student who leaves the college before completing his University course with the object of continuing his studies at a medical school in Europe may receive certificates of attendance at lectures on payment of fees at the rates fixed in the foregoing rule. But in calculating the sum to be so paid the amount of the fees already paid by him as a regular student, or, in the case of a free student, the amount which would have been paid by him had he been a paying student, shall be deducted.

8. Any person not being a regular student of the college, who may be desirous of attending any course of lectures or any department of hospital practice, may do so with the permission of the Principal and the Professor of the subject, on payment, in advance, of fees at the rates fixed in Rule 6.

If such student has passed the Entrance Examination of the University, he may receive certificates of attendance at lectures, provided the Professors are satisfied that he has attended the full course of lectures, and has mastered the subject taught.

A student who has not passed the Entrance Examination will be entitled to no certificates of any kind.

9. College scholarships, prizes, and certificates of honour are open for competition only to regular students of the college and the Hospital Apprentice class.

10. No fees are payable by the holders of the Calcutta Medical College Scholarships.

The holders of the Doorga Charan Laha and all other scholarships will be required to pay fees as a regular student. These scholars may pay their fees in advance, or have their scholarship money deducted till the full amount is received.

11. Any student holding a Medical College scholarship will be permitted to draw the stipend of the said scholarship at any recognized medical school in the United Kingdom, provided he furnishes from the head of such school a certificate of good conduct and diligent prosecution of his studies.

12. The offices of class assistant, clinical clerk, dressers, &c., can be held only by students whose names are on the rolls of the college.

DISTRICT ROAD FUND.

NOTIFICATION No. 219.

The 7th June 1883.

THE following annual accounts and abstracts of the reports of the Road Cess Committees of the districts of Patna, Gya, Shahabad, Mozufferpore, Durbhunga, Sarun, and Chumparun for the cess year 1881-82, together with the remarks thereon of the Commissioner of the Patna Division, are published for general information.

Abstract of a report by the Chairman of the District Road Cess Committee, Patna, on the Committee's operations for the cess year 1881-82.

THE collections which amounted to Rs. 1,60,117, against Rs. 1,68,721, were far from unsatisfactory, considering that the last instalment was payable on the 28th September, or two days before the end of the year. The certificate procedure, which is followed in the realization of the arrears of road cess, has, however, occasioned a good deal of delay in their collection.

The meetings of the District Road Committee were not so fully attended as could be wished; but the members took intelligent interest in all matters which were brought before them for consideration.

The Dinapore and Behar Branch Committees were all that could be desired; they have both worked well, and have expended the whole of the allotments made to them; but the Branch Committee at Barh has throughout the year been conspicuous for its want of interest in matters of village roads, or in fact anything bearing on the improvement of the condition of roads in general.

The original works which were undertaken during the year under report have progressed favourably, and the repair works were pushed on more vigorously than last year.

The total cost of maintaining the village roads in the district amounted to Rs. 8,855, against Rs. 4,933 of the preceding year. The Sub-divisional Officers of Behar and Dinapore, and the District Engineer of Patna, who was in charge of the village roads in the Sudder sub-division, have all spent their full share of the village road money; the Sub-divisional Officer of Barh alone has been backward in this respect.

Great attention was paid to the planting of trees on roadsides. About 200 miles of roads have now been planted out, and the trees are all doing very well.

The working of the establishment under the Committee has been good.

ABDUL JUBBAR,
For Vice-Chairman,
District Road Cess Committee, Patna.

Abstract of a report by the Chairman of the District Road Cess Committee, Gya, on the Committee's operations for the cess year 1881-82.

THE Road Cess Act has worked well during the year, and the collections were satisfactory. The net amount of cess demand stood at Rs. 2,09,052, and the collections amounted to Rs. 2,04,866, the percentage of total collections against the total demand being 97·9. The nature of the cess, and the extent to which each class is liable, is gradually becoming better known. The tax is of course not popular, but is accepted as inevitable, and the difficulty in realization is decreasing yearly.

The attendance of members at the Committee meetings has been fair, the average number of members attending meetings during the year being 5·3 in the Central or Sudder Committee, 5 in the Nowada Branch Committee, 3·3 in the Jehanabad Branch Committee, and 3·2 in the Aurangabad Branch Committee. The members residing in the interior have been very irregular in their attendance, and there are some who have never attended any meeting. The attendance of the members of the Branch Committees is reported to have been fair.

The supervision of the village roads in the Sudder sub-division was made over to the Vice-Chairman. In all the sub-divisions these roads are under the Branch Committees. The villagers could not be induced to take money and do any work for themselves; consequently such small roads as exist under the name of village roads have been made by the ordinary staff of overseers, and the Branch Committees now manage most of the roads in their sub-divisions.

A large number of young trees were planted throughout the district, but owing to the great heat and dryness of the climate they did not thrive so well as could be wished.

The establishments of all branches are reported to have worked well throughout the year.

W. HAMPTON,
Vice-Chairman.

Abstract of a Report by the Chairman of the District Road Cess Committee, Shahabad, on the Committee's operations for the Cess year 1881-82.

THE present law works fairly, as far as the security of the revenue is concerned. It, however, involves the issue of a large number of certificates, with notices of sales, &c., thus causing more friction than the simple procedure for recovering arrears of land revenue.

There were five meetings of the Sudder Committee during the year, and in every instance the members attended in sufficient numbers to form a quorum. There were four meetings of the Sasseram Branch Committee, three of the Buxar, and one of the Bhabuah Branch Committee.

Rupees 15,996 were spent during the year on village roads. In the sudder sub-division these roads have received much attention, old tracks and village paths have been carefully explored, and provision has been made in the current year's budget to complete 109 miles of new village roads in addition to the maintenance of the existing lines.

The planting of trees on the principal district roads has been completed to the full extent considered advisable at present at a total cost during the year of Rs. 14,437 including maintenance. Over 150 miles of road have been planted, mostly with selected fruit trees, and a few teak, sissoo and other useful timber trees.

The main lines of district roads were maintained in good order, and the general condition of all the existing roads is described as excellent.

On the whole, the different establishments employed under the Road Cess Committee have performed their duties satisfactorily.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

1. Establishment and contingencies of the office of Collection—

	Rs.
Amount as per budget	3,972
Amount as expended	5 060
Excess over budget	1,088

The excess expenditure is owing to the appointment of 4 extra mohurrirs for the collection of arrears and for writing up certificates and notices for service on the defaulting estates, and to the payment for the value of Road Cess Forms to the Superintendent of Government Stationery and not budgeted for. The appointment of the extra mohurrirs was thought necessary after the budget was prepared and submitted, and was sanctioned by the Board. The excess expenditure has been met from the general savings on the budget estimate.

2. Establishment and Contingencies of the Committee's Office—

	Rs.
Amount as per budget	1,410
Amount expended	1,459
Excess over budget	49

The excess is very trifling and is owing to the payment of the subscription to the Calcutta Gazette for 1882 and for the value of Account Forms not budgeted for, and has been met from the general savings on the budget estimate.

3. Original Works—

	Rs.
Amount as per budget	43,782
Amount expended	47,487
Excess over budget	3,705

REPAIRS.

	Rs.
Amount as per budget	72,878
Amount expended	73,582
Excess over budget	704

The excess expenditure on Original Works and Repairs is due to the payment during the year of certain bills for works executed during the previous year (1880-81), but not paid for during that year owing to the offices being closed from the 28th September 1881 for the Durga Pujah holidays. The expenditure has been met from the general savings on the budget estimates.

K. C. CHATTERJEA, Accountant.

R. H. GREAVES,
Vice-Chairman.

Abstract of a report by the Chairman of the District Road Cess Committee, Mozufferpore, on the Committee's operations for the cess year 1881-82.

THE Committee held 15 meetings during the year under report, all of which, except one, were fairly attended, the average attendance being 5·53. The members generally (both official and non-official) evinced a great interest in their work, and always helped the Committee with opinions and suggestions calculated to improve the communications of the district.

Out of the total length of roads in the district, 908 miles were class IV, or village roads, on which an expenditure of Rs. 22,039 was incurred for maintenance and repairs.

In connection with the planting of trees along the sides of district roads no new operations were undertaken during the year. The work done in this respect chiefly related to the maintenance of the existing avenues of 149 miles of young trees, planted by the Committee in previous years.

The different establishments under the Committee are reported to have worked on the whole satisfactorily.

J. KELLEHER,
Vice-Chairman.

Abstract of a report by the Chairman of the District Road Cess Committee, Durbhunga, on the Committee's operations for the cess year 1881-82.

THE total demand of road cess during the year was Rs. 2,19,544, including arrears of the previous year, and the total collections amounted to Rs. 1,79,685, leaving an unrealized balance at the end of the year of Rs. 39,859, or at 18·16 per cent. of the whole gross demand. The chief reason for the accumulation of such a heavy arrear has been stated to be the dilatory procedure of realization under Act VII (B C.) of 1880, no penalty being attached to defaulters, and people being in a position to contest their liability to pay. The procedure of attachment of property also caused great delay in realization.

The District Road Committee was composed of 23-members during the year. The percentage of attendance of these members was 36 against 29 of the year before last. The two sub-divisions, Sudder and Madhubani, were generally more fully represented at almost all the meetings of the Committee than Tajpore.

There were two Branch Committees in the two sub divisions of the district, viz. Madhubani and Tajpore. The principal works done by these Branch Committees consisted of repairs of village roads in the sub-divisions, for which a sum of Rs. 9,000 was allotted in the budget. Much useful work was done under this head in both the sub-divisions, and the whole allotment was spent during the year.

Rupees 2,100 were spent for planting new trees, and Rs. 368 for maintaining those planted during the previous years.

The several establishments under the Road Committee worked satisfactorily, with the exception of the Head Clerk of the District Engineer's office, who was removed from his post for inefficiency, and a competent man appointed in his place.

Abstract of a report by the Chairman of the District Road Cess Committee, Sarun, on the Committee's operations for the cess-year 1881-82.

The works provided for in the budget estimate of the year under review have all been completed with a few exceptions. All original works and repairs in the Sewan sub-division were executed by the Sewan Branch Committee and those in the Gopalgunge sub-division (excepting original works and the minor roads) were executed by the Gopalgunge Branch Committee

The plan of advancing money to zemindars, planters, and others for the improvement and maintenance of village communications proved successful. Most of the important village roads have been raised, and bridges made on them.

Trees have already been planted along 13 miles of the Chupra-Sewan road, and 10 miles of the Chupra-Sutterghat road. Nurseries are kept up at Chupra and Musrukh.

The main roads of the district are reported to be in good condition. The steamer communication between Sarun and Patna districts has proved a great boon to the public.

The different establishments under the Committee have, on the whole, worked well.

H. LEE,
Vice-Chairman.

Abstract of a report by the Chairman of the District Road Committee, Chumparun, on the Committee's operations for the cess-year 1881-82.

THE working of the Cess Act, IX (B.C.) of 1880, does not call for any special remark. The year under review closed with an outstanding balance of Rs. 2,382, out of which Rs. 998 have been collected up to 31st December last. There were four meetings of the Sudder District Committee held during the year, and there was only one meeting of the Bettiah Branch Committee, the members of which supervised the works in their own respective neighbourhoods, and in those parts of the sub-division which are not represented on the Committee. One hundred and thirty-six village roads, with an estimated length of 497¾ miles, have been repaired, and small wooden bridges and pipe culverts have been built on some of them.

Twenty thousand six hundred and ninety-two trees have been planted along the sides of the roads, and a great number of the trees planted in past years are growing well.

The different establishments under the Committee have performed their work satisfactorily during the year under report.

No 180G, dated Bankipore, the 12th March 1883.

From—F. M. HALLIDAY, Esq., Commissioner of the Patna Division,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department.

I HAVE the honour to forward in original the annual reports and accounts of receipts and expenditure of the District Road Fund for the cess year 1881-82 of the several districts in this division.

2. The total receipts in the division during the year amounted to Rs. 16,25,297-2-6, inclusive of Rs. 3,05,193-13-4, the balance in hand on the 1st October 1880, and Rs. 1,45,382-11-4 representing for the most part "deposits" and "advances." Eliminating the latter sum, the net receipts aggregated Rs. 14,79,914-7-2, inclusive of Rs. 54,845, the Government grant for Sikrana bridge in the Chumparun district, against Rs. 14,48,369-14-2 as shewn in the budget. The net disbursements of the year amounted to Rs. 12,19,068-6-5, against the budget allotment of Rs. 13,86,146-7-10.

3. The following table shews the estimated and actual expenditure under the principal headings during the past cess year as contrasted with the actuals of the preceding year:—

Districts.	Estimate for 1881-82.			Actuals of 1881-82.			Actuals of 1880-81.

7. Durbhunga ...	78,162	56,191	30,608	72,615	49,610	31,078	66,022	70,946	18,948
Total ...	6,64,431	4,44,552	2,44,053	5,35,884	4,19,278	2,22,241	5,27,580	3,50,048	1,46,464

4. On a reference to the figures in the above statement it will be seen that although Rs. 5,35,884, or about 37 per cent. of the total receipts of the year, have been spent on original works during the year, against Rs. 5,27,580 in the previous year, still the expenditure has fallen short of the budget allotments under this head by Rs. 1,28,547. All the District Committees, except those of Patna and Shahabad, have failed to appropriate the whole of the budget allotments; but notably so the districts of Gya and Mozufferpore. The former has spent only Rs. 1,55,081 out of Rs. 2,18,133, and the latter Rs. 29,579 out of Rs. 71,818. The reasons for this short expenditure in respect to budget allotments in these two districts are—1*stly*, that the project for the road from Seetamurhee to Mozufferpore, for which provision was made in the budget of the district to the amount of nearly Rs. 45,000, has been held in abeyance under Government orders until the scheme for connecting Seetamurhee with Tirhoot State Railway by a branch railway has been finally settled; 2*ndly*, the suspension of the construction of the Jummoon and Harguana bridges on the Bela-Ticari and Bela-Khiderserai roads respectively in the Gya district, pending a reconsideration and settlement of the question of bridging the Boorea, Doordha, and Morhur rivers (costing nearly a lakh and a half rupees) on the same line of road in the one case, and the proposal for substituting masonry piers for screw-piles in the other.

5. The result is, however, satisfactory in the case of repairs. Out of a budget estimate of Rs. 4,44,552, the actual expenditure amounted to Rs. 4,19,278, against Rs. 3,50,048 laid out in the previous year. The roads have generally been kept in fair order in the districts, but there is certainly much room for improvement in Mozufferpore and Durbhunga.

6. The amount spent on different establishments was Rs. 2,22,241, or nearly 19 per cent. on the net aggregate income of the several districts during the year. Although much within the limits prescribed in section 135 of the Bengal Cess Act of 1880, it has exceeded the expenditure of last year under this head by Rs. 75,877. The excess, however, is chiefly due to the appointment of the Divisional Superintendent of Works in the one hand, and the entertainment of extra establishments for revaluation works in the other in the districts of Patna, Sarun, and Durbhunga.

7. The District Committees have generally worked well. The Branch Committee of Hajeepore exercised the full powers of a District Committee during the year under review within the sub-division of Hajeepore in the Mozufferpore district. Later in the year, however, a misunderstanding arose as to the position and powers of the District Engineer of Mozufferpore in respect to the works executed by this Branch Committee. A reference was made to Government on the subject, and the result was that orders were received to the effect that the servies of the District Engineer should be fully utilized, and his duties should be extended so as to include all the local works of the district. This, however, did not satisfy the Committees concerned, and some further correspondence ensued on the subject. Ultimately the submission of a separate budget estimate for the Hajeepore Branch Committee for the current year was withheld, and the works of the sub-division were included in the district budget of Mozufferpore. This proceeding being considered irregular unde the provisions of the Bengal Cess Act, a reference has been made to Government on the subject, and the question of the position and powers of Hajeepore Branch Committee during the current cess year awaits orders.

8. In the beginning of the year under report Mr. H. Joll was appointed Divisional Engineer, and he joined his appointment on the 9th November 1881.

My acknowledgments are specially due to him for the able manner in which he has controlled and superintended the general administration of the road cess works.

Mr. Joll during the year visited and made himself personally acquainted with the principal portion of the whole of the districts in the division. He effected a very large saving in the Gya district by the stoppage of heavy but comparatively useless work on the Bela and Ticari road, and in conjunction with the Chairman by the diversion of the funds to works more calculated to generally benefit the district. He has by the modification of designs and estimates in most of the other districts in the division, contributed to important saving of funds without detracting from the utility of the works. I have also received valuable assistance from Mr. Joll in directing the attention of Committees and their officers, whenever necessary, to the Government orders promulgated for their guidance, with the view of eventually bringing about a more perfect system and method of working than has hitherto existed. The results of Mr. Joll's careful supervision have amply testified to the necessity and advisability of having such an appointment as his attached to the Commissioner's office.

DISTRICT ROAD FUND.

NOTIFICATION No. 220.

Dated the 7th June 1883.

THE following annual accounts and abstracts of the reports of the Road Cess Committees of the districts of Cuttack, Pooree, and Balasore, for the cess year 1881-82, together with the remarks thereon of the Commissioner of the Orissa Division, are published for general information.

G. F. E. S. NEILL, Major, M.S.C.,
Under-Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, P. W. Dept.

Abstract of a report by the Chairman of the District Road Cess Committee, Cuttack, on the Committee's operations for the cess year 1881-82.

THE certificate procedure has now been in force in this district for more than a year. It is no doubt a sure method for recovery of all public demands, and has its advantages in that way, but it does not seem to be well adapted to a district where three-fourths of the cess arrears have to be realized in small fractions of a rupee from petty lakhirajdars, who are generally very careless about payment.

Applications were frequently received for the construction of village roads, but they could not be complied with in full, owing to insufficiency of funds at the disposal of the Committee. The village communications in the Jajpore sub-division, with the exception of a few in the Jajpore thana, are reported to be in fair condition, and those in the Kendraparah sub-division in thorough repair.

The trees planted along the different roads in the district in previous years are generally thriving well with a few exceptions. Those that died during the year have been replaced by seedlings of common trees obtained from the adjacent neighbourhoods.

All the existing roads in the district were generally repaired, and no new work has been executed during the year.

The different establishments under the Road Cess Committee have performed their duties satisfactorily.

CUTTACK ROAD CESS OFFICE;
The 28th December 1882.

POORNO CHUNDER ROY,
Vice-Chairman, for Chairman.

Abstract of a report by the Chairman of the District Road Cess Committee, Pooree, on the Committee's operations for the cess year 1881-82.

THE cess was realized during the year at the maximum rate in this district, and the precentage of collection on demand was above 95 per cent.

The working of the District and the Branch Committees was satisfactory, the average attendance of the members at meetings being 5·2 and 6 respectively.

A sum of Rs. 2,437 was spent on village communications, both by the District and Branch Committees, against Rs. 1,829 in the previous year. Twenty-three new village roads have been constructed, and ten old ones repaired during the year.

Rupees 300 was spent in planting trees along the sides of Balighai and Madhab road. A sum of Rs. 396 was also spent in preserving the trees that had been planted on the Armstrong road, and Pipli-Khordah road, in previous years, and also in planting some new trees on those roads.

All the roads in the district are reported to be in good order.

Abstract of a report by the Chairman of the District Road Cess Committee, Balasore, on the Committee's operations for the cess-year 1881 82.

THE new Cess Act has given rise to no complaint. The provisions for the speedy collection of arrears have been affected by the instructions contained in Board's circular No. 8 of August 1882, which, it was feared, would throw much unnecessary cost on the fund. The Board's ruling has, however, been modified since the close of the year.

The Sudder and the Sub-Divisional Committees consisted of 16 and 13 members respectively, whose average attendance was 3·2 in the former and 6 in the latter

The full sum allotted for the village roads of the Bhudruck sub-division has been utilized. Two applications for grants were received and sanctioned for roads in the Balasore sub-division.

The plants in the nursery gardens were preserved, and seedlings planted during the year. The trees planted in the previous years have been protected and are thriving well.

All the original works undertaken during the year under report have been completed, and almost all the roads in the Sudder and Bhudruck sub-divisions were repaired and kept passable throughout the year.

The different establishments under the Road Committee are reported to have given satisfaction.

H. BEADON,
Chairman.

No. 760, dated Cuttack, the 22nd March 1883.

From—A. SMITH, ESQ., Commissioner of the Orissa Division,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department.

I HAVE the honour to forward herewith, in original, the annual accounts and reports of the several Road Cess Committees of the Orissa Division for the cess year 1881-82, for publication in the Calcutta Gazette, under section 179 of the Cess Act IX (B.C.) of 1880.

2. The reports appear to have been prepared in accordance with the instructions conveyed in Government order No. 973A of the 14th September 1880, and in the preparation of the accounts the classification prescribed in Government resolution No. 201A of the 26th February 1880 has, as far as practicable, been observed.

3. The duplicates of the accounts have, as reported by the Chairman of the Committees, been directly forwarded to the Accountant-General, Bengal, as required by Government order No. 21A of the 6th January 1881.

4. The annual accounts cannot be checked in this office in accordance with paragraph 12 of the explanatory notes received with Government order No. 173A of the 11th February 1878, owing to the non-receipt of the return of receipts and expenditure of the several District Road Cess Committees for the fourth quarter.

5. The actual receipts of the year compared with those of the two previous years are shewn below, together with the estimate for the year under review :—

10. The subjoined table shews the proposed and actual outlay on works during the year :—

	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Cuttack	6,779	6,738	34,293	34,043	41,072	40,771	99·2

Balasore	5,543	5,509	14,556	13,246	20,099	18,755	93·3
Total	29,299	22,430	56,761	54,970	86,060	77,400	89·9

11. The following figures shew the expenditure incurred on village roads in each district, as compared with the previous years :—

DISTRICT.	Grants, 1881-82.	Expenditure, 1881-82.	Expenditure, 1880-81.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Cuttack	5,035	4,964	8,234
Pooree	2,500	2,437	1,829
Balasore	2,500	1,465	1,490
Total	10,035	8,866	11,553

12. It will be observed from the above figures that less was spent during the year in Cuttack and Balasore on village roads than in the year preceeding, which again contrasted unfavourably in this respect with 1879-80, as noticed in paragraph 13 of my last report. The attention of the Chairman will again be drawn to the importance of improving the means of communication between villages themselves on the one hand and between them and the main roads on the other.

13. In Pooree a larger amount was provided for village roads than was spent on this account in the preceding year, and nearly the whole of the provision was utilized.

14. The Chairman of the Cuttack Committee reports that all the roads in this district are in fair working order, except a few village roads in thana Jajpore, which were damaged by the floods of July and August last.

15. In Balasore almost all the roads were repaired and kept passable during the year, but the heavy rains at the close of the year having injured some repairs are being made to them.

16. The roads in Pooree are reported to be generally good.

17. Both the Collectors of Cuttack and Balasore complain of the cumbrous and dilatory procedure of Act VII (B.C.) of 1880, and the former, writing on this subject, says:—"I beg to remark that the certificate procedure has now been in force for more than a year. It is no doubt a sure method for recovering of all public demands, and has its advantages in that way. But it does not seem to be well adapted to a district where three-fourths of the cess arrears have to be realized in small fractions of a rupee from petty lakhrajdars who are generally very careless about payment."

18. I have, in paragraph 17 of my last year's report, No. 330 of the 17th February 1882, stated my views in regard to the difficulties which the present Public Demands Recovery Act places in the way of quick realization of the arrears of cesses as well as of other public dues. The experience of the year that has since elapsed has only confirmed the opinion I then expressed.

LAND SALE NOTICES.

NOTICE is hereby given that the proprietary right of Government, as specified in the conditions of sale below, to the undermentioned estate situate in the the district of the Santhal Pergunnahs will be put up to sale at the Dumka Collectorate on the 28th June 1883, corresponding with 15th Assar 1290 B. S.

The purchaser will be subject to the following conditions of sale:—

Conditions of Sale.

1*st*.—The estate to be sold to the highest bidder above the upset price. The purchaser of this estate will be considered as the proprietor of the estate, and the entire proprietary right of Government in such estate will be transferred to him subject to the revenue fixed in perpetuity.

2*nd*.—The sale to be subject to existing leases and to the rights conferred by the settlement proceedings, and by the laws in force, and purchasers to be bound to respect the rights of resident cultivators who have signed the schedule of assessment prepared by the revenue authorities.

3*rd*.—If the amount of the purchase-money do not exceed Rs. 100, the whole amount to be paid down at once.

4*th*.—If the amount of purchase-money exceed Rs. 100, one-fourth of the amount bid to be immediately deposited. If the balance be not paid by noon of the fifteenth day after the sale, reckoning the day of sale as one, or if that day be a close holiday, then by noon of the first succeeding office day, the sale to be cancelled (the sum deposited being forfeited to Government), and the estate to be again put up to sale at the risk of the defaulting purchaser after issue of advertisement as in the case of original sale.

NOTICE is hereby given that the lease of the land specified in the schedule hereunto annexed, and of which the plan is open to inspection at the office of the Commissioner of the Sunderbuns, has been applied for by Joggessur Chatterjee, and will be sold at 12 o'clock noon on the 29th August 1883, Wednesday (14th Bhadro 1290 B.E.), at the Sunderbun Commissioner's office at Alipur, unless meantime the sale is stopped or postponed in consequence of claims or objections under Act XXIII of 1863 (to provide the adjudication of claims to waste lands) or owing to any other cause.

2. The lease of the land will be granted subject to the conditions which are specified below as well as to the general terms annexed to the rules for the sale of leases of waste lands, dated 12th November 1879.

Conditions.

That the land shall be subject to all existing rights of way and water and other easements.

That the right of using all streams and channels in any way navigable shall be reserved to public, as also the use of a towpath not less than 25 feet in width on each side of every such stream and channel.

That no charge shall be made for wood and timber standing on the land at the time it is leased, nor for any wood which may be cut and burnt to effect clearances or which may be used on the lands. But for wood and timber exported for sale, a duty shall be levied at such rate and in such manner as may from time to time be prescribed by Government.

That the Government reserves to itself the right to all minerals in the land together with such right of way and other reasonable facilities as may be requisite for working, getting, and carrying any such minerals. It also retains its proprietary right in the land and only confers on the lessees an occupancy right which shall be hereditary and transferable.

IT is hereby notified that the undermentioned estate belonging to one Nanda Gopal Sing, who is a defendant in a criminal case and has absconded, was attached under section 172 of Act X of 1872; due notices were issued. The six months' time allowed in the notice having expired, and the absconder not having made his appearance in court, the property has come to the disposal of Government. Under the direction contained in Government order No. 1891J of the 26th March last, the said property will be put up to public sale at the Hooghly Collector's cutcherry on the 19th June 1883, corresponding with the 6th Ashar 1290 B. S. The purchaser will be subject to the following conditions:—

Conditions of Sales.

1. It will be sold to the highest bidder above the upset price. The purchaser will be considered the proprietor of the estate, and he will continue to pay the revenue fixed for it.

2. The conditions of the patta granted to the ryots of the estate will be maintained; the acknowledged rights that have been acquired by any law that is in force will also be maintained.

3. If the purchase money does not exceed Rs. 100, the purchaser will have to pay it in full immediately.

4. If the price exceeds Rs. 100, one-fourth of the purchase-money will have to be deposited at the time of the sale. The remainder is to be paid before 12 o'clock of the 15th day of the sale. If the balance is not paid within the aforesaid time, this sale will be cancelled, and the deposit will be forfeited to Government, and the property will again be put up to sale at the risk of the purchaser, and the proclamation as at present will have to be issued.

REPORT ON THE WORKING OF THE JUTE WAREHOUSE ACT IN CALCUTTA DURING 1882-83.

No. 18, dated Calcutta, the 26th May 1883.

From—H. L. HARRISON, Esq., Chairman of the Corporation of the Town of Calcutta,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department.

I HAVE the honour to submit the following report under section 27 of Act V (B.C.) of 1879 on the jute screw and warehouses in the town of Calcutta for the year ending 31st March 1883.

2. The year preceding closed with 73 sanctioned warehouses on the register. The licenses for 25 of these had been renewed in advance, those for two were cancelled, and the rest with ten additional premises were licensed during the year under report. Besides which storage of jute was allowed in two more warehouses on fees deposited, pending sanction of licenses which have since been granted, and the plan and site were approved of for construction of a new warehouse which is nearing its completion at No. 13, Hurro Chunder Mullik's Street.

3. The total number of licensed warehouses therefore on the 31st March last was thus 81, the total used for jute purposes having been 83, a complete list whereof is annexed

4. The receipts estimated on account of jute licenses for the year were Rs. 22,250, while the fees realised amounted to Rs. 24,375. Licenses for the ensuing year were also applied for and issued in respect of 26 warehouses, and fees aggregating Rs. 7,200 paid in within the last month. The increase in the receipts over the estimate is accounted for by the increase in the number of licensed warehouses owing to the expansion of the jute trade.

5. Only two prosecutions were instituted for drying jute on roofs without sanction of the Commissioners, but as it was the first time that any infringement of the law had been committed in respect of the godowns in question, the sitting Magistrate, while strictly warning the parties against a recurrence of the offence, imposed a nominal fine of Rs 2 on each.

6. Although several fires broke out during the year, both in town and suburbs, no fire took place on any jute premises in the town. The Riverside press house burnt down in February 1882 was reconstructed with much expedition, and the Company resumed their business during the jute season just out.

7. The following is a statement of receipts and expenditure of the Jute-warehouse Fund to close of the year under review;—

Receipts.	Rs.	A.	P.	Disbursements.	Rs.	A.	P.
Fees realized for the year 1882-83 ...	24,375	0	0	Deficit balance on the 31st March 1882	2,885	9	4
Miscellaneous receipts (fines, &c.) ...	243	0	0	Pay of inspection establishment ...	3,807	0	0
Fees paid in advance for 1883-84 ...	7,200	0	0	Contingent charges	25	12	0
				Contribution towards expenses of the fire-brigade	17,721	11	10
				Pay of jute police	765	0	0
				Actual balance on 31st March 1883	6,612	14	10

8. The real balance, however, after allowing for the unpaid liabilities of the last year results in a deficit of Rs. 8,754-1-2, as shewn below—

	Rs.	A.	P.	Rs.	A.	P.
Actual balance as above				6,612	14	10
Deduct—
Fees realised for 1883-84	7,200	0	0
Cost of fire-brigade for the quarter ending 31st March 1883	8,167	7	6
				15,367	7	6
Net deficit				8,754	1	2

This deficiency partly represents the expenditure incurred in excess of the fire-brigade budget grants subsequently sanctioned and necessitated by several large fires which occurred at Strand, Nimtollah, and Suburbs, putting very unusual strain upon the resources of the brigade.

9. The Town Council has already sanctioned a subsidy out of the general fund to meet this deficit, so as to enable the new funds of 20 per cent. and 80 per cent. of the receipts respectively to start fair; but it now appears from the date on which the Act has been published after obtaining the assent of the Governor-General that the arrangement will only take effect from the middle of May.

STATISTICAL DEPARTMENT,
The 9th June 1883.

COLMAN MACAULAY,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

VITAL STATISTICS OF THE FIRST CLASS MUNICIPALITIES IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 26TH MAY 1883.

THE following table presents the birth and death statistics of 23 municipalities, containing a population of 998,183, for the week ending 26th May 1883—returns from the remaining 4 not having been received. During this period births were registered at the rate of 17·8 per 1,000 of population, and deaths at 33·7 per 1,000. There are no data available for the corresponding week of the past year; but in comparison with the statistics of the preceding week ending 19th May, the birth-rate was very nearly the same, and the death-rate higher by 2·8 per 1,000. In fatality according to Race, Hindus present the highest death-rate, viz 34·8 per 1,000 of population; Christians the next proportion, 31·3 per 1,000; and the Mahomedans the lowest, 31·1 per 1,000. No deaths occurred among the other Races. In relation to Age, the mortality was highest among infants, the mean death-rate furnished by them being 325 per 1,000 of the living; children of 1 and under 5 years of age suffered in the next degree, viz at 60 per 1,000; and the aged took the next rank, perishing at 58 per 1,000. The lowest death-rate occurred among those aged 10 to 15 years, viz. 16 per 1,000. The ratios of infantile mortality in the towns individually considered, vary very considerably, ranging from 70 per 1,000 in Midnapore to 735 per 1,000 in Purneah, the former proportion and others assimilating it, being open to very considerable doubt.

In comparison with the preceding week there was more cholera and small-pox, and less bowel-complaints; but fever, although not excessive, prevailed almost as fatally. The two first-named diseases prevailed with the greatest severity in the following Municipalities:—

Cholera.	Ratio per mille.	Small-pox.	Ratio per mille.
Mozufferpore ..	.. 30·4	Patna ..	.. 8·4
Patna ..	.. 20·4	Gya ..	.. 3·4
Arrah ..	.. 14·3	Durbhanga ..	.. 2·4
Howrah ..	.. 10·8
Durbhanga ..	.. 9·4
Gya ..	.. 6·1
Burdwan ..	.. 6·1
Hughli ..	.. 5·4

showing that during this week these diseases were mostly prevalent in the Behar towns The only towns in which fever was markedly fatal are Santipore in Nuddea and Purneah, where the death-rates stood at 34·5 and 34·6 per 1,000 of population respectively.

Explanation Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical averages or means of the readings during the same. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed as a percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. In the "stations, rainfall," the normal means are the numerical means or averages of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the subdivisional stations, (i.e.) the total rainfall at the sub-divisional stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy

METEOROLOGICAL OFFICE, BENGAL,
The 8th June 1883.

JOHN ELIOT,
Meteorological Reporter to the Government of Bengal.

SUMMARY OF METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, 8TH JUNE 1883.

BEFORE commencing this the first weekly statement of the meteorological observations taken under the recently sanctioned extended scheme for Bengal, it appears desirable to state the chief features of the weather and meteorology of the past three months, and their probable connection with the approaching monsoon.

The most important features in the meteorology of Northern India have been excessive temperature, unusual dryness of the air, stronger winds than usual, with a strong northerly element in the wind directions. Frequent storms with snowfall have occurred in the Himalayas, and hot weather storms in Upper India, some of which appear to have been abnormally violent. In Bengal, the southerly winds have for a part of the time been unusually strong. The combination of these with the very dry winds of the Gangetic Valley has given excessive rainfall to the eastern districts of Bengal, and deficient rainfall to the Behar and Chutia Nagpur areas, or to the western half of the province. That this has been mainly, if not entirely, due to the stormy weather, and the large snowfall in the Himalayas, is probable, if not almost certain. The effect of heat over a large area is to set up a vertical ascending or convection current with its attendant horizontal circulations. Similarly, the effect of cooling a large area is to set up circulation of an opposite kind, viz. downward convection currents with the corresponding lateral circulation of indraught and outdraught. Hence it is certain that increased snowfall over a large area like the Himalayan district would produce a stronger downward current over that area than usual, which would evidently show itself in the plains of Northern India by an increase in the northerly element of the winds. Again, just as an ascending mass of air becomes moister and cooler by the mere process of ascension, so a descending mass will become hotter and drier Hence the descent of larger masses of air than usual from the hills towards the plains would evidently give rise over Northern India to diminished humidity and to excessive temperature. The effect would be further increased at and near the earth's surface by a secondary consequence, viz. that a larger proportion of the solar radiation or sun's heat would pass through the drier air and be effective in heating the earth's surface and the superincumbent air.

Hence the occurrence of excessive snow during the pre-monsoon months would be almost certainly accompanied with very high temperature and excessive dryness of the air in Northern India. The meteorological conditions in the Bengal Province are more complex, as it is under the influence not only of the dry land winds of Upper India, but also of the sea winds at the head of the Bay which are related in strength to the former. The general character of the weather in Bengal during the past two months has been indicated in the summaries of rainfall for April and May published in the Gazette.

The most satisfactory method of estimating the differences between the meteorological conditions of the present year and the normal conditions is by means of the abnormal variations of pressure. The following are the most important :—

1*st*.—The abnormal variations for the whole of India are negative for the months of January to May, or pressure has been on the average over the whole country lower than the normal by the following amounts :—

	Barometric abnormal variations in thousandths of an inch.
January	6
February	0
March	5
April	17
May	40

2*nd*.—The abnormal barometric variations for Northern India, including the Punjab North-Western Provinces, Oudh, Behar, Orissa, Bengal, Assam and a part of the Central Provinces, are negative for each of the pre-monsoon months—March to May. The amounts are nowhere large. The complete returns for Northern India indicate that the deficiency is greatest at the plain stations nearest to the hills. Hence pressure is almost certainly in defect over Northern India, the deficiency decreasing in amount southwards.

3*rd*.—The local abnormal barometric variations are positive for the whole of Western and Southern India, with one or two unimportant exceptions.

The variations are largest, and exceed 20 (thousandths of an inch) over an area defined by the observing stations of Surat, Khandwa, Bombay, Malegaon, Poona, and Sholapore, and are greatest at Malegaon (where they are + 44 for the pre-monsoon period). Malegaon is practically the centre of the districts represented by these stations.

4*th*.—The positive variations are also large at the South Burmah and Aracan stations of Rangoon, Diamond Island, and Akyab. The variation for Rangoon (if correct) is + 40.

If it be assumed that these features are persistent, and represent peculiarities or abnormal conditions of the meteorology of the country which are likely to continue and influence the rains, and that deficiency of pressure or negative abnormal variations are usually associated with increased rainfall, and positive variations with diminished rainfall, the following are the more important probabilities with respect to the present monsoon :—

1*st*.—That the monsoon rainfall will be almost certainly up to the average generally, and probably abundant over the greater part of India.

2nd.—That the rainfall in Northern India, and more especially in Assam, Bengal, Behar, and the adjacent districts of the North-Western Provinces, will be quite up to the average, and will probably be abundant along, and in the immediate neighbourhood of, the hills.

3rd.—That there may be a considerable deficiency of rainfall in Burmah and perhaps Arakan.

4th.—That whilst rainfall will probably be about the average in the Malabar coast and adjacent districts, there is a strong probability of deficient rainfall in the Poona, Sholapore, and adjacent districts of the Bombay Presidency.

The materials have not yet been collected for an extension of the principle to the determination of the probable character of the rains of a single province. The general inference is that the rains will, so far as can be judged from the antecedent conditions, probably be normal throughout the province of Bengal, and abundant in the neighbourhood of the hills.

The past week commenced with high pressure. It gradually and slowly gave way, until at the end of the week it was about a tenth of an inch below the average. Temperature was excessive during the greater part of the week. Southerly winds continued on the Bengal Coast. On the last two days of the week the monsoon current was advancing along the Pegu and Arakan coasts, to which it gave moderately heavy rain. Before this rain fell in local showers in every part of the province, but ceased for two or three days from the 7th, whilst the monsoon was advancing along the east coast. During this period also westerly winds again set in for a brief period in Behar, and gave excessive temperature and dryness of the air. The present week will probably witness the establishment of the monsoon in Bengal.

Saturday, June 2nd.—The barometer fell briefly over the whole province by amounts varying from 11″ at Gya to ·02″ at Chittagong. Pressure was above the average for the day. Temperature was everywhere excessive. The mean temperature of the previous 24 hours was 7° above the average in Behar and 4° in South-West Bengal. Winds were unusually light. Westerly winds continued in Behar and Chutia Nagpur when the air was very dry. Local storms with light rain occurred in the Balasore district and 24-Pergunnahs and in East Bengal. The heaviest rainfall reported was 1·92 inches at Commillah.

Sunday, June 3rd.—The barometer continued to fall, except in North Behar and at Burdwan. Pressure was above the normal of the day by amounts ranging from ·01″ at Gya to ·11″ at Calcutta. The mean temperature of the past 24 hours was 7° above the average in North Behar, 5° in South Behar, 4° in East Bengal, and 1° in South-West Bengal. Easterly winds were extending in Behar and giving increased cloud amount. Thunderstorms and showers occurred in the Khoolna and Jessore districts, the 24-Pergunnahs, the Backergunge, Rungpore, Cooch Behar, and Durbhanga districts. Very light local showers also fell at a few other stations. The heaviest falls were 2·72 inches at Buxa and 2·34 inches at Buseerhaut.

Monday, June 4th.—A fresh fall of the barometer reduced pressure slightly below the average for the day. Winds were now increasing in strength at the head of the Bay. Easterly winds were also extending westwards in Behar. Temperature was either normal or slightly below it. The humidity of the air and the cloud amount were increasing, more especially in Behar and Chutia Nagpur. Rain fell more generally than on the previous day. The Pooree, Burdwan, Moorshedabad districts, and the more northern districts of North Bengal, received moderate to heavy rain. Light local showers of limited extent occurred in other districts. The heaviest rainfalls were 4·5 inches at Cooch Behar, 3·06 inches at Dinhatta (Cooch Behar district), and 1·69 inches at Azimgunge (in the Moorshedabad district).

Tuesday, June 5th.—Pressure again gave way briskly over the province, and was now reduced below the normal for the day by amounts varying from ·12″ at Chittagong to ·03″ at Durbhanga. Winds were light and unsteady. Easterly winds were now established in Behar. The mean daily temperature was 3° below the average in Orissa, Chutia Nagpur, and Behar. The humidity and amounts of cloud continued to increase in Behar and Chutia Nagpur, and were slightly above their normal value. Rain, more or less general, fell in North and East Bengal, and in the eastern districts of South-West Bengal, and local showers in the 24-Pergunnahs, Howrah and Nuddea districts. The heaviest rainfalls that were reported were 4·35 inches at Fenny and 2·26 inches at Commillah.

Wednesday, 6th.—The barometer continued to fall, but less briskly. Pressure was below the normal by amounts which varied from ·05″ in Chutia Nagpur to ·17″ in Eastern Bengal. In consequence of deficiency of pressure in Eastern Bengal, westerly winds set in over Orissa, South West Bengal, and Chutia Nagpur. Temperature hence increased rapidly, and was 2½° above the average in South-West Bengal. The air was much damper in North Bengal and Behar, and drier in Orissa. General rain fell in Behar with the change of wind, and local showers in East Bengal. Rainfalls exceeding an inch were recorded at Deoghur, Nowadah, Mozufferpore, Motiharee, and Gopalgunge.

Thursday, 7th.—The barometer was steady, but with a tendency to rise. Temperature was slightly above the normal in Orissa, Bengal, and North Behar, and below it in South Behar. The westerly winds in South Behar, Chutia Nagpur, and South-West Bengal began to give way. They had cleared the sky from cloud in Behar and South-West Bengal. The humidity in South Behar had fallen 20 per cent in 24 hours. No rain fell on this day, except a few showers in East Bengal and the north-eastern districts of North Bengal.

Friday, June 8th.—A slight rise of the barometer occurred during the past day. Pressure was below the average over the province by amounts which varied from ·05″ in North Behar to ·15″ in East Bengal. Winds were unusually light and shifted round to east again in South Behar. Hence the humidity and cloud amount again began to increase in Behar, more especially in South Behar. Temperature was generally above the average. The main temperature of the preceding 24 hours was 4° above the normal in South-West Bengal. Very little rain fell on this day. A few light showers fell in East Bengal, the heaviest of which was one of 1·73 inches at Naraingunge.

The rainfall of the past week has been very considerably below the average everywhere. Light to moderate local showers, more or less limited in extent, occurred throughout the Province from the 2nd to the 6th. The setting in of the monsoon with heavy rain in the Pegu and Aracan Coast diminished for the remainder of the week the rainfall in Bengal. A few local showers fell in East Bengal on Thursday and Friday. Over the rest of the Province the sky was clear. The following table shows that the rainfall of the week was everywhere in defect. In Bengal barely 40 per cent. of the normal amount was registered, in Orissa 50 per cent., in Behar 80 per cent,, and in Chutia Nagpur only 20 per cent.

	Normal rainfall, 1st to 8th June.	Average rainfall, 1st to 8th June 1883.	Percentage of actual to normal.	Normal rainfall of week from 2nd to 8th June.	Average rainfall of week from 2nd to 8th June 1883.	Percentage of actual to normal rainfall for last week.

The average fall of the corresponding period for 24 years, S. G. Office ...	...	12·34

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86 formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The direction of the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

c overcast, g gloomy, d drizzling rain, t thunder, / strong wind, lr lightning reflection, ≤ lightning, p passing temporary showers.

JOHN ELIOT,
Meteorological Reporter to the Government of Bengal.

RAINFALL SUMMARY OF THE MONTH OF MAY 1883.

THE meteorological conditions of the month of May are generally similar to those of April, with the exception that the contrast between land and sea is more strongly marked. Temperature increases very rapidly in Northern India, and the seat of maximum temperature is transferred from the Cent al Provinces to South Behar, Chutia Nagpur, the southern districts of the North-West Provinces and Rajputana. The hot dry land winds blowing down the Gangetic valley and across the Chutia Nagpur plateau increase in strength until the third or fourth week of the month. As a further result of the same general atmospheric conditions, the sea breezes at the head of the Bay also usually intensify during the month, more especially in the western angle of the Bay, where the southerly winds blow somewhat more strongly than they do during the rains They also extend to some distance further down the Bay than in April. Hence they bring up larger quantities of aqueous vapour, but under similar conditions to those of the preceding month. Hence also rain falls in larger amounts throughout the province in May than in April, but occur under similar circumstances; that is during thunderstorms, nor-westers, &c. The general distribution of the rainfall of the month is also similar to what it is for April. The lines of equal amounts of rainfall run nearly due north and south, or more or less parallel to the general direction of the hill barrier of Eastern Bengal.

The average rainfall of the month is less than 2 inches over the southern parts of the Chaprah and Mozufferpore districts, the Gya and Shahabad districts, and Chutia Nagpur. It increases from 2 to 5 inches from a line defining and limiting the above districts from the rest of Bengal to a line running through Arrareah (in the Purneah district), Raigunj (in the Dinagepore district), Meherpore (in the Nuddea district), Burdwan, Ghattal (in the Midnapore district) and Saugor Island. Between this line and a line running through Rungpore, Jamalpore (in the Mymensingh district) Brahmunberiah (in the Tipperah district), Commillah and Cox's Bazar (in the Chittagong district), it increases from 5 to 10 inches. To the east of the last line, that is over the eastern portion of the Mymensingh, Tipperah, and Chittagong districts, and in Cooch Behar and the Western Duars, it exceeds 10 inches, and increases rapidly in amount in the immediate neighbourhood of the Garo and Khasia hills, and the hills of the Western Duars, and up the sides of these hills to a limit of perhaps 3,000 or 4,000 feet.

The rainfall of the month occurred during two different sets of conditions. From the 1st to the 21st low barometer, with unusually strong south-westerly winds prevailed over Bengal. They brought up much aqueous vapour, which was condensed and deposited as rain, chiefly in Eastern and Northern Bengal, and more especially over the districts between the Tipperah and the Garo and Khasia hills. The rainfall was specially heavy in the Silchar district of Assam, and gave rise to excessive floods. Frequent showers also fell from the 1st to the 5th in South-West Bengal and Orissa. In Behar and Chutia Nagpur the weather was hot and dry, and the skies cloudless. From the 5th to the 17th very little rain fell in South-West Bengal, Orissa or Behar. There were here and there a few local showers of little importance. Several showers occurred on the 18th, and more or less general rain fell on the 19th and 20th in South-West Bengal, North Behar and the Sonthal Pergunnahs.

On the 21st the barometer began to rise rapidly and was above the average during the latter part of the month The south-west winds suddenly fell off, and were much below their average strength during the remainder of the month. The rainfall which now accompanied them was much less than before. Hardly any rain fell between the 21st and 25th, except in Orissa During the last week of the month local showers, over more or less limited areas, occurred in every part of the province, the total amount of the rainfall decreasing slightly from east to west.

The rainfall of the month was in excess over the Julpigori, Cooch Behar, Dinagepore and Rungpore districts of North Bengal; the Mymensingh, Tipperah and Chittagong districts of East Bengal; over a narrow area at the foot of the Orissa hills stretching from Cuttack to Balasore, and over a portion of Central Bengal including the Bhirbhum, Burdwan, Moorshedabad, Pubna, North Nuddea and Fureedpore districts The excess in the amount of the rainfall for the month was over four inches in the Pubna district, part of Cooch Behar, Mymensingh, Tipperah and Chittagong, and over eight inches in the Chittagong district and the more eastern parts of the Mymensingh district.

The rainfall of the month was below the average over the whole of Behar and Chutia Nagpur, and the Maldah and Bogra districts of North Bengal, South-West Bengal (excluding the Bhirbhum, Burdwan, Moorshedabad and North Nuddea districts) and the south-western districts of East Bengal. The deficiency was less than 2 inches over the greater part of this area. It varied from 2 to 4 inches over a small portion of the Purneah district, of which Kissengunj was the centre, and over a long narrow area stretching from Chyebassa through Calcutta to Barrisal. The deficiency in this area was greatest at Calcutta and its neighbourhood, where it averaged 4 inches.

The general distribution of rainfall during the month of May was generally similar to that of April. In both months there was excessive rainfall over Eastern and Northern Bengal, and deficient rainfall in Behar and Chutia Nagpur Excessive local rainfall at Raniganj and its neighbourhood was also a feature common to both months. They differed mainly in the rainfall in South-West Bengal and the adjacent districts of East Bengal In May there was general deficiency of from 2° to 4 inches over the whole of this area, whereas in April it received an excess of from 0 to 2 inches. The excessive local rainfall at Chittagong in May stands out in marked contrast to the deficient rainfall in that district in April.

Hence the rainfall of the past two months has been on the whole excessive in Eastern and Northern Bengal, normal in South-West Bengal and Orissa, and defective in Behar and Chutia Nagpur.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park-street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 0·5° greater; and finally, the thermometer, which has furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during the last 20 years and upwards, is found to read 0·6° higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

For Meteorological Reporter to the Govt. of India.

Report of Fluctuation of Traffic on the Eastern Bengal Railway for the month of May 1883.

EASTERN BENGAL RAILWAY COMPANY, TRAFFIC SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE, SEALDAH TERMINUS.

No. W42-17, dated Calcutta, the 19th May 1883.

From—W. INNES, ESQ., Traffic Superintendent, Eastern Bengal Railway Company,

To—The Agent, Eastern Bengal Railway Company.

I BEG to forward the usual comparative statement of traffic for the month of March last, from which it will be seen that the gross weight carried over the railway during that period was 17,09,622 maunds, or 25 per cent over the figures for the corresponding period of 1882.

The principal fluctuations are as under—

Increases.

Cotton, manufactured ... ... 5,952 Mds.

Under this head is included piece-goods. Nearly the whole of the increase is on traffic to Northern Bengal State Railway, which is attributable to the brisk demand at up-country stations for the home made article.

Fibrous products (gunny-bags) ... ... 27,327 Mds.

Notwithstanding the dull market for this staple, it is satisfactory to note that the increase in the traffic over the Railway still continues. It would appear that this staple is being gradually drawn to the railway by the low rates in force.

Hides and skins ... ... 3,389 Mds.

During the month under review there was a brisk demand for Dacca hides, and the traffic in them was consequently stimulated.

Jute, screwed	32,547 Mds.
Do., unscrewed	3,05,820 „
Net Increase ...	3,38,367 „

All stations contribute to the increase. There is still a considerable quantity of last season's crop, which was a heavy one undisposed of, and the quantity secured by the railway must be considered satisfactory.

Miscellaneous ... ... 19,942 Mds.

There is a decrease of 7,000 maunds of Railway materials for the Calcutta and South-Eastern State Railway, which is, however, more than counterbalanced by an increase in materials forwarded for the Bengal Central Railway at present under construction.

Seeds ... ... 12,624 Mds.

It would appear that the Calcutta merchants, in consequence of the dull state of the market, have been securing large quantities from the mofussil in anticipation of a speedy revival.

Sugar ... ... 11,539 Mds.

The whole of this increase is on traffic from Kissengunge, and it appears to be the result of decreased despatches in several months previous to the one under review.

Tobacco ... ... 6,133 Mds.

During the month under review Bispath tobacco was in brisk demand for export, and in consequence merchants have been disposing more freely of their stocks.

Decreases.

Coal and coke ... ... 37,423 Mds.

This decrease is due to the re-opening of the canal between Chitpore and Sealdah. Large quantities of coal are now conveyed by boat instead of by railway for the mills in the vicinity of Sealdah.

Grain and pulse ... ... 6,587 Mds.

The cause of this decrease is attributable to the small demand for exportation.

Salt ... ... 59,797 Mds.

About the beginning of March of last year the duty on salt was reduced, and merchants forwarded very largely about that time on purpose to clear off old stocks.

NOTIFICATION.

The 19th June 1883.—The following sailing directions and Hydrographic descriptions of the port and approaches to Chittagong, and Hydrographic information regarding the Burabalang River, the roadstead of Balasor, and the Dhamra and Baitarani Rivers with the port of Chandbali, are published for general information.

BAY OF BENGAL—ORISSA COAST.

Burabalang River and Balasor.

Variations in 1883, 2° 40′ E.

The following hydrographic information regarding the Burabalang River and roadstead of Balasor has been received from Commander L. S. Dawson, R.N., in charge of the Marine Survey of India, 1883.

BURABALANG RIVER, literally "The Old Twister," rises among the Morbhanj Hills in latitude 21° 24′ N., and longitude 86° 36′ E., and after receiving two small tributaries, the Gangahár and Sunai, wriggles into the sea in latitude 21° 28′ N. and longitude 87° 5′ E. The tide runs up twenty-three miles. In the upper parts of its course the banks are sandy, steep, and cultivated; in the lower part, they are of firm mud, covered to high-water mark with black slime and surrounded by jungle or open grassy plains. Native craft and small sea-going steamers of nine feet draught can navigate as far as the town of Balasor, about sixteen miles up its twisting course, but the sand-bar across the mouth of the river renders the entrance difficult.

While inside Gymkhana bar, about a mile below Balasor, is an unavoidable obstruction, extending, as it does, between sand banks and carrying over it from one to two feet at low water.

The course up the river was formerly marked by beacons, but of recent years these appear to have been discontinued.

A project for rendering the course of the river shorter and more direct has been discussed, it being expected that such a measure would add to the tidal scour and deepen the channel over the outer bar, but the engineering opinion formed, however, did not permit any definite conclusion being arrived at, it being considered by some that the opposite results might thereby be caused.

A cut was made in 1863, shortening the course of the river by a mile, but no observations of the results produced were taken.*

THE COAST in the neighbourhood of the mouth of the Burabalang appears from the offing, sandy and barren, about four miles to the northward of the entrance. Sand hills of mottled grey and yellow colour will be noticed, while on the fringe of low sand hills to the southward of the river, and bordering the coast, Chandipore flagstaff, near a large white bungalow, can easily be recognized. A single palm tree, known to those who resort to the river, forms a good mark also; but it is difficult to detect by a stranger. It bears from Chandipore flagstaff N. 44 E., distant one mile seven cables nearly.

BALASOR ROADS, in about latitude 21° 28′ N., in the north-west part of the Bay of Bengal, are largely resorted to in the north-east monsoon by vessels bound to Mauritius and elsewhere for cargoes of rice brought down the Burabalang by large cargo boats. Sloops from the Madras coast and the Laccadive and Maldive Islands also annually resort to Balasor port for the same cargo.

The largest native vessels which ascend to Balasor or receive their full cargo in the river are of about 4,000 maunds (145 tons) burden.

The best mark for making the anchorage will be found in the highest part of the Nilgiri Hills, situated about 15½ miles inland, and bearing about W.N.W.

The holding ground is of stiff mud, and the best anchorage for a vessel of 20 feet draught will be found with Chandipur flagstaff bearing N. 66 W. Highest peak of Nilgiri Hills N. 81 W., and the single palm tree on the north bank of the entrance to the river, N. 51° W. This position will place a vessel about 5¼ miles off shore, and 2 miles 7 cables distant from the anchoring buoy in 4 fathoms at low-water spring tides.

BURABALANG RIVER ENTRANCE is 400 yards in width, and has a depth at low water of from 21 to 23 feet; but is almost closed by an extensive bar spread out between continuous banks of mud and sand,

* Statistical Account of Bengal, vol. XVIII., p. 256.

having its northern limit at about half a mile south, and reaching as far southward and seaward as two miles from the river entrance.

BALASOR BAR had over it, in 1883, at low-water spring tide, two feet of water, and with a south-easterly wind, was observed to break right across. The last quarter flood-tide is the best time for crossing.

BUOYS. In 1883, the following were the buoys with their respective positions at the entrance of the Burabalang River.

ANCHORING BUOY is a black beacon buoy with staff surmounted by a cage. On one side it has an anchor, and on the opposite side the letter B, both painted in white. The depth at low-water spring tides at this buoy is 18 feet, and it bears from Chandipur flagstaff on the sand hills bordering the coast on the south side of the entrance of the Burabalang River S. 53 E., distant nearly 4 miles. By noting the depth at the anchoriong buoy and comparing with the chart, the depth on the outer bar and in the river generally may be ascertained

A RED CAN BUOY termed the "outer bar buoy," is moored in 9 feet at low water, with Chandipur flagstaff bearing N. 53 W, distant 2 miles 4½ cables and single palm tree bearing N 16 W., distant 2 miles 8 cables.

A RED BUOY known as Elfin flat buoy, from the shoal ground it is intended to mark, in 1883 was moored in 4 feet at low water, with Chandipur flagstaff bearing N 70° W., distant 1 mile ½ cable.

A BLACK BUOY, termed the "inner bar buoy" is moored in 5 feet at low water, with Chandipur flagstaff bearing S. 72° W., distant 1 mile 2 cables, and single palm tree N. 1° E distant 8½ cables.

CHANDIPUR FLAGSTAFF bears S. 44 W., distant 1 mile 7 cables from single palm tree on the north bank of the Burabalang River. It is 60 feet high, and stands on a sand hill 53 feet above sea-level.

LIGHT.—A lantern, exhibiting a fixed white light, is hoisted on Chandipur flagstaff from sunset to sunrise; it is elevated 106 feet above the sea, and should be visible from a distance of 5 miles.

A TIDE GAUGE is placed 5½ cables westward of and inside the entrance of the Burabalang River; it is near the south or right bank of the river, and about a cable westward of it is the landing pier connecting with the road which leads to the town of Balasor.

DIRECTIONS FOR ENTERING.—From the anchoring buoy steer direct for the single palm tree on the north bank at the entrance of the Burabalang River on a N. 26 W. bearing for one mile 6 cables, or until the second red buoy from the outside, termed Elfin flat buoy, is seen just open northward of Chandipur flagstaff, with the latter bearing N. 68 W., when alter course for Chandipur flagstaff upon the bearing and with the red buoy just described left open. This will lead in the deepest water over the outer bar, care being taken, if the flood tide be making, not to be set to the northward of the leading mark.

When the inner bar buoy, which is black, comes in line with the single palm on the north point of the entrance to the river, alter course, keeping the two in line on N. 6° E. bearing and passing on the east side of the black buoy, after passing which, alter course to north by east or with the palm tree half a point on the port bow This leads in the deepest water until abreast the single palm tree; the best course then along the first reach which trends about west by north, is at about a cable's distance from the northern or left bank until abreast Chota Ghira Point, which is 5½ cables westward of the house on the north bank known as Balramgari. At Chota Ghira Point the river takes a sharp turn to S. by E., and it is here advisable, if in a steam-vessel, to slow the engines and use plenty of helm.

The channel, after passing Chota Ghira Point, is near the east bank of the river; the western bank in this reach being low and swampy and fringed with jungle.

This second reach runs at first S. by E., gradually curving round to S. by W., and is 1¼ miles in length. The central part is comparatively shoal, having depths extending for half a mile of 9 and 10 feet at low water.

The third reach turns gradually round a low tongue, and doubles back on the second reach, running for a mile north by east finishing by turning at right angles to the westward round Ghentee Point. The channel, which in the second reach and bend has been near the western and southern shore, or right bank, in the third reach changes to the eastern shore, or left bank. The southern part of the third reach has only from 9 to 10 feet of water over its southern part.

The fourth reach pursues a serpentine, but on the whole, westerly course, and at 7 cables westward of Ghentee Point is obstructed by the Dinga bar, formed by a flat of sand extending from the southern shore more than half way across the river. Between this flat and the northern or left bank the depths at low water is from 6 to 7 feet; and here it is necessary to pick the way carefully by means of the lead, borrowing throughout in the fourth reach, after passing Ghentee Point, on the northern shore or left bank of the river.

Dinga bar passed, the channel changes over to the southern or left bank of the river, and has depths of from 14 to 22 feet, until the latter part of the fourth reach in the neighbourhood of Whoarguddee is approached, where depths of 10 and 11 feet will again be found unavoidable.

The country now, which so far has consisted on the right bank of an extensive maidan or grassy plain and on the left of jungle, opens out, and at Chargutia, just above Whoarguddee, has a considerable clearing for clay fields and rice cultivation. From thence onwards to Balasor, the land presents civilized features—rice fields, workshops, and huts for the Calcutta Coast Canal works meeting the eye from a vessel's deck.

JUNGLE POINT is the extremity of the peninsula, abutting into the land near Whoarguddee. The river takes a sharp trend to the eastward, its general direction throughout the next or fifth reach being E.S.E. for a mile and two cables, the northern part of this bank of the river washing the south shore of the part known as Chargutia. This, the fifth reach, carries in its deepest channel depths of from 9 to 12 and 18 feet, and the chart is the best guide to the navigator.

Rounding Chargutia Point somewhat suddenly the river now enters its sixth decided reach, which extends in a westerly direction for 1¾ miles, terminating at Buboor Point. The first part of the sixth reach has a north-westerly trend for six cables, where a detached sand bank, dry at low water, about three cables in length by half a cable in breadth, is situated, but is half tucked into a hollow in the northern bank. The depth of the navigable part of the river in the sixth reach is from 3 to 10 feet, the channel passing southward of the detached sand bank and then gradually crossing to the northern or left bank of the river. Above and parallel to the detached sand bank just described a finger-like sand bank runs in a westerly direction along the south or right bank, for a distance of nearly seven cables. The deepest part of the river in this part of sixth reach is mid-stream between the sand banks, and then towards the northern shore again crossing to the south shore or right bank, as Buboor Point is approached.

CANAL WORKS.—At 2¾ cables' distance eastward from Buboor Point, and on the south or right bank of the river, is the spot where the connection of the Calcutta Coast Canal with the Burabalang River is proposed to take place to the southward The northern connection is intended to be at a position some 6½ cables to the northward of Buboor Point, the Burabalang River between these points entering into, or forming part of, the canal. These works in 1883 were in an advanced state, and it is contemplated that when completed a canal connecting Calcutta and Cuttack will be formed having a minimum depth of 4 feet at low water and a bottom breadth of 50 feet.

Seventh reach maintains a northerly trend at right angles to sixth reach, and extends for a mile in that direction. A detached sand bank, 4 cables long north and south, by three-quarters of a cable broad, blocks up the greater part of seventh reach. On the east side of this sand bank is a narrow channel carrying three feet of water. The navigable channel, however, lies on the west side of the sand bank, and is about half a cable in breadth, carrying depths at low water of three and four feet. This part of the river is known as Buboor bar. On the eastern or left bank of the river, and near the northern end of seventh reach, it Nulcolee, the name given to the village which has sprung up around the works, houses, &c., of the Engineers employed on the Calcutta Coast Canal, excavations for which are taking place close at hand. Opposite to Nulcolee is Nudiapha Point, which is a considerable tongue protruding in a northerly direction. The river from seventh reach winds round it, assuming a south-westerly trend for a mile to Pukarabhar on the north bank opposite to the entrance of the old canal, which disembogues on the south or right bank, then a direction of west by north for seven cables to Gymkhana, and again a south-westerly trend for 5½ cables, which brings a vessel to the point, known as Mahomed Pau, which is the last point before Balasor port is reached.

In the eastern part of this, the eighth reach, clay excavations and brick-making for the canal works appeared in full operation in 1883. At Pukarabhar, on the north bank, is a collection of houses backed by some tall trees, and to the southward at a distance of four cables from the river's bank is the bungalow of the Engineer in charge of the canal works.

CANAL ISLAND—So formed by the junction of an old and new canal, fronts the river forming the southern shore opposite to Pukarabhar.

Between Canal Island and Gymkhana on the north bank of the river narrows to a breadth of half a cable, and the channel continuing on the Canal Island, or south side of the river, for a distance of four cables westward of the south-west point of Canal Island, then changes to the opposite southern or left bank, continuing on that side until nearly abreast of Mahomed Pau Point.

Midway between Pukarabhar and Gymkhana, is the Gymkhana bar, consisting of sand, over which, at low-water spring tides, there is a depth of one foot only.

About two cables north-eastward of Mahomed Pau Point, the channel of the river changes over to the southern bank, and from this position on to the Custom House at Balasor, or a distance of three cables, continues near the Balasor or right bank of the river. Depths here will be found to vary between 10 and 22 feet at low-water spring tides.

SUPPLIES—Of fresh provisions for shipping may be obtained by special arrangement at Balasor, but in the absence of fixed demand there is no recognized source of supply.

FRESH WATER.—The river water off Balasor at half ebb is fit for the purpose of drinking, being apparently sweet and clear.

BALASOR PORT—Is about three quarters of a mile in length and consists of that portion of the Burabalang River which fronts the town of Balasor. With the Custom-house bearing S.W. off Balasor 10 feet at low water may be relied on, but the river here is only half a cable wide and a vessel must moor head and stern. There are several awkward bars already described, of which that nearest Balasor, the Gymkhana, has only a foot over it at low-water spring tides.

TIDES.—It is high water at full, and change off Balasor Custom-house at about XI hours. Springs rise 10 and Neaps 6 feet 6 inches. The stream of the ebb tide is felt for from 8 to 9· hours, and runs as much as 4 knots an hour; that of the flood is, however, feeble, averaging about half a knot an hour.

BALASOR.—The chief town and head-quarters of the Balasor, district lies about 7 miles from the sea coast in a straight line and 16 miles by river. Established in 1642, Balasor was the site of one of the earliest English settlements in Eastern India.* The original factory at Pippli (1634) was afterwards transferred to Balasor owing to the silting up of the Subarnarekha River, on which Pippli was situated. Balasor began to decline in importance as its younger rival on the Hugli gradually grew from a cluster of mud huts into the Calcutta of India.

In 1708 the river was found blocked by a dangerous bar, and the town at that time was only four miles from the sea coast; it is now seven miles.

The French, Dutch, and Danes also had settlements at Balasor. Of these, the French settlement, consisting of 100 acres of land on the outskirts of the town, known locally as Farásh-dángá, remains, yielding a revenue of about £5 a year. The Dutch settlement lasted till 1824, and the Danish was ceded to the English in 1846.

The river has long since writhed itself away from the Dutch quarter, extensive rice fields now stretching between their factory site and the river bank.

TIDES.—In Balasor roads the ebb tide sets to the south-west, flood to the north-east; at spring tides about 2 knots an hour.

It is high water at full, and change at the entrance of the Burabalang River at about 9·45. Springs rise 12 to 13; neaps 8 feet.

SUPPLIES—For vessels lying in Balasor roads can only be procured by special arrangement, either with the owners of the various cargo boats, or with the masters of the small steam-vessels which ply weekly with Calcutta. The latter generally anchor to await tide near the anchoring buoy, giving opportunity for communication.

TELEGRAPH.—The town of Balasor has telegraphic communication with Calcutta and Cuttack.

PILOTS.—There were no pilots for the Burabalang River in 1883. No steam or other European vessels ventured across the outer bar except the two local trading steamers plying to Calcutta of 6 and 7 feet draught respectively. Shipping are supplied by the cargo boats which, as a rule, succeed in making their way down from Balasor on the ebb, and after awaiting a tide return on the ensuing flood.

CYCLONES.—Balasor roadstead, from the position occupied in the north-west part of the Bay of Bengal, is exposed to the full brunt of the cyclones which, generated in the bay, and following a north-westerly direction, burst upon this part of the coast with great fury.

The severest disaster of this nature is recorded for the 31st October 1831. On this occasion the storm-wave, 7 to 15 feet in height, breached the trunk road to Calcutta at a point 9 miles from the coast as the crow flies. It was estimated that 26,000 persons lost their lives on this occasion. Cyclones also occurred on the 7th October 1832, 13th October 1848, 22nd October 1851, 1st July 1872, and 15th October 1874. Native craft approach the coast as near as high water will permit. Should a storm come on, it is said that they have little to fear. It is a fact notorious on the coast of Balasor road that, should doubt arise as to the possibility of weathering a storm, the best plan is to run a ship straight into the western part of the Balasor roads near Churaman, some 20 miles to the southward of the Burabalang River entrance, where the liquid mass of mud held in solution by the sea affords the best possible non-conductor to the violence of the winds and waves.

BAY OF BENGAL—ORISSA COAST.

Dhamra and Baiturani Rivers with the port of Chandbali.

THE following hydrographic information respecting the above rivers and port has been received from Commander L. S. DAWSON, R.N., in charge of the Marine Survey of India, 1883.

All bearings are Magnetic.—Variation in 1883, 2° 30′ E.

THE DHAMRA or Dhumrah River, which empties itself into the western part of the Bay of Bengal, is the first and most important of the navigable rivers of Orissa, and forms the northern exit of the united streams of the Brahmani, Kharsua, and Baitarani rivers. It lies within the jurisdiction of the Balasor district. The inner bar of the river, which may be said to be the connecting link between the island of Kalibarj on the south and Kanika flat, part of which is always dry on the north, is constantly changing both in depth and position.

The outer bar, however, to the north of Shortt Island has across it two distinct channels, and maintains its position and depth of water.

In 1883 it appeared possible for a vessel of from 21 to 22 feet to navigate as far as the village of Dhamra, some miles above the outer bar, and for a vessel drawing 17 feet to proceed as high as Chandbali, which is the chief port of the neighbourhood, and situated on the north or left bank of the Baitarani River. Ships which can get within the outer bar find protection from the monsoons, but notwithstanding its excellence in this respect, owing to its distance from Cuttack or any large town, it has been less resorted to than False Point by European craft.

At one time it was contemplated to select the Dhamra as the channel by which the whole canal system of Orissa should enter the sea, but after investigation the preference was given to False Point harbour as the basis of operations on the seaboard.

The Dhamra River also divides the province of Bhadrukh in Orissa from that of Jajpur in Cuttack. At a distance of about nine miles from its mouth, the Dhamra River branches into two considerable streams, that to the north, on the banks of which are situated the towns of Chandbali and higher up of Jajpur, is called the Baitarani River, and follows, on the whole, a westerly direction; that to the south is termed the Brahmani River. It takes a south-westerly direction, and is a means of communication with Cuttack. At about six miles above the Baitarani junction, the Brahmani River connects with the Mypurra, and about three miles higher receives a considerable feeder in the Kharsua River, which again connects with the Baitarani above or westward of Jajpur.

APPROACHES.—In making for the mouth of the Dhamra River from the southward, caution is necessary to avoid the dangerous Palmyras shoals, which extend to a distance of 11¾ miles from this part of the coast, and are steep on their eastern face. If fine weather prevails, the discoloured water will be found to generally indicate the outside or eastern edge of the bank. Besides the Palmyras buoy moored in 11 fathoms, a somewhat ill-defined beacon may be noticed on Shortt Island; but the lead should be kept carefully going, and unless certain of position, no stranger should stand into less than ten fathoms. It is recommended that a vessel should either anchor or stand off the land, if overtaken by night when bound for the Dhamra, if Shortt Island beacon or either Palmyras or Kanaka buoys are not recognisable.

SHORTT ISLAND—Is little more than an extensive sand bank shaped like a kite, the tail to the westward, and will be the nearest land sighted when entering the Dhamra River; 2¼ miles in length by 1¼ in its broadest part. It trends away to the westward in a succession of horn-like projections of sand, which cover in parts and are cut off from the island at high-water. Creepers and coarse grass cover the hillocks on the south side of Shortt Island, the highest of which is 1¼ feet above high-water spring tides.

WATER.—No fresh water can be obtained on Shortt Island; three wells have been sunk, the water in each case proving brackish. Young plantations of cocoanut and other trees have been planted, but with what success has not yet been ascertained.

BEACON.—On the western part of Shortt Island, at about 8¼ cables from the extreme point, is a beacon of bamboos surmounted by a black basket, the whole secured to an upright post formed of a wrecked ship's timber. The basket is 50 feet above high water, and can be discerned in fine weather from a vessel's deck at a distance of about 5 miles.

It is contemplated to build a light-house on the highest part of Shortt Island.

PALMYRAS POINT.—The south-east entrance point of the Dhamra River, bearing S. 82° W, distant 5¼ miles from Shortt Island beacon, is low, covered with dark jungle, and difficult to distinguish. The palm tree, which formerly grew upon it, and formed a useful mark from seaward, has recently fallen from decay.

The coast southward from Palmyra's point trends to the southward, and presents the same low jungle grown aspect: a considerable mud bank fringes the coast, which dries at low water as far seaward as a distance of two miles.

KALIBHANJ ISLAND—Trending east and west, is 5¾ miles long by about ¾ in breadth, and divides the Dhamra River into two channels at about 7 miles from the bar entrances. The northern channel is the widest, and carries the deepest water. The woods of Kalibhanj Island, which is not inhabited, as well as the jungle of the country bordering both banks of the Dhamra River, abound with wild animals. Crocodiles are numerous, and will be noticed basking in the sun at low water on almost every sand or mud bank.

DHAMRA VILLAGE—On the north or left bank of the Dhamra River, 10 miles above Shortt Island, consists of a few straggling houses. A Custom house is situated here, and a tide-pole indicates to those acquainted with the locality the depth of water likely to be met with on the Chandipal bar.

MATAI RIVER—Which joins the Dhamra River at about a mile westward of Dhamra village, is about one cable wide and navigable at low water for craft of 8 feet draught.

The Matai River brings down the drainage of the country between the Kansbans and the Saladi, and after a tortuous course over a muddy bed, and between densely wooded banks, enters the Dhamra River near its mouth.

A canal unites the Matai with the Gammai; but an embankment has been built right across its mouth, and it has ceased to be used for traffic.

In the coast canal in course of construction to connect Cuttack with Calcutta, the Matai River is utilised as one of the natural connecting links, the junction occurring about 14 miles above, the position at which the Dhamra and Matai rivers connect.

Native vessels plying to ports in the Madras Presidency resort chiefly to the Matai River for their rice cargoes.

NORTH CHANNEL INTO THE DHAMRA RIVER.—There are two channels into the Dhamra; of these, the northern channel, though carrying least water, is generally used, being most contiguous to Calcutta, to which port the steam-vessels visiting the river generally ply.

KANAKA BUOY—Is a black wooden beacon buoy with the letter K painted white on it. It is surmounted by two circular discs placed vertically on a staff, which marks the north-east limit of the north channel, and is moored in a depth of 23 feet at low water, and bears from the Shortt Island beacon N. 12 E., distant 2½ miles. Vessels should keep it on the starboard hand or to the northward of them when entering the Dhamra River, and the reverse when leaving. Latitude 20° 49′ 28″ N., longitude 87° 04′ 40″ E.

BUOY F. Is conical, of iron, coloured red, surmounted by spire and basket of same colour. It is moored in a depth of 11 feet at low water, and bears from Shortt Island beacon N. 13° W., distant 1 mile 4½ cables, and from Kanaka buoy S. 39° W., distant 1 mile 4 cables. It marks the western limit of the bar, which obstructs the north channel.

BOUY E.—Is black, of iron, surmounted by spire and basket of same colour. It is moored in 10 feet at low water, and bears from bouy F. S. 58° W., distant 8½ cables. About two cables south-east of it, 12 and 13 feet of water will be found.

BUOY D.—Is a red, iron, conical buoy, moored in 16 feet at low water. To the northward, and between it and buoy E, the north and south channels converge, and here depths will be found at low water, of 14 and 15 feet, over a bottom of mud From it Shortt Island beacon bears S. 86° W., distant 1 mile, and E buoy south, distant 1 mile. It is about two cables distant from the westernmost point of Shortt Island, the channel between, through which the tide sets with considerable strength, being deep and free from danger.

BUOY C.—Is a conical buoy, coloured black, surmounted by a staff, and is situated on the north side of the channel about midway between Shortt Island and Kanaka bank. It bears from Shortt Island beacon W. 2° N., distant 2 miles, and has the letter C marked on it in white.

BUOY B.—Is a conical red buoy, surmounted by a staff with a cage of same colour. It marks the south side of the channel southward of Kanaka bank, and bears from C buoy S. 76° W., distant 2 miles.

BUOY A.—Is a conical black buoy, surmounted by a staff with cage of same colour. It marks the north side of the channel southward of Kanaka bank, and bears from the highest part of the Kanaka bank S. 53° W., distant ¼ mile.

INNER BAR BUOYS—Are conical can buoys: that on the south side of the channel coloured red, that on the north side coloured black. They bear from one another N. 21° W. and S. 21° E., distant 1¼ cables, and from Palmyras Point the south or red buoy N. 17° E., distant 5¼ cables; the north or black buoy N. 9° E., distant 6¾ cables.

Depths of 12 to 14 feet at low water will be found between the bar buoys just described.

From the inner bar buoys the channel, to abreast Dhamra village, continues clear of danger and without buoys. Vessels drawing 20 feet may reach as high as, and anchor off Dhamra.

The buoyage of the south channel into the Dhamra River will be next described.

PALMYRAS BUOY, which acts as a guide for vessels entering the Dhamra from the southward, as well as a mark for clearing the Palmyras shoals, if bound to Balasor or the entrance to the Hugli, is a large red beacon buoy with a broad white horizontal stripe, surmounted by a vertical staff and circular disc coloured red. It is moored in 11 fathoms at low water, and bears from Shortt Island beacon N. 73° E. distant 7 miles, and from Kanaka buoy S. 86° E, distant 6 miles 2 cables, or in lattitude 20° 45′ 47″ N., longitude 87° 10′ 55″ E.

The south-eastern finger of the Palmyras shoals, having as little as 4 fathoms at low water, extends about a mile south-eastward of the position of the Palmyras buoy (1883).

The course from Palmyras buoy to buoy H, which marks the south side of the outer bar of the south channel into the Dhamra River, is S. 78° W. and the distance 6 miles.

From a ship's deck, when in the neighbourhood of Palmyras buoy, Shortt Island beacon can generally be recognised, and the position, by cross bearings, of these objects can be obtained, and the direction in which the tide is setting noted, before the bar of the south channel is arrived at.

BUOY H.—Marking the south side of entrance over the outer bar of the south channel into the Dhamra River, is a conical buoy surmounted by a vertical staff, the whole coloured red. It bears from Shortt Island beacon N. 46° E., distant 1 mile 1½ cables. The letter H is painted on it in white.

BUOY G.—Is a black wooden conical buoy, surmounted by a black cross. The letter G in white, is painted on this buoy, which bears N. 11° W, distant 5½ cables from the beacon on Shortt Island. The depths found near G buoy at low water are from 14 to 16 feet.

About a quarter of a mile westward of G buoy the north and south channels into the Dhamra River meet, and the channel just here has a breadth of 3½ cables, and in it depths of from 13 to 20 feet over a muddy bottom will be found.

DIRECTIONS, NORTH CHANNEL.—Pass close southward of the Kanaka buoy, situated in latitude 20° 49′ 28″ N., longitude 87° 04′ 40″ E., keeping a S. 58½° W., course for one mile, then haul to the southward steering S. 23° W., 2 miles 3½ cables, passing F buoy, which is red and conical, and surmounted by a cage on its western side, at a distance of 1½ cables, and eastern buoy, which is black, at a distance of 3½ cables, until Shortt Island beacon bears S. 70° E., when alter course to S. 59° W., which will bring G. buoy, which is coloured black, and is surmounted by a black cross right astern. Continue on this course for a distance of a mile and 2 cables, when D buoy, which is red and conical, will be seen open to the north of Shortt Island beacon, bearing N. 78° E., then steer for B buoy, which is red, and surmounted by a red cage, on a S. 86° W. course. Pass close northward of B buoy, and then strike across the channel on a N. 63° W. course for A buoy, which is black, with black cage. Pass close south of A buoy, and thence for the northern buoy of the inner bar, which is a black can buoy, on a course of N. 88° W., which will lead over the inner bar in a depth of 13 feet at low water, and close south of the black can buoy.

Having passed the inner bar, edge away on a S. 72° W. course for the east point of Kalibhanj Island for about 9 cables, or until Chandipal tree on the north bank of the river, which has a triangular cage-beacon protruding from the south side of its branches, bears N. 31° W., when alter course for the perch on the north side of Kalibhanj Island, steering N. 86° W. This perch, which is a basket on bamboos, forms a distinct mark, and may be passed at the distance of a cable. Continue after passing Kalibhanj perch on the south side of the channel, keeping the north shore of Kalibhanj Island about 1½ cables distant, until Dhamra village bears N. 42° W., when it should be steered for, the deep water now changing to the north side of the channel.

ANCHORAGE—May be found with Dhamra village, bearing north, in from 20 to 24 feet at low water, at a distance of 1½ cables from the north bank, on which the village is situated.

This is the anchorage for large vessels.

CAUTION.—It is not advisable for any vessel drawing more than 14 feet to navigate beyond Dhamra, but at high water, with the aid of a pilot, draughts of 17 and 18 feet may continue as high as Chandbali or the Baitarani River.

It being desired to continue to Chandbali or Mahurigaon, higher up the Dhamra, bold water will be met with at a cable's distance from the north bank of the river from abreast Dhamra village and for about 1¾ miles westward of the mouth of the Matai River, when the neighbourhood of the Celerity spit, which is marked on its south side by a black can buoy, which joins the bank extending from the western extremity of Kalibhanj Island, will be reached, and the perch on Round Point, on the south side of the river, is sighted.

If the Celerity bar be crossed at a distance of 4 cables from the western extreme of Kalibhanj Island, the west depth found at low water will be 10 feet. The southern or right bank of the river should then be steered along at a distance of 1½ cables, the black can Celerity buoy being passed on its south side at the distance of a cable, and the basket perch on Round Point kept on the port bow. Continue thus until MacMaster's mark, which is a tall white flagstaff surmounted by a basket, and the three red buoys, which denote the turning into the Baitarani River.

Keep these three red buoys successively on the port hand at half a cable's distance, rounding gradually for the inner or western part of north point, which is steep too.

BAITARANI RIVER Identified by the Brahmans as the Styx of Hindu mythology, but possibly a corruption of Avitarani, meaning "difficult to cross," enters the Balasore district at the village of Batipur, and flows for about 45 miles in a south-westerly direction till it joins the Dhamra five miles from its mouth. The Baitarani forms the boundary between Balasor and Cuttack. It is nowhere fordable during the rains, but can be crossed everywhere in the dry weather above Olokh, about 15 miles from its mouth. At Olokh it ceases to be navigable, and the tide does not run above this place. It receives two tributaries on its Balasor side, the Salandi and the Matai: the former, properly called Salnadi, takes its name from the sal forests which it traverses. It rises on the southern slope of the Meghasani mountain, literally the "seat of clouds," in Morbhanj, and throughout its upper course, is a black water river, with high banks and a bottom of muddy sand.

In January it scarcely anywhere exceeds three feet in depth. Luxuriant vegetation clothes its banks, which in certain places almost become cliffs, and for miles the river runs through groves of mangoes, palms, and bamboos. It forms no islands or lakes, and has no tide; but it is navigable for country boats as high as six miles from its junction with the Baitarani. Its lower course bifurcates into a network of streams, which are interlaced with those of the Matai.

The country in the neighbourhood of the banks of the Bai'arani becomes more open, and is largely cultivated with rice, the jungle which marks the banks of the Dhamra being lost sight of.

Between the entrance of the Baitarani and Chandbali there are 15 villages, but none of these are of an important character, nor present any feature for the guidance of the navigator, the first conspicuous house being the travellers' bungalow at the east end of Chandbali.

The entrance of the Baitarani is split into two channels by Lucheenarain Island, which is about $\frac{8}{9}$ths of a mile in length by $\frac{1}{4}$ of a mile in breadth. Of these the northern is the navigable channel carrying depths of 20 feet at low water mid-channel. The southern channel is shoal and only available for boats.

In the south channel from abreast north point a mid-channel course should be steered until abreast the second creek, which flows into the Baitarani from the northern or left bank.

A WHITE WOODEN CROSS, conspicuous and easily discovered, is situated near the mouth of the second creek just alluded to. Allowing for the bend of the river, its distance is about $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles from north point, and it is erected as a crossing mark for the Jhuta bar, which is the next shoal part of the Baitarani River.

CROSSING MARKS—On the eastern or right bank, consisting of a cage beacon on a pole amongst the trees, for the southern mark, and a black barrel fixed upon a pole a little more than a cable to the northward of the cage beacon, are used for crossing the Jhuta bar.

JHUTA BAR—Is an underwater continuation of the west point of Lucheenarain Island (which divides the entrance of the Baitarani River into two channels) with Pilot's Island situated in the Baitarani about half a mile to the southward. A depth at low water of from 8 to 9 feet may be found in the Jhuta bar.

TO CROSS—The basket or cage amongst the trees kept just open westward of the barrel upon pole, previously described, on Point Douglas, and kept on a bearing of S. 18° E. will lead across the Jhuta bar in about nine feet at low water, with the white wooden cross in the north bank seen right astern.

PILOT ISLAND.—Southward of the Jhuta bar is low and overgrown with grass and creepers extending $11\frac{1}{2}$ cables in a north by east and south by west direction. Considerable sand flats extend from its north and south points, and between it and the western, or left bank of the Baitarani River, is a narrow boat-passage known as "Chapman's gut." The navigable channel which carries from 17 to 23 feet of water, lies between Pilot Island and the eastern bank of the Baitarani, the best track being nearer to the eastern bank. This part of the river is known as Pilot's Reach, and a black can buoy marks the south-west extreme of the spit extending to the south-westward from Pilot Island.

From the black can buoy just mentioned, which is situated near the western end of Pilot Reach, the river turns at right angles round a tongue-like projection known as Palmer Point. On the western side of this part of the river is a sandy island terminating at its southern extremity in mud, termed Sickle Island. Between Sickle Island and the western or right bank of the river is a narrow boat-passage, available at quarter flood.

A RED CAN BUOY marks the western limit of Sickle Island. The navigable channel, which is about a cable in breadth and carries 25 to 27 feet at low water, lies close to the eastern or Palmer Point side of the river, and curving gradually to the westward changes over to the opposite or southern side at Sickle Point, which forms the eastern boundary of the next known as Long Reach.

LONG REACH—Runs in a westerly direction for about two miles and around Borarriah Point, which is low and swampy. The upper or northern part of Long Reach terminates in Hurripur bar, having on it eight to nine feet at low water.

The channel in Long Reach lies within half a cable of Sickle Point, and along the southern bend at about the same distance from that shore. As Long Reach trends to the northward, the channel shallows from 26 to 17 and 14 feet, gradually crossing to the eastern bank over the Hurripur bar, which is 3½ cables wide, and has on it from eight to 10 feet of water.

HURRIPUR REACH—Has a northerly trend, and carries from 14 feet on the eastern side of its channel just northward of Hurripur bar to 20 and 25 feet higher up or farther north. The deepest water in this reach lies about mid-stream. The latter part of the reach trends gradually to the westward round Love Point, towards which the deepest water lies.

LOVE POINT BAR—Extends throughout almost the whole space between Love Point and Chandbali, and in the shoalest part of its best water carries from 7 to 8 feet at low water. A course of W ½ N. for 11 cables from Love Point leads in the deepest water at about a quarter of a cable from the southern or right bank up Love Point Reach, until travellers' bungalow bears north distant about a cable.

The three piers of Chandbali may now be distinguished, and anchorage picked up as convenient, in from 22 to 30 feet off the town.

CHANDBALI—Situated on the north or left bank of the Baitarani, about 30 miles by river track from the Kanaka buoy, on the outer bar of the Dhamra, is nevertheless considered within the limits of the port of Dhamra. The station is situated on a narrow sand ridge, which trends north and south, or parallel to the direction of the sea, coast, terminating abruptly on the northern bank of the Baitarani River. Of late years it is said to have risen in importance, and to have an improving trade. There is a police station, travellers' bungalow, and Customs office with Warehouse and three landing piers.

There is weekly communication with Calcutta by steamer and with Cuttack twice a week. Native sailing vessels do not, however, as a rule, frequent Chandbali, preferring the Matai River, a tributary of the Dhamra, for picking up their rice cargoes, to the Baitarani, the Matai affording greater advantages in its long course through a rice-producing tract.

The travellers' bungalow, a conspicuous white house with verandah, is the first house seen in Chandbali when ascending the river; it stands close to the water's edge on the north or left bank of the river clear of any trees.

BUOYS.—There are buoys off Chandbali for the use of the local steam-vessels in hauling out into the stream from their respective piers off Gwire Point, at the western extremity of the reach, in which Chandbali is situated.

PROVISIONS—for Europeans, are scarce, and can only be procured with difficulty at Chandbali.

TRADE—The export consists almost entirely of rice. Large numbers of coolies are brought as passengers from Calcutta by local steam-vessels, for employment in the rice fields at certain seasons of the year. In this respect brisk competition goes on. A portion of the passengers are pilgrims on their way to and from Jagannath. These pilgrims are generally up-country people of the middle class, who can afford to pay their fare by rail to Calcutta, and by steamer to Orissa.

GWIRE POINT.—A sharp tongue on the south side of the river, opposite to, and about half a mile above or westward of, Chandbali terminates Love Reach. Here the river turns sharply to the south-east, and continues navigable for the same draught of water that has reached Chandbali for two miles.

A RED BUOY—marks the termination of the shoal water off Iwire Point, and in ascending the river, should be kept on the port hand.

MAHURIGAON—Situated 2 miles above Chandbali, but on the opposite side of the river, was formerly of some importance as a halting station for a line of steam-vessels owned by a native firm at Calcutta, but of late years it has fallen off in importance, and the only form of communication in 1883 was by native boats.

BAY OF BENGAL—EAST COAST.

MEGHNA RIVER.

Bearings Magnetic Var. 3.

REPORT of H. B Simpson, Esq., Assistant Superintendent 3rd grade, Marine Survey of India, on an examination or running survey made of part of the rivers Meghna and Shahbazpur in February-March 1883, when detached from the I. G. surveying vessel Investigator under Commander L. S. Dawson, R.N., in charge of the Marine Survey of India.

RIVER MEGHNA.—From Sandwip Channel to Náráyanganj.—In carrying out this examination of the Meghna, the G. T. Hill station of Sitákund, northward of Chittagong, was taken as the starting point, bearings being obtained as long as Sitákund was visible, and when that was lost sight of, stations, six in number, fixed astronomically, were used, the longitudes being determined by a chronometer, the error of which was ascertained both before leaving and after returning to Chittagong, and points were cut in by a round of angles taken at the mast-head of the cutter.

The soundings were obtained from a pilot cutter, on the upward route; lines also being run across at the first three stations in the Sandwip channel by a steam cutter, and zig-zag lines were run on the downward route by the steam cutter from Náráyanganj as far as Noakhali creek. A whale boat was also used in some of the narrower channels.

The soundings are reduced below the lowest depths obtained at low water at the different stations, the depth being taken every half hour alongside the pilot cutter, the moon's age being taken into account, and are only approximate.

The strength of the tide was taken by the hand log (at the station off the island of Bidoo, at springs, five days after change of the moon, the tide ran five knots and was considerably stronger in the middle of the channel).

The soundings are approximately fixed by bearings of points, mast-head angles of the pilot cutter, and distances by patent log.

Sandwip Channel above Fenny River.—Depth of water on bar off island of Bidoo seemed about four feet, with a rise of sixteen to eighteen feet at springs, with very strong tides, 5 to 6 knots, and the native craft only work on the neap-tides during the rains, as anchors will not hold in the ebb at springs.

The channel used is about a mile and a quarter off the north-east side of the island of Bidoo leading across to the village of Chiringa, close along the south side of the new char formed on the north side of the river in a W. N. W. direction. There is another channel close to the north bank from Fenny River to Chiringa to the north of the new char.

The second bar is between the island of Bidoo and the village of Chiringa, with about seven feet and a rise of fourteen.

The banks on both sides are much cut away by the stream, the north above Chiringa and the south at Bidoo and Siddhi, the noise of the mud falling into the water being heard at short intervals throughout the night.

The bank at Chiringa is steep, with deep water close in, and the native vessels lie at anchor here in six fathoms out of the tide.

From Chiringa to Noákháli Point the channel lies close to the north bank in a S W. by W. direction, with a breadth of four cables and deep water. The bank is grass-land, without any trees, from a little west of Chiringa, a solitary tree standing on the southernmost part of the bank near Noákháli Point, but it will most likely soon fall into the river from the cutting away of the bank.

At Noákháli Point is another bar with twelve feet and a rise of about ten feet. The river here turns to the north-west.

Noákháli Point to Narnák Chur.—The channel lies close to the east bank with good depth, about five cables wide, as far as two palm trees standing close on the bank, bearing from the north point of Narnák char about N. 72° E., towards which it crosses with a depth of about sixteen feet and a rise of about nine feet springs. The stream is not so strong here as in the Sandwip channel, and at ebb tide neaps the water was perfectly fresh alongside.

Two new char have formed in the lower part of this reach.

The east bank is grass-land close to the river, some distance in, clumps of trees grow, and a mosque is visible at intervals, the position being about 22° 46′ N 91° 00′ E two miles from the bank.

The west side of the river is scarcely visible, from the east being the Island of Hatiá.

Above Narnák Char (pronounced Lallan chur by the natives) the channel has twenty feet for nine miles. Direction about N. by W. ½ W., and lies near the middle of the river towards the west bank; abreast of and beyond the Ilsa River, as far as the mouth of the Pudda, there is good water, the channel lying close to the west bank. Beyond Aboodu Point on the eastern side a sand extends from the bank to nearly the middle of the river.

The river trends to the north-west from the mouth of the Ilsa to the Newa Bhangree, then noth to the mouth of the Pudda.

The west bank is covered with thick jungle from Shahbazpur River to within a mile of the mouth of the Pudda.

Off the Pudda, the mouth of which is ill-defined, about eighteen feet is found. From this to the first char above Chandpur there is deep water; running out from these chars are shoals with channels in between * Above the last char the channel is wide and deep, direction about north, as far as the mouth of the river leading to Daudkandi, where it again shoals to about twenty-two feet.

From the Pudda to Chandpur N. E. by E., then N. and W.N.W.

After passing the last char above Chandpur, Rajbarree temple comes in sight on the west bank; it is situated four miles from the river, and is a conspicuous mark.

The west bank is almost without jungle from the mouth of the Pudda, and numerous villages are seen. The east bank is covered with jungle, more or less, from a short distance below Chandpur.

From the mouth of the Daudkandi river the eastern channel is deep as far as the mouth of the Luckia River a branch of the Dullesury (on which Naráyángánj is situated), where there is a bar with about 18 feet and a rise of 2 feet.

The western of the two channels formed by a char about two miles in extent, has a depth of about seventeen feet at the upper bar which is the shoalest. Above this the Dullesury River by which Naráyángánj is reached leaves the Meghna.

Off the town of Naráyángánj, the river is deep on the west side (next the town) with a breadth of one and a half cables.

SHAHBAZPUR.—River leaves the Meghna immediately above Narnák char, and flows between the Falcon char, Hatia, and Dakhin Shahbazpur. A bar is found close to the entrance at the north side of Falcon char, with about fourteen feet and arise of nine feet. Beyond this is deep water as far as Shahbazpur Point, below which another bar is found with fourteen feet, and a rise of twelve to fourteen feet might be counted on, but no observations of the rise and fall were got. From this bar to seaward a channel is shown on the Admiralty Chart entering the Bay of Bengal to the westward of the D'Apre Shoal, and this seems a better approach to the Meghna than by the Sandwip Channel, but is never used.

The passage through the Hatia char, said to be used by the native brigs, is never used, and does not seem to be known by them, and is only used by row boats carrying passengers from the surrounding districts to Chittagong. The banks in it seem very much cut away by the stream, and it must have a considerable rise and fall to a good depth at high water.

The land seems to have altered considerably where this river leaves the Meghna since 1841, the date of Captain Lloyd's chart, but is much the same as the revenue survey map of 1865 gives it.

The approaches to the Meghna by the western or Shahbazpur river would be out of sight of land for the first 20 or 25 miles, except having the D'Apre Shoal (dry at low water) about five miles from its mouth, where a beacon could be placed, and would require to be marked with buoys, but the changes would probably be less frequent than in the Sandwip Channel.

A survey of the river from Naráyángánj to the sea would probably not repay cost for a considerable period; but a survey of the worst parts might show that vessels of large draught could pass up and down, as native craft drawing ten to twelve feet pass up and down continually by the Sandwip Channel with very small means of navigating and no special marks for channels, working almost entirely by the tide.

The worst parts of the Meghna are the northern portion of the Sandeep Channel as far as Noákháli Point, the crossing at Narnák char as far as the Ilsa River, off the mouth of the Pudda between the chars above Chandpur and the mouth of the river on which Naráyángánj is situated.

The worst parts of the Shahbazpur River are the bar at the northern end, the one below Shahbazpur Point.

WINDS AND WEATHER.—During the month of February the winds were northerly, light, with clear weather; towards the end of the month the sky became cloudy, and S.E. squalls, with thunder and lightning, continued for some days.

The weather was cool and pleasant during the whole month.

SUPPLIES.—As the inland steamers from Calcutta to Assam pass up the Meghna, supplies of any sort could be easily procured, and daily postal communication is carried on with Calcutta.

TOWN OF NARAYANGANJ—On the west bank of the Luckia River, is of considerable size, with several mills and jute presses, the preparation and transport of that article apparently being the chief trade.

A great part of the jute is taken to Chittagong for shipment by native brigs of which there are a large number loading and moving up and down the river, the inland steamers and flats carrying as much of it as is shipped at Calcutta.

Hydrographic Notice.

BAY OF BENGAL

THE following information relating to the coast and port of Chittagong in the north-east portion of the Bay of Bengal has been received from Commander L. S. Dawson, R.N., in charge of the Marine Survey of India:—

COAST OF CHITTAGONG.

[All bearings are magnetic.—Variation in 1883 20° 50′ easterly.]

APPROACHING CHITTAGONG.—Whatever the state of the weather or time of the year, but more especially during the south-west monsoon, or from April to September, the greatest care is necessary in making the mouth of the Karnaphuli, better known as the Chittagong river.

It should be remembered that the tides within 15 miles of this part of the Bay of Bengal set up and down, or in line with the trend of the land, and at springs run five and even six knots an hour. Vessels have been known, in hazy weather, to have been swept past Chittagong by the flood tide, and set upon the sands westward of Sandwip Island, without sighting either Kutabdia Island light by night or the land by day.

The tides at about from 20 to 50 miles from the coast are reported, however, to show a circular tendency, as at the Sandheads of the Hughli River, for the flood tide commences at east-south-east round by south, ending at west-south-west; and the ebb, beginning at west-north-west, works round by north, and ends at east-north-east.

During the south-west monsoon the strong southerly current met with in the Bay of Bengal may be expected, as the coast is closed with, to increase in strength, owing to the heavy outpour from the Meghna and other large rivers, which enter the sea northward of the Karnaphuli or Chittagong River.

Endeavour should be made, in nearing the land, if proceeding from the southward, to obtain soundings in about latitude 21° 10′ north, longitude 91° 10′ east, where the depth at low water will be found to be 10 fathoms, and the bottom soft mud. Even if the weather be favourable for observation, and the Commander of a vessel confident as to his astronomical position, strict attention to the depth of water as well as frequent attention to the course and distance made over the ground, ascertained by making use of the ground log,* will yet be advisable.

The course from the position just given to the entrance of Karnaphuli or Chittagong river is north-north-east ¼ east, and the distance 70 miles. If possible the land should be made in the day time, a night land-fall being rendered unadvisable, not only on account of the off-lying dangers consisting of the Dolphin shoal and north and south patches, the approach to which is not indicated by the soundings, but also on account of the light exhibited at Kutabdia Island being sometimes shrouded by fog and rising mist.

If in doubt as to the position, and the ground log denotes a strong flood tide, it will be well to anchor to avoid being set to the northward on to the tails of the shoals extending from the south end of the Sandwip Island and the entrance to the Meghna River, which are said to extend further south than the chart indicates.†

KUTABDIA ISLAND, or Kutubdeeah, is the westernmost land fallen in with when approaching Chittagong.

It is 12 miles long north and south, by from 4 to 2 miles in width, and is pear-shaped, and although low and level, covered with trees and distinguishable at the distance of seven or eight miles.

Kutabdia, until recently, has been protected by artificial embankments from the encroachment of the sea, but owing to reports that the island is sinking and difficulties in maintaining the necessary repairs to these embankments, any further work in connection therewith has been discontinued, and consequently the island is now almost devoid of inhabitants.

LIGHT.—Near the western extreme of Kutabdia Island, or in latitude 21° 52′ 30″ north, longitude 91° 50′ east, is a masonry tower 111 feet in height, from which is exhibited a fixed white‡ light at an elevation of 126 feet above high water, which should be visible from a vessel's deck in clear weather at a distance of 18 miles. The light tower has its lower storey coloured grey, and the upper part coloured alternately in red and white horizontal bands.

From the 15th of May to the 15th of September (both days included) a blue light is burnt from the top of Kutabdia Light-house hourly between 7 P.M. and 5 A.M. inclusive The glare of this blue light should be detected at a distance of 20 miles.

SOUTH PATCHES, 13 miles from the nearest land and 15 miles south-west of the south point of Kutabdia Island, consist of three distinct heads of hard sand extending in a north and south direction, the northern and middle of these heads, having respectively 2¼ fathoms and 3 fathoms over them, are connected with one another, and are about 1¾ miles apart. The third or southernmost head has over it 4¼ fathoms at low water, and is 2¼ miles distant from the middle head. In fine weather rollers may generally be seen near the south patches, and in a fresh breeze the shoaler parts are reported to have breakers upon them.

Around the south patches and close to will be found depths of 9 and 10 fathoms, muddy bottom, and it is reported that with southerly winds a heavy breaking sea churns up around these formidable dangers.

A WHISTLING BUOY, conical, of iron, and painted red, is moored in 10 fathoms at low water, a quarter of a mile due west of the northern head or shoalest part of the south patches, or in about latitude 21° 32′ north, longitude 91° 38′ 30″ east.

This buoy can be seen from a height of 20 feet at a distance of 4 miles, and with a moderate sea the sound of the whistle has been reported audible at the same distance.

NORTH PATCHES cover 12 miles in a north and south direction, extending southward in a broken tongue for that distance from a position about 3 miles westward of the south point of Kutabdia Island. The depth of water in the north patches varies from ¼ to 2¼ fathoms, and the bottom is of hard sand.

A channel about three-quarters of a mile wide, having from 9 to 16 fathoms of water runs up inside the north patches, or between these dangers and the sands extending off the south end of Kutabdia and westward from Maskhal Island. The tide rushes with great velocity through this channel, and without local knowledge it is better not to attempt it.

DOLPHIN SHOAL is one of the terminations of the shoal tongue running southward of Sandwip (Sundeep) Island. It is about 2 miles long north and south by half a mile in width, and has over it a depth of three-quarters of a fathom at low water. Between Dolphin shoal and the west side of Kutabdia Island, the channel is 3 miles wide, and carries depths of from 6 to 7 fathoms of water.

* Similar to the hand log, except that a load is used, instead of a log-ship, which former reaches the bottom. By noting the direction of the line as well as the knots run out, the actual speed and course of the ship over the ground, and not through the water only, is thereby ascertained.

† In 1882 the ship Macbeth, through an error in reckoning, was set on to D'Apies Shoal, and became a total wreck.

‡ The light apparatus used in Kutabdia Light-house is an 8-reflector lantern. It is probably the oldest of its sort in use on the coast of India.

A BLACK SPIRAL BUOY, surmounted by a cage, is moored in 5 fathoms at low water off the west side of the Dolphin Shoal. From it Kutabdia Light-house bears east, distant 4 miles.

SANGU (SUNGOO) RIVER* the entrance of which, though almost filled up with sand banks at low water, appears at high water, when these banks are covered, to be about 3 miles wide, enters the sea 13 miles northward of Kutabdia Island Light-house, the coast between being low and without distinguishing marks.

The Sangu River is navigable for large cargo boats for 18 miles from its mouth throughout the year, and connects higher up with the Karnaphuli, on which Chittagong is situated, by a channel, which is partly of artificial origin.

NORMAN'S POINT.—The north entrance point of the Sangu River, is broad and flat, and fringed with extensive sand flats, and trending gradually to a bearing of north by west and north, forms the eastern bank of entrance to the Karnaphuli River. Norman's Point, about 6 miles northward of the entrance of the Sangu, terminating the sandy sea-face, for from Norman's Point to the northward extensive flats of mud stretch out into the Karnaphuli River. Embankments are constructed on the face of Norman's Point above high-water mark to protect this part from inundation. Numerous small villages here dot the coast at about half a mile distant from the grass-grown embankment alluded to.

A considerable creek, navigable by large boats, enters the Karnaphuli Point on its north bank, and near the mouth is an extensive village, and about half a mile to the eastward a second village, with a large conspicuous tree near its western end.

LIGHTS.—About 1½ mile southward of Norman's Point, supported on white wooden tripods, are two fixed white lights elevated respectively 40 feet and 34 feet above high water, and bearing from each other north-west by west ½ west and south-east by east ½ east, 40 yards apart. They should be visible at a distance of 7 miles, but only between the bearings of north-north-west through west to south by east, as seen from sea-ward. These lights can generally be made out before that of Kutabdia Island becomes loss to view.

It is contemplated to replace the lights upon Norman's Point by a masonry light tower of greater elevation, and showing a dioptric light of greater power.

PATUNGA POINT is low and flat and ill-defined, with but few trees. An extensive maidan or grassy plain extends some miles inland from its blunted southern point, and a good-sized flag-staff, situated about the central part of the high-water line, edging the mud flat of the point, affords a good mark. It bears from the highest or easternmost light tripod in Norman's Point north 18° west, and from Jooldia Hill flagstaff south 84°, west.

Villages exist near Patunga Point, and herds of cattle are constantly seen grazing in the grassy flats of the vicinity.

The coast from Patunga Point northward preserves a low unbroken aspect, trending north and forming the eastern shore of the Sandwip Channel. Extensive white sand beach borders the coast, and at about 2¾ miles northward of Patunga flagstaff, Malish-khali Creek, which joins the Karnaphuli River below Chittagong, enters the sea.

THE KARNAPHULI RIVER, or Kyna Khyoung,* as it is called by the hill people, is the most important river in the Chittagong district, or the country comprised in the long strip of coast extending between the Bay of Bengal and the north Arrakan Hill Tracts. It rises in a lofty range of hills to the north-east, and after pursuing a tortuous course through the hill tracts enters the district of Chittagong at the village of Chandraguna.

As far as Kasalang, or a distance of 100 miles from its mouth, the Karnaphuli River is navigable throughout the year for boats of 4 tons burden. About 20 miles above Kasalang navigation is stopped by a succession of low falls and rocky slopes about a mile in length, known as the Barkal rapids Above Barkal, the stream narrows as it enters the higher ranges, its course being north for some distance until the Demagiri falls, some three days' journey from Barkal are reached, above which the river becomes an insignificant stream, with rocky beds, and only navigable by the smallest canoes.

The chief tributaries are the Kasalang, Chingri, Kaptai, and Baukheong rivers, of which the two first are navigable by boats for about three days journey above Barkal.

Below the Barkal falls the Karnaphuli flows in a bed composed of mud and sand, and its banks, covered with jungle, rise to a height of 60 feet. As far as Kasalang, or about 100 miles from its mouth, the tide is felt, and except during the rains, when the current is very rapid, its flow is sluggish.

The lower part of the Karnaphuli is better known as the Chittagong River.

* Strangers are reminded that the Karnaphuli River entrance may be distinguished from that of the Sangu by the flagstaff and semaphore on Jooldia Hill, the light tripods near Norman's Point, and the flagstaff on Patunga Point, on the north bank of the Karnaphuli.

* Statistical Account of Bengal, vol. VI, p. 25.

THE BAR of the Karnaphuli or Chittagong River extends completely across the river's mouth, and for 8 miles in a north-east and south-west direction, or from immediately abreast Jooldia Hill and flag-staff inside, the river, to 1¼ miles westward of Norman's Point near the entrance. The depths on the bar and in the best channel in April 1883, varied from 0 to 17 feet at low water. The shoalest parts are those at the south-west limit, where from 0 to 10 feet will be found at low-water spring tides, immediately between the two outer buoys which are coloured, the northern one red and the southern black; and at about 2 miles inside the outer edge of the bar, or south-eastward of Patunga flagstaff, where from 10 to 11 feet must be expected at low water.

Observations taken in the Investigator tend to show that the outer shelf of the bar, which drops suddenly from 10 feet to 4 and 5 fathoms, is most liable to change, being affected and slightly altered by each spring tide. Nor is the reason far to seek. The rapid tides of the Sandwip Channel, taking a northerly and southerly direction and impinging upon its protruding lip, scour hollows upon the comparatively shallow surface, most marked when aided by a strong south-west wind and sea.* The depth on the bar, however, does not appear of late years to have decreased—a reliable chart by Captain R. Lloyd, I.N., showing, in 1840, a depth of only 7¼ feet at certain positions on the outer part. In strong south-west winds a confused and dangerous sea breaks all over the outer part of the bar.

The best time for vessels to cross the bar is at slack water of high tide, and next to this on the first of the ebb. The tides set across the outer part of the bar, the flood to north-north-west, the ebb to south-south-east. At springs the flood tides run very strong, and are apt to sweep vessels to the northward and westward of the entrance to the river.

A draught of 22 to 23 feet by steam-vessels, or vessels towed in moderate weather during the height of spring tides may cross the bar at any season of the year. The best class of vessels, more especially during the south-west monsoon, for the trade of Chittagong, are those between 600 and 700 tons.

Sailing ships are sometimes detained on leaving the river during the south-west monsoon for want of a favourable wind. This may generally be expected at night in the shape of a land breeze from the northward.

BAR BUOYS.—In 1883 six large can buoys surmounted by baskets, marked the channel entrance to the Karnaphuli or Chittagong River: those on the western side of the channel coloured red, those on the eastern side coloured black.

From the outer red buoy, Patunga flagstaff bears N. 46° W. Mag distant 1¼ mile, and from the outer black buoy, the highest or eastern light-house on Norman's Point bears south 46° east, distant one mile and seven cables.

CAUTION.—The two outer buoys are liable to be washed away as the tide sets fiercely past them, and they are exposed to a chopping sea.

WESTERN ENTRANCE LEADING MARKS.—A square pillar coloured white, situated on a hill bearing nearly north, distant 8¼ cables from Jooldia flagstaff, brought just eastward of, and nearly touching, a white post 50 feet in height, surmounted by a white triangle on the plain bordering the foot of the hills, on a north 40° east bearing, leads over the outer part of the bar in from 9 to 10 feet at low water and about 180 yards south-east of the outer red bar buoy, making the north limit of the channel, until an overhanging tree (Leading Tree), apparently on the same ridge as, and to the northward of, the pillar, comes in line with a white triangle surmounted by a white disc on a pole, on the river bank on a north 35° east bearing. The vessel will now be about 5½ cables north-eastward from the second red buoy, which will have been passed close to, and the course of north 35° east should be pursued, with the white disc and triangle just alluded to, in line with the central part of the overhanging or Leading Tree. This leads over the deepest water on the inner part of the bar, and into the deep basin off Jooldia village, into which the river on its eastern side deepens out, and where quiet anchorage may be found.*

TIDES.—It is high-water at full and change on the outer part of the bar at the entrance to Karnaphuli River at about 0h. 45m. Springs rise 15 to 16 feet and Neaps 10 to 11 feet.

During the south-west monsoon, April to October, extraordinary spring tides have been known to rise as much as 19 feet above the level, to which the soundings upon the Admiralty Chart are reduced, or above low-water ordinary spring tides of the dry season, January to April.

Off Jooldia flagstaff, or upon the inner part of the bar, the flood tide is half an hour later than at the outer part of the bar.

Near the town of Chittagong high-water occurs about ¾ hour later than at Jooldia, and consequently 1¼ hours later than at the outer part of the bar.

The stream of the tide changes on an average 1¼ hours after the water has ceased to rise and 1¼ hours after the water has ceased to fall off Chitta-

* Reported lumps on the bar appear to be often caused by the grounding of vessels, the tendency thus arising for a bank to form around the vessel, more especially on the up-river side, or that exposed to the ebb stream.

* If caught upon the bar and unable to get either out or in, there is anchorage for one ship of 17 feet draught at low-water, close to the middle red buoy.

gong, and 1¼ hours after the same cessations in the neighbourhood of Jooldia.

During the rainy season, April to September, the ebb tide runs with great strength. Under ordinary conditions the tidal streams average about 9 knots at neaps, and from 3 to 4 knots at spring tides.

THE EASTERN CHANNEL.—Into the Karnaphuli River, which in 1877 only carried quarter of a fathom of water, has now from 6 to 7 feet at low water, and though only two cables in width in its narrowest part, may be made use of by steam-vessels, there being less tide and sea in it than in the main channel over the bar.

TO ENTER.—The northern of five trees on Five-tree Hill, seen open just southward of Big Tree in a village half a mile eastward of Norman's Point, on a bearing of north 61° east, leads in through the narrowestand deepest part, until the Leading Tree northward of Jooldia Hill flagstaff is seen just open to the right or eastward of the white triangle on the pole situated on the river bank to the southward of the white pillar on a ridge, on a north 25° east bearing, which will lead up until past the small black buoy (which makes the western side of the 7-foot patch), and nearly to abreast Jooldia tide-gauge, when the white barrel on the tripod in line with the white cross on tripod on the eastern or left bank, and two miles northward of Jooldia flagstaff, will be made out, and should be steered for on a north 15° east bearing.

PILOTS.—Vessels strange to the port of Chittagong, and those of large draught, should invariably take a pilot, anchoring in from 30 to 36 feet outside the bar, with Norman's Point light-house bearing east-north-east, distant about 2½ miles, and Patunga flagstaff north by west ¼ west, making the requisite signal.

There are two Government pilot cutters of about 30 tons burden, their distinguishing flag shown at the masthead, having a single white and red horizontal band: one of these will generally be found at anchor about 3 mile, south west of the outer bar buoys. In 1883 two of the pilots were Europeans, the remainder natives; all are well conversant with the navigation of the river and may be trusted.

The pilotage rates are as follows: steam vessels are charged a half, and vessels taking steam to tow them, two-thirds pilotage rates:—

DRAUGHT IN FEET.	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20	21	22	23*
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
In or out ...	30	36	42	50	60	70	80	95	110	125	140	160	180	205	230	260

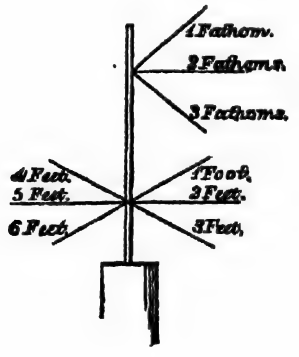
* For every foot or part above 23 feet an additional sum of Rs. 32 will be charged. Three-fourth rates will be charged for steamers and vessels towed by steam.

Vessels can make arrangements for being towed by the mail steamers of the British India Steam Navigation Company, which arrive twice a week. A tug boat is expected to be attached to the port in the course of the year 1883.

PORT DUES.—Are 4¼ annas per ton. Vessels in ballast are charged at three-quarters of this rate.

MOORINGS.—There are sixteen sets of moorings for first class ships Of these, fourteen are swinging moorings, this method being judged necessary for accommodation and safety during the south-west monsoon.

TIDAL SIGNALS.—Are exhibited in the day time from the semaphore on Jooldia Hill to vessels outside the bar, and denote the rise of tide on the bar above the level to which the Admiralty Chart of 1883 is reduced.



JOOLDIA HILL.—About 88 feet high, has upon its summit a prominent flagstaff, a semaphore pole, and a well built Government bungalow with a large wide-spreading tree close to the southward of it.

From the flagstaff the various signals regarding shipping and weather are signalled, and from the semaphore the depth of water on the bar.

GEOGRAPHICAL POSITION.*—Jooldia flagstaff is situated in latitude 20° 14′ 0″ 6, longitude 91° 49′ 55″ 2, depending upon the latest position of Madras Observatory as being in longitude 80° 14′ 51″ 3 east of Greenwich.

FIVE-TREE HILL.—Has the appearance from the river of forming the southern limit of an extensive table land, of which Jooldia Hill forms a part, and has upon it, as its name denotes, five trees, of which the central one is the most prominent.† The northern tree forms a mark for the eastern channel into the Karnaphuli River.

SOLITARY TREE.—Is round and bushy, and crowns a steep detached hill about the same height as, and situated three cables south-eastward of, Jooldia flagstaff; it forms an unmistakeable mark when navigating up or down the river.

LEADING TREE.—On the ridge about a mile north of Jooldia flagstaff hill, has a rugged looking trunk and flat umbrella-like top. Used in conjunction with the triangle and disc on a pole on the river bank on its southern side, as well as with the single triangle on the river bank on its' northern side, it is a leading mark for ascending and descending the river.

WHITE PILLAR.—Is situated on the highest part of the ridge between Jooldia flagstaff hill and leading tree. The pillar is 15 feet high square, built of brick and coloured white, having steps on its eastern side, and is surmounted by a lantern which it is proposed to use as a guide to vessels leaving the river at night.

The lantern is elevated about 90 feet above high-water. White piller seen in line with the south-east or right-hand corner of the white triangle on an iron pole, situated on the river bank, to the southward of it, bearing north 40 east, leads over the outer part of the bar in 0 feet at low-water spring tides.

TIDE-GAUGES.—At a distance of 2¼ cables west-south-west of Norman's Point is a disused tide-gauge, which covers at high-water ordinary spring tides.

Off Jooldia Hill station, on a north-west bearing from the semaphore, distant 4 cables, or on the edge of the mud bank lining the river, is a tide-gauge marked in steps at every 3 feet, by which the tidal signals governing the entry and exit of vessels, as signalled from the Semaphore, are judged.

Zero on this tide-gauge represents the level to which the soundings on the Admiralty Chart of 1883 are reduced.

BENCH MARK.—The upper surface of a flat white stone under a banyan tree at the foot, and to the westward of Jooldia Hill, is 29 feet 1¼ inches above the level to which the soundings on the Admiralty Chart are reduced, or above zero on the local tide-gauge. The heights upon the same chart are also expressed above the upper surface of this stone.

CROSSING MARKS.—Two miles northward of Jooldia Hill flagstaff, on the east or left bank of the Karnaphuli River, is a tripod surmounted by a barrel, the whole painted white; and 280 yards north 15° east of this tripod, situated amongst houses and trees, is a second tripod surmounted by a pole, on which is a white cross facing southward, and over the cross a white disc facing westward.

The barrel and cross in line lead up in deep water through the Jooldia basin, clear of danger.

FLAT TREE.—Is a widespread tree with dark green foliage, situate on the northern part of the ridge or group of hills, of which Jooldia Hill form a part. It bears from Jooldia flagstaff north 1¼ east, distant 2 miles 1 cable nearly.

Flat Tree in line with the white disc on the northern of the two tripods previously described on a south 87° east bearing, leads in 13 feet at low-water over the second bar, which extends eastward across the river from the north-east point of Patunga Island.

JOOLDIA VILLAGE.—Is long and straggling, consisting of bamboo cottages, enclosed by bamboo and leaf fences. Narrow lanes run in all directions amongst them. Numerous fresh-water tanks are scattered over the face of the country near the villages of and around Jooldia, many of which are overgrown with weeds.

Between Flat Tree Hill on the northern extreme of the Jooldia range and the group of low hills at the back of the town of Chittagong, there are no natural features calling for note.

A POLE.—Used as a crossing mark on the western or right bank of the river is situated on the north-east part of Patunga Island. It is almost in the same line as that with the white disc over white cross on tripod on with Flat Tree on ridge, and is a rough guide for crossing when bound up river. It also denotes the limit to which vessels of 23 feet draught may be moored in the pool of the river above the second bar.

THE SECOND BAR.—Extends across the river at the elbow formed by the trend of the reaches of the river around the north-east point of

* The longitude of Chittagong was redetermined in 1883 by an officer of the (Great Trigonometrical) Survey. The results of his observations are not yet published.

† In reality the group of hills forming this apparent table land are much cut up with numerous projecting spurs, detached peps, and twisting valleys, but in the distance the whole blends together and assumes a flat even-topped appearance.

Patunga Island, and has over it from 13 to 14 feet at low-water ordinary spring tides.

THE CROSSING MARK—Is the white disc over the white cross on the northern tripod on the east or left bank of the river on with Flat Tree on the ridge half a mile to the eastward, on the bearing of south 87° east.

After the second bar, the navigation in the ascent of the river to abreast the town of Chittagong is easy until the bar of hard ground, the shoalest part of which is marked by a buoy with staff and ball coloured in horizontal bands of red, black, and white, is reached. This buoy in 12 feet may be passed on either side in a depth, at low-water, of 13 feet, but threading a vessel's way amongst the shipping, if strange to the place, will prove hazardous, and before this part is reached, the services of a local pilot should be engaged

WRECKS.—In 1883 the wreck of a vessel on the southern extremity of the spit extending southward from Patunga Point was visible at low-water, and 8 cables south 54° west from the highest light tripod on Norman's Point; the wreck of a full-rigged iron vessel,* with the upper deck level with the water and masts standing, formed a conspicuous mark when approaching the mouth of the Karnaphuli River from the southward.

INNER BUOYS.—A small black can buoy marks the western edge of a 7 feet patch inside the river off Jooldia flagstaff. From it Jooldia flagstaff bears north 63° east and Patunga flagstaff north 81° west.

This patch may be passed on either side, but if using the Western channel, the west side of it is the side that should be kept.

A SMALL BLACK CAN BUOY—Is situated off the mud flat on the east or left bank of the river above Jooldia flagstaff. It is intended as a mark for the western limit of a protuberance which is about a cable south-west of it, which latter extends from the shore bank, having over it as little as 11 feet at low-water. From the buoy Jooldia flagstaff bears south 7° east and leading tree north 69° east. The channel lies on the west side of this buoy.

TWO RED CAN BUOYS—Are situated between Jooldia and the second bar. They are intended to mark the eastern limit of the bank extending out into the river from the north-east part of Patunga Island. The channel lies between these red buoys and the eastern or left bank of the river.

These buoys bear from one another north and south, and are nearly 3½ cables apart. From the northern leading tree bears south 39° east, distant 5¼ cables, and from the southern the same object bears south 80° east, distant 3¼ cables.

Above or northward of the north-east point of Patunga, known as Goapta-khali Point and the second bar, the deep water channel of the river lies near the western or right bank, and so continues until the mooring buoys of Chittagong are reached.

Six creeks enter the river on the western side between Chittagong and the second bar, named consecutively, working from the southward, Goapta-khali, Coota-khali, Kalla-khali, Doma-khali, Cooma-khali, and Mahesh-khali.

The eastern bank becomes low and swampy, and is broken up into four distinct mud-formed islands locally known as chárs; to these grass-cutters resort in their canoes There is a passage for boats eastward of these chárs at high-water.

MAHESH-KHALI CREEK or canal, enters the Karnaphuli River about 1⅛ miles south-westward of, or below the town of Chittagong, and after circuitously cutting across the low land forming the western bank of that river, enters the Sandwip Channel about 2¼ miles south of Patunga Point, rendering the apparent peninsula of Patunga an island at high water. Although this creek affords a safe and expeditious route for the many cargo boats and small craft plying with cargoes of rice and jute from the ports of the Meghna River, by the crews of which the navigation round Patunga Point is so much dreaded, it was, in 1883, nearly silted up, affording a passage only for the smallest sized boats at high water.

FAKEER'S HILL.—Of moderate height, near the western extremity of the Chittagong cluster of hills, and on the summit of which is a prominent tree, is the only conspicuous mark in the background of the river after the Jooldia group of hills is passed. From the Sandwip Channel it is reported to be visible at a distance of 15 miles on a clear day.

FIVE BLACK CAN BUOYS mark the western edge of the bank on the east side of the channel above the second bar, and there are fourteen large black can mooring buoys, which may be distinguished from those marking the channel by the fact of their being many sizes larger.

A striped ring buoy marks the shoalest part of a bar of hard ground situated half a mile westward of the Government pier, Chittagong. On this bar there is only 13 feet at low-water.

CHITTAGONG PORT—Is the second in importance and prosperity of the ports of Bengal, and affords fairly easy access and safe anchorage to ships of 20 feet, and at spring tides even of 24 feet draught.

With the improvements in lighting and buoying, the approaches to Chittagong, the moorings which have recently been laid down for large vessels, and a steam-tug which will shortly be introduced, Chittagong should continue to increase in mercantile prosperity.

The proximity of the port of Chittagong to the river Meghna, topping as that river does, much of the country traversed by the Ganges and Brahmaputra, and offering a water-way to the numerous native brigs and other craft which carry down from the rapidly developing river port of Narayanganj, jute, rice, &c., in time will probably again earn for it its former title, the "Porto Grandé" of the Portuguese navigators, who in former years frequented it. Judging by the survey of 1883, there appears no foundation for the report that the right bank of the river off Chittagong town is gradually shoaling.

The port of Chittagong and the navigable river and channels leading thereto are subject to the Indian Ports Act of 1875. The limits of the port are :—

To the north-east—a line drawn across the river Karnaphuli from the boundary pillar at the mouth of the Chaktai Nulla, to the boundary pillar on the opposite bank.

To the south—a line drawn from Jooldia flagstaff to Patunga beacon.

These limits include the river and the shores lying within fifty yards of high-water mark at ordinary spring tides.

The limits of the navigable river and channel leading to the port of Chittagong are as follow :—

To the north-east—the port of Chittagong as above defined.

To the south—a line drawn west from Norman's Point light-house.

To the north—the port as defined above, and from Patunga beacon a line drawn due west sea-ward.

To the west—a line drawn parallel to the line between Patunga beacon and Norman's Point light-house at a distance of 4 miles.

To the east—the south bank of the river between Jooldia and Norman's Point light-house.

All parts of the river between these limits and below high-water mark at spring tides, are subject to the Act.

A telegraph wire stretches across the river just above the town of Chittagong at a height of about 50 feet above high water. Small vessels bound up river, should lower their upper masts in consequence.

PORT DUES are levied at the following rates, once in 60 days, in the port of Chittagong.

Balam* boats of 10 tons and upwards, 1 anna per ton burthen.

All other sea-going vessels of 10 tons and upwards, 4½ annas for every ton burthen.

TRADE.—The trade report of Chittagong for the year 1881-82 showed an increase over that of 1880-81 of upwards of 45 lakhs of rupees, or about £380,000. The value of the trade in the latter year amounting to £1,571,956, and the number of vessels which entered and cleared the port to 96, representing an aggregate of 68,100 tons, or 19,319 tons in excess of the 71 vessels entered and cleared in the year 1880-81.†

Jute can be loaded at 6 to 7 annas per ton.

Salt discharged at the same price. The average disbursement of vessels arriving in ballast and loading rice cargoes is as follows :—

	Rs.	Rs.
300 tons	1,200 to	1,400	exclusive of towage.
600 „	1,700 to	1,900
1,000 „	2,300 to	2,600

Vessels arriving in ballast and loading jute—

1,200 to 1,400 tons, Rs. 6,000, including towage.

Steamers loading jute—

1,200 to 1,500 tons, Rs. 5,000 to 7,000.

Rice can be loaded by sailing vessels generally in two-maund bags, at from 2 to 3 annas per ton; by steam-vessels at 4 annas per ton.

Stone ballast may be procured at from 12 annas to Rs. 1-8 per ton, and can generally be discharged free of expense to the ship.

Mud ballast is also procurable.

Ballast can be discharged at 4 annas per ton.

LABOUR.—Coolies can be hired at from 7 to 8 annas per day, or by contract rates.

EXPORTS.—The export of jute is rapidly increasing. Rice, paddy, tea, and cotton are also largely exported.

IMPORTS.—Salt in large quantities from Great Britain, earth oil, and piece-goods, and occasionally timber from Rangoon.

SUPPLIES.—Fresh provisions are to be had at Chittagong at moderate prices, but fresh-water is not easily procured, the price for delivery alongside

* Boats peculiar to the locality, which carry cargo; the planking is sewn together, and the frame-work jointed. No nails or bolts are made use of in their construction.

† A variety of quaint looking country crafts averaging from 50 to 300 tons, and resembling brigs in their rig and sails, ply between Chittagong and Naryanganj on the Meghna. It would seem that these vessels partake of the reliefs of seamanship handed down to the descendants of the early Portugese navigators, who effected a settlement in this part as far back as 1664.

amounting to from Rs. 25 to Rs. 30 per 1,000 gallons. For washing purposes the water brought down by the last of the ebb, about 2 miles above the town, will be found sufficiently cleanly.

COAL in quantities up to 100 tons can generally be purchased at a cost (for Welsh coal) of Rs. 25 per ton.

COMMUNICATION.—The great trunk road to Dacca to the northward runs from Chittagong parallel to, and at about three miles from the eastern coast line of the Sandwip Channel. There is a daily post by land to Calcutta, and a telegraph office with facilities for telegraphing throughout India and Europe. Telephonic communication between Chittagong and Jooldia is, it is expected, to be shortly accomplished. Weekly mail steamers run direct to and from Calcutta.

Funds are said to have been granted for a railway, which will connect Chittagong and Daudkandi, Eastern Bengal, in which case the jute trade, at present conducted by small vessels from Naráyángánj, will receive a fresh impetus, and probably increase.

REPAIRS.—Vessels of any size up to 1,400 tons can have their bottoms repaired or cleaned by beaching on a bank of hard sand, bearing south-south-east, distant ½ of a mile, from the Port Officer's flagstaff, near the landing jetty at Chittagong. It is advisable to hire the Government anchor buoy on these occasions, which may be procured for the purpose of laying out the necessary anchors at a cost of Rs. 64.

THE TOWN OF CHITTAGONG—Also named by the Moghuls in 1665, Islamabad, or the Residence of the Faithful, has an interesting early history attached to it.* It is situated on the western or left bank of the Karnaphuli River at about 12 miles from its mouth, and lies scattered with its villages amongst a group of small, steep, table-topped hills, the whole covering an area of nine square miles

The European residents inhabit the bungalows built on the summits of these hills, and, generally speaking, each house has a hill to itself.

The chief buildings are the Government offices, Roman Catholic Cathedral, Protestant Church, a large mosque, school-houses, dispensary, post office, and club house.

The merchants' offices and business quarters fringe the rivers bank. Near at hand are the offices of the French and United States Consuls, two mills for cleansing rice.† Agencies for various shipping companies, port office, custom-house, &c

The total population amounts to 20,604, of which the greater number are males, owing to the fact that the population chiefly consists of men who come from other parts either for trade or in search of employment, leaving their families at home.

Ship building was formerly carried on to a considerable extent, but of recent years has fallen away. Ship repairs, however, can still be effected at about the same rates as are charged at Calcutta.

HEALTH.—Although the low lying native town of Chittagong, on account of the numerous disused fresh-water tanks, overgrown with rank vegetation, is considered unhealthy, the port is not by any means worse in this respect than other river ports of India Vessels visiting Chittagong are permitted the benefit of the attendance of a Government surgeon at a moderate charge.

The most unhealthy month of the year is September, or towards the close of the rainy season. Fever is then prevalent. In the months of April and May epidemics of small-pox and cholera are most to be expected. An easterly wind, if of long continuance, is said to be unhealthy. In the cold season northerly winds are most common.

WINDS AND WEATHER.—The situation of Chittagong exposes it to the force of the south-west monsoon, and the rainfall is generally heavy, averaging between 105 and 106 inches.‡ A sea breeze usually prevails during the day, rendering the air comparatively cool. The atmosphere is frequently loaded with moisture, causing heavy dew at night and occasionally dense fogs.

The prevailing winds from March to May are from south-west; from June to September they blow from the south-east; and from October to February from north-east.

From the middle of October to March, the weather is fine and settled; but towards April, or the end of the season, the wind becomes more easterly, with occasional heavy north-westers in the afternoon.

From about the middle of April the south-west monsoon blows fresh in the upper part of the Bay of Bengal; but near the land in the north-east part of the Bay, land and sea breezes are met with.

Near Chittagong, in the forenoon, the wind generally blows from the south-east and is moderate; towards the afternoon freshening up and veering to the south-west quarter.

In June and July, during the height of the south-west monsoon, it blows hard from south-south-east to south-west with rain, leaving now and then a few comparatively fine days.

† Rice at Chittagong in husking is parboiled before shipment. This is said to give it a superiority as a grain cargo, over rice not similarly treated, which latter is liable in bulk to accumulate heat at times to a dangerous extent.

‡ At the beginning of the present century Chittagong was considered a sanitarium, and resorted to from Calcutta on account of its cool sea breeze.

The velocity of the wind is least in October and greatest during June and July.

The following is the monthly mean meteorological table resulting from observations made at Chittagong :—

Month.	Temperature.	Barometer.	Cloud proportion.	Rainfall.
January	66·8	29·917	0·98	0·56
February	71·5	29·871	1·42	1·26

December	66·3	29·937	1·39	0·51

CYCLONES.—Although the neighbourhood of Chittagong is much exposed, serious injury by cyclones is not often caused. In 1849 and again in 1872 and in 1876, severe cyclones accompanied by storm-waves, worked great havoc in the district. In 1849 large quantities of slime and salt were left upon the soil when the sea water had again subsided to its natural level. In 1876 a severe epidemic of cholera occurred immediately after the cyclone, numbers of natives as well as several Europeans falling victims

WEATHER SIGNALS.—The following arrangements for weather signals for the port of Chittagong, sanctioned by Government in November 1882, are only used within the limits of the port to give notice to the shipping and general public of the early approach of a severe cyclone with its attendant storm-wave. They are hoisted on the flagstaff of the Port Officer and on the yard-arm of the flagstaff at Jooldia, on receipt of instructions from the Meteorological Office at Calcutta :—

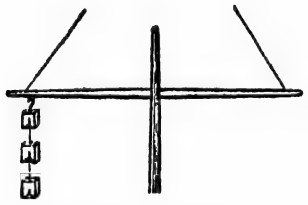
1. Day warning signal.

A Ball indicates that a severe cyclone, of which the centre is in the neighbourhood of the coast, is advancing towards the mouth of the river, and will probably advance towards Chittagong.

2. Day danger signal.

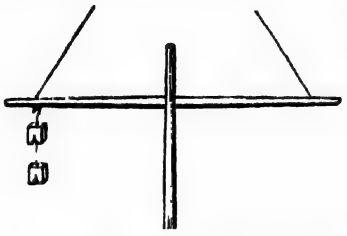
A Drum indicates that a severe cyclone with its attendant storm-wave is approaching Chittagong.

3. Night warning signal.



Three lights in a vertical plane indicate that a severe cyclone, of which the centre is in the neighbourhood of the coast, is advancing towards the mouth of the river, and will probably advance towards Chittagong.

4. Night danger signal.



Two lights in a vertical line indicate the early approach of a severe cyclonic storm and its attendant storm-wave, to the port of Chittagong.

EARTHQUAKES—Occur at rare intervals, although the shock of them is said to be often felt, generally in the winter season.

In April 1872 Chittagong was violently shaken by one of these phenomenon, the earth opening in many places and throwing up mud and water. In 1865 and as recently as 1882 shocks of earthquakes are reported to have been noticed.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.—(No. 24.)

CEYLON—EAST COAST.

TRINCOMALIE.

Rock off York Shoal.

INFORMATION has been received from the Naval Commander-in-Chief in the East Indies of the existence of a sunken rock (on which the steam-ship Kerbela struck) lying in the approach to the Merchant Ships' anchorage at the entrance to the Inner Harbour of Trincomalie.

The rock, with a least depth of 15 feet over it at low-water, lies one cable North from the centre of York Shoal, with the following bearings :—

Dockyard flagstaff	..	..	..	S. 18° E
West extreme of York Shoal	..	..	..	N. 87° E.

This new danger, not marked on charts, consists of a rocky, uneven bottom, with soft mud all round, the shoalest part being almost a pinnacle, and difficult to find with a lead. The approach is sudden on the North side, but between the rock and York Shoal there are five fathoms of water.

Offg. Port Officer of Calcutta.

Conditions for Scholarships instituted by the Gilchrist Educational Trust for the benefit of Natives of India.

[These Scholarships, like the Degrees and other Academical Rewards of the University of London, are open to Women upon exactly the same conditions as to Men.]

A SCHOLARSHIP of the value of £150 per annum, and tenable for four years, will be annually awarded to a candidate born in India, who shall become eligible by competitive examination, and shall be desirous of prosecuting a course of Academical study in Great Britain, with a view to graduation in one of the Faculties of Arts, Science, Law, or Medicine, in the University of London, under the following conditions :—

1. Of the parents of each candidate, one at least shall belong to one of the native races.

2. Every candidate must furnish proof satisfactory to the local authorities that he has completed his sixteenth year, and that his age does not exceed twenty-two years.

3. Every candidate must furnish proof satisfactory to the local authorities that, in regard to personal character and social position, he is qualified to be admitted to competition for a scholarship.

4. Candidates approved by the local authorities shall present themselves at the January Matriculation Examination of the University of London, which will be held simultaneously, under the direction of Government Sub-Examiners, at the three presidential capitals, commencing on the second Monday in January.

5 The answers of the candidates, approved as aforesaid, will be forwarded through the India Office, to the Registrar of the University, who will cause them to be reviewed by the Examiners, and who will forward their report to the India Office for transmission to the local authorities in the presidential capitals, to be by them announced to the candidates.

6. The scholarship shall be awarded to the candidate whose aggregate of marks stands highest, provided that he passes either in the Honours or in the First Division. Such candidate shall have his choice whether he will pursue his curriculum of study in the University of Edinburgh or in University College, London.

7. The successful candidate will be provided by the Government of India with a free passage to England; and will be expected to arrive in London, and to present himself to the Secretary of the Gilchrist Trust, not later than the first week in the October following his appointment

8. The Scholarship shall be considered as commencing from the 1st of July following the award of the Examiners; and shall be paid in quarterly instalments on the first days of October, January, April, and July.

9. Each Scholar shall attend in every Session at least three Courses of Lectures at the institution in which he studies; and shall transmit to the Secretary of the Gilchrist Trust, at the conclusion of each Session, a certificate from each of the Professors, whose Lectures he has attended, stating that his diligence and conduct have been satisfactory. Should he not be able to produce such a certificate, or should he be proved guilty of discreditable conduct elsewhere, he shall be considered to have forfeited his claim to the remaining instalments of his scholarship.

10. Each Scholar shall be expected to present himself at the first examination in one of the Faculties of Arts, Science, Law, or Medicine in the University of London before the termination of the second (Academical year* from the commencement of his scholarship, unless excused from doing so by the Trustees; and if he do not so present himself (unless by permission of the Trustees), or if he fail to pass, he shall be considered as forfeiting his claim to the remaining instalments of his scholarship. After having passed the first examination, he will be expected to pursue his studies with the view of presenting himself at the next examination within two (Academical) years.

11. A grant of Fifty Pounds will be made by the Trustees for the return-passage of every scholar who shall succeed in obtaining his degree in the University of London. For every scholar who may fail to obtain his degree, a return-passage will be provided by the Government of India.

12. The foregoing scheme shall be subject to revision from time to time, the Trustees reserving to themselves the power of altering the conditions of the scholarships, or of altogether withdrawing them, if they deem it expedient to do either. But no change will be made in such a manner as to affect the interests of candidates already appointed to scholarships, or in any case without twelve months' notice.

* Thus a candidate whose scholarship commences on the 1st of July 1884 would be considered as having fulfilled this condition if he pass the Intermediate LL.B. examination in January 1886; or the Intermediate B.A., the Intermediate B Sc., or the Preliminary Scientific M.B examination in the following July.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.—(No. 23).

BAY OF BENGAL—COAST OF ORISSA.

FALSE POINT.

Occasional Obscuration of Light by Fog.

THE attention of Mariners is called to the following remarks relative to False Point Light:—

During the months of January, February, and March, the prevalence of low-lying, heavy fog—over the land which lies between the light-house and the sea—occasionally interferes with the proper visibility of the light, and at times may even obscure it, although the weather at sea may be clear.

Mariners should, therefore, be specially cautious when approaching the light during the first quarter of the year, and use the lead continually.

Nya Dumka, Dy. Commr.'s Office, the 30th January 1883. W. OLDHAM, Dy. Commr.

IT is hereby notified that the undermentioned estate belonging to one Nanda Gopal Sing, who is a defendant in a criminal case and has absconded, was attached under section 172 of Act X of 1872; due notices were issued. The six months' time allowed in the notice having expired, and the absconder not having made his appearance in court, the property has come to the disposal of Government. Under the direction contained in Government order No. 1891J of the 26th March last, the said property will be put up to public sale at the Hooghly Collector's cutcherry on the 19th June 1883, corresponding with the 6th Ashar 1290 B. S. The purchaser will be subject to the following conditions:—

Conditions of Sales.

1. It will be sold to the highest bidder above the upset price. The purchaser will be considered the proprietor of the estate, and he will continue to pay the revenue fixed for it.

2. The conditions of the patta granted to the ryots of the estate will be maintained; the acknowledged rights that have been acquired by any law that is in force will also be maintained.

3. If the purchase money does not exceed Rs. 100, the purchaser will have to pay it in full immediately.

4. If the price exceeds Rs. 100, one-fourth of the purchase-money will have to be deposited at the time of the sale. The remainder is to be paid before 12 o'clock of the 15th day of the sale. If the balance is not paid within the aforesaid time, this sale will be cancelled, and the deposit will be forfeited to Government, and the property will again be put up to sale at the risk of the purchaser, and the proclamation as at present will have to be issued.

Hooghly Collectorate, the April 1883. F. WYER, Collector.

NOTICE is hereby given that the lease of the land specified in the schedule hereunto annexed, and of which the plan is open to inspection at the office of the Commissioner of the Sunderbuns, has been applied for by Jogessur Chatterjee, and will be sold at 12 o'clock noon on the 29th August 1883, Wednesday (14th Bhadro 1290 B.E.), at the Sunderbun Commissioner's office at Alipur, unless meantime the sale is stopped or postponed in consequence of claims or objections under Act XXIII of 1863 (to provide the adjudication of claims to waste lands) or owing to any other cause.

2. The lease of the land will be granted subject to the conditions which are specified below as well as to the general terms annexed to the rules for the sale of leases of waste lands, dated 12th November 1879.

Conditions.

That the land shall be subject to all existing rights of way and water and other easements.

That the right of using all streams and channels in any way navigable shall be reserved to public, as also the use of a towpath not less than 25 feet in width on each side of every such stream and channel.

That no charge shall be made for wood and timber standing on the land at the time it is leased, nor for any wood which may be cut and burnt to effect clearances or which may be used on the lands. But for wood and timber exported for sale, a duty shall be levied at such rate and in such manner as may from time to time be prescribed by Government.

That the Government reserves to itself the right to all minerals in the land together with such right of way and other reasonable facilities as may be requisite for working, getting, and carrying any such minerals. It also retains its proprietary right in the land and only confers on the lessees an occupancy right which shall be hereditary and transferable.

The Indian Law Reports.

Published under Authority of the Governor-General in Council.

THE Reports appear in monthly parts, published as soon as possible after the first of each month at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad, and will comprise four series,—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court. The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court will be reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court will be reported in the Calcutta Series.

The Parts of each series can be had separately, or all four Parts can be had stitched into one wrapper at the option of subscribers and purchasers. It will be observed from the following statement of the terms of subscription and sale, that a considerable reduction is allowed to persons taking the complete set.

Terms of subscription, payable annually in advance.

	Without postage.	With postage.

Letter No. 1219, dated the 19th August 1882, from the Government of India to this Government, recording their observations on the Report for the year 1881, and on the Resolution on that Report, and remarking specially on the mortality in the Jails in Bengal.

Read also—

Letter No 326, dated the 13th January 1883, from the Inspector-General of Jails, to this Government, reporting on the subject, with reference to the remarks made by the Government of India on the Jail mortality.

IN compliance with the orders of the Government of India regarding the earlier submission to that Government of the Annual Administration Report on the Jail Department, and the Resolution of this Government recorded thereon, which were contained in letter No. 14—1051-60, dated the 25th July 1882, the Inspector-General of Jails was requested to submit his report by the 15th April at the latest, and Dr. Lethbridge has in consequence submitted the report on an earlier date than in any preceding year.

2. The report shows that during the last five years there has been a steady decrease in the average jail population of prisoners of all classes, and that the average daily convict population has been gradually falling since 1876, the daily average in that year being 20,227, as compared with 14,801 in the past year. The total admissions during 1882 were 77,981, or slightly more than in 1881, when there were only 77,704 admissions. There were, however, 78,753 discharges during the past year, as compared with 78,642 during the preceding year. The total number of prisoners of all classes in jail on the 1st January 1882 was 16,367, and the number remaining in jail on the 31st December last was 15,595.

3. The following table shows the number of convicts in central, district, and subsidiary jails during the last eight years:—

Daily average number of prisoners	19,078	20,227	17,527	17,274	17,258	16,073	15,506	14,801

Although the number of convicts admitted direct amounted to 31,710, as compared with 31,465 during 1881, the daily average convict population fell, as above stated, from 15,506 during 1881 to 14,801 during the past year. The decrease is stated to be due to the larger number of convicts sentenced to short terms of imprisonment. Of the 31,701 convicts released during the year, 28,234 were released on the expiration of their sentences, 1,384 were released on appeal, 2,051 were released under the remission rules, 25 were released on medical and 4 on special grounds, and the remaining 3 were released in conformity with a policy similar to that adopted by the Government of India in respect to the release of life-convicts from the Andamans. The cases of all life-convicts who are confined in jails in Bengal, and are not deported to the Andamans, and whose offences were not of such a kind as to render them permanently dangerous to society or to public order, are reported to Government when the convicts have completed 20 years of their sentence; and if their conduct has been uniformly good during their imprisonment, the sanction of the Government is obtained to the remission of the remaining portion of their sentences. This practice was only introduced during the past year, and under it three prisoners were released. The Lieutenant-Governor believes that this hope of release cannot fail to operate as an incentive to good behaviour.

4. The system under which as large a number of convicts as possible are to be confined in central jails is being carried into effect, and the transfer of convicts from district to central jails, as these jails are being completed, has resulted in an increase in the average percentage of convicts in central jails on the total average number of convicts in central, district, and subsidiary jails, from 47·87 in 1880 and 50·03 in 1881 to 52·10 in 1882, though, owing to the decrease in the total convict jail population, the average number of convicts actually confined in central jails was lower during 1882 than during either of the two years which preceded it. The Inspector-General remarks:—"Besides the advantage to be gained as regards work and discipline by transfers to central jails, under the management of special officers, there is the important consideration of the health of the prisoners. At a time when a large number of the districts of Bengal are suffering severely from the effects of malaria, it is a great advantage to remove prisoners to central jails which are in most cases situated in salubrious localities." The Lieutenant-Governor fully recognises the advantages of this policy, and desires that it may be maintained. Now that the central jails are all but completed, the charges upon the State for jail purposes are thereby lessened, and the health, discipline, and useful employment of prisoners are considerably promoted.

Total daily average population of convicts in central, district, and subsidiary jails	16,672		15,506		14,401
Central Jails	7,963	47·87	7,757	50·03	7,713	53·10
District ,, ...	8,439	50·62	7,505	48·40	6,809	46·91
Subsidiary ,, ...	251	1·51	244	1·57	280	1·99

The slight increase during the past year in the average number of convicts in subsidiary jails is said to be due to the detention of short-term prisoners for employment in some of the subsidiary jails under construction, and to an increase in the number of subsidiary jails. There has, it is observed, been a decrease in the percentage of the convict population in district jails. Indeed, at many of the stations which the Lieutenant-Governor has recently visited he found that ample space was available in most district jails to meet sudden emergencies which might arise from an increase of the jail population, or to satisfy any requirements on account of transfer in the case of severe outbreaks of sickness.

5. The number of convicts under sixteen years of age in jail on the 31st December last was 84, of whom 75 were males and 9 were females, as compared with 94 at the close of 1881 and 118 at the end of 1880. The decrease is due to the opening during the year of a reformatory school at Hazaribagh for boys from Behar. The opening of this institution afforded relief to the reformatory at Alipore. The Inspector-General remarks:—"It is not satisfactory to find that some officers still continue to send children to jail instead of correcting them with whipping, and when they prove incorrigible, sending them to a reformatory school." The Lieutenant-Governor considers that, as there is now accommodation available both in the Alipore and the Hazaribagh Reformatory schools, the fact that there were 75 boys under the age of sixteen in jail at the close of the past year supports the contention of the Inspector-General that Magistrates do not fully avail themselves of these institutions when dealing with young criminals, and that the consequence is that children are too frequently found in jails who had far better have been sent to a reformatory school. The attention of all judicial officers will be drawn to the subject. The Hazaribagh Reformatory school was opened only in September 1882; no separate report has in consequence been submitted regarding it. A report should, however, be annually submitted in future. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to learn from the comments on this Reformatory, which the Inspector-General has embodied in his general report, that the school has made a very good start, and that much zeal and efficiency have been displayed by the Superintendent and the Deputy Superintendent in its management.

6. The number of convicts transported during the past year was 518 as compared with 666 during the preceding year. Owing to the strict supervision now exercised by the Medical Board in Calcutta, more convicts were rejected as unfit for transportation during 1882 than during 1881, and the necessary result has been that the number of transportation prisoners in the jails has increased. The second gang of Burmese life-convicts was received during the past year for confinement in the jails in Bengal. The total number that has been received from Burma is 36, and of these prisoners one has died and one has become insane. The Inspector-General reports that the system of keeping only two of these prisoners in the same jail has worked admirably, and that, with the exception of an assault committed by a Burmese convict upon a warder in the Bhagulpore jail, they have behaved well, and have not attempted to escape. Since the close of the year, however, the two Burmese convicts in the Berhampore jail escaped, but were recaptured. The fact has not yet been officially reported, and the circumstances and details of the escape are not in the possession of Government. Experience in Burma, as well as in Bengal, has shown that these life-convicts are a very difficult class of prisoners to deal with, and this was one of the reasons which led to a certain number of them being deported from Burma to Bengal every year. As long as these men can be kept in small numbers in different jails, the Lieutenant-Governor will make no objection to the arrangement which was acquiesced in by his predecessor; but the number may, after 20 convicts per annum have been received for a few years, become inconveniently large, and it seems to the Lieutenant-Governor that the time may come when other Governments, besides Bengal, might be invited to share the responsibility of a troublesome charge. Only 35 prisoners were executed during the year as compared with 59 in 1881 and 73 in 1880. Of 14,377 convicts in jail at the close of the year, 86 were Christians, 5,434 Mahomedans, 8,343 Hindus, 80 Budhists and Jains, and 434 belonged to other religions.

7. The number of reconvicted prisoners admitted into jail during 1882 was only 3,439, or 10·84 per cent. of the total number of convictions, as compared with 3,785, or 12·02 per cent. in 1881. The percentage of prisoners who have been convicted more than once on the total jail population has risen from 21·34 per cent. in 1878, 23·68 in 1879, and 24·55 in 1880, to 25·44 on the number of convicts in jail on the 31st December 1881. The largest number of prisoners (444) was reconvicted in Calcutta. In Dacca 122 were reconvicted as compared with 90 during the previous year, whilst in the 24-Pergunnahs the reconvictions fell from 126 to 107.

8. The total number of under-trial prisoners in jail during 1882 was 27,096, including 888 in confinement at the commencement of the year. Of these, 13,024 were convicted, 11,776 were released, 2,145 were transferred, 50 died and 4 escaped. The number remaining in jail at the close of the year was 997 as compared with 888 at the close of 1881 and 784 at the close of 1880. In the Resolution on the Report for 1881, the Lieutenant-Governor had occasion to remark on the undue length of the average detention of under-trial prisoners in some jails. From the present report it appears that the average period of detention has risen from 14·15 days in 1881 to 14·82 days, though the period is slightly shorter than the average (15·04 days) in 1880. There has been an improvement in the average period of detention in the Dacca, Hooghly, Furreedpore, Hazaribagh, Presidency (native), Beerbhoom, Bhagulpore, Darjeeling, Barasat, Bogra and Balasore jails. Though the average for the year in these jails was better than for 1881, it was still very high in some, while in the Mymensingh, Rungpore, Burdwan, Backergunge, Pubna, Midnapore and Gya jails, not only was the average period high, but it exceeded the averages for these jails for 1881. The enquiries made in connection with this subject, since the matter was noticed in the last Resolution, have disclosed the fact that in some cases very long and unnecessary delays in trials took place. The subject is one for investigation in the reports on the administration of justice, and will be noticed in its proper place.

9. Including 248 prisoners in jail at the commencement of the year, the total number of civil prisoners in jail during 1882 was 3,651 as against 3,253 during 1881. Of these 3,364 were released, 65 were transferred and 1 died, leaving 221 in jail at the close of the year. There has been a steady increase in the number of civil prisoners confined during the last seven years, the number during the past year being more than double the number admitted in 1876. The numbers admitted during each of the past seven years are as follow:—

1877	...	... 1,749	1880	...	... 2,749
1878	...	... 2,419	1881	...	... 3,016
		1882 ...	... 3,403

added that the Lieutenant-Governor "cannot believe that this is the case in any jail in Bengal, but he would wish the matter to be fully enquired into." In this report Dr. Lethbridge refers to this subject. He says—

"Under orders from the Government of India, official visitors have lately made special enquiries into the subject of offences and punishments in the jails of Bengal. In no instance has it yet been shown that a prisoner has been unnecessarily punished, or that the power to punish prisoners, which is vested solely in the Superintendent, has been exercised by his subordinates. So long as the offences recorded are not serious ones affecting discipline, but are petty ones against simple rules of the department, it is in my humble opinion a mistake to suppose that a large number of such offences indicates anything but increased care and vigilance in the management of a jail. It has taken six years to bring Superintendents to understand that, for the purposes of discipline, every petty case must be enquired into and recorded."

During his recent tours, the Lieutenant-Governor made an especial point of enquiring into this subject, and he can confirm the conclusions which the Inspector-General records. In a place like a jail, there must always be a large number of petty offences, and so long as these are for the most part limited to failures and omissions in connection with the work, and are not offences against discipline, the actual number is of comparatively little consequence, provided, as would seem to be the case, that a large proportion is detected by the vigilance of the Jail staff. In the matter of punishments, it was conclusively established by the registers, and by the testimony of official and other visitors, that no penalties were ever imposed except under the orders of the Superintendents.

Regarding the effect of the use of steam machinery on the number of offences relating to work, the Inspector-General says:—

"It is constantly asserted by those who have no practical experience on the subject, that the employment of steam machinery in jails tends to make work easier, and therefore those jails which have machinery do not properly carry out sentences of hard labour. A glance at column 5, Statement VI, will show that the jails in which steam machinery is employed, viz. Alipore, Presidency, Bhagulpore and Buxar, are those in which the largest number of offences against work are recorded. Nothing is more irksome to a naturally idle prisoner than work on a machine, which keeps him actively employed for a certain number of hours. If to this we add the fact that the amount of work done by each individual can be checked with great exactness, we have what all prisoners, and certainly all native prisoners, thoroughly dislike—continuous work, and at the end of the day no opportunity of cheating in the quantity of the task done. In the Hooghly jail, where a large task at bag-sewing is exacted, the offences against work have been very numerous."

Upon this question the Lieutenant-Governor, having in the course of his last year's tour visited all the jails in which machinery has been introduced, is convinced that sentences of hard labour can be properly carried out in them. In dealing with machinery, constant and unflagging attention is required, and this continual mental tension, combined with the necessity for prompt physical action, is probably more distasteful to natives than any amount of simply bodily exertion.

14. The following statement shows the number and nature of the punishments inflicted for offences during the past three years:—

	By Criminal Courts.	By Jail Officers.					Total punishments.	Percentage of total punishments on daily average number of prisoners.
		Solitary confinement.	Reduced diet.	Solitary confinement with reduced diet.	Corporal punishment.	All other punishments.
1880	76	2,590	16,314	2,417	4,735	35,876	62,008	344·47
1881	101	2,464	9,411	2,258	914	34,843	49,740	269·77
1882	79	3,067	5,087	3,068	416	36,857	48,574	258·18

There has been again a very marked decrease in the number of corporal punishments, only 416 prisoners having been so punished as compared with 914 in 1881, 4,735 in 1880, and 8,232 in 1879. The Lieutenant-Governor has reason to believe that the punishment of whipping is only resorted to in jails in cases of clear necessity, and that it is administered with due discretion. The penalty of corporal punishment is reserved for the graver class of offences, and the power of inflicting it can scarcely be withdrawn from the Jail authorities, having regard to the extent of the jail population, and the number of incorrigible prisoners which it must contain. There was an increase in the number of instances in which solitary confinement was adopted as a means of punishment. The increase is probably due, it is stated, to the construction of solitary cells in many jails in which they did not formerly exist. There has been a decrease of nearly 50 per cent. in the number of prisoners punished by reduced diet. This form of punishment recently formed the subject of a correspondence between the Government of India and this Government, and Dr. Lethbridge discusses it in his Report at considerable length. After quoting in extenso Rules 649-52 of the Bengal Jail Code, regarding penal diet, he observes—

"It will be seen that every precaution is taken to prevent the use of reduced diet doing any injury to the prisoners. The giving of penal diet, either with or without solitary confinement, whenever possible only on Sundays, is a special feature of the use of this punishment in Bengal, which might be adopted in other provinces with benefit, as it has been entirely successful with us. I was led to introduce this plan for the following reasons:—A large proportion of the Bengali prisoners, with their poor physique and want of stamina, cannot stand work and penal diet together. It appeared to me that Sunday, when no work is done, would be a suitable day for giving reduced diet. It is, moreover, a day when a prisoner, having nothing else to do, is more likely to think of his food and to feel the loss of it. The giving of reduced diet on Sundays is now universally adopted in the jails of this province, and it is very seldom that it is resorted to on week days It is probably due to the introduction of this rule that the number of cases in which reduced diet was given has decreased from 16,314 in 1880 and 9,411 in 1881 to 5,087 in 1882. I have had the following table prepared in my office, showing the offences for which this form of punishment has been employed:—

Offences.	Total number of prisoners punished with penal and reduced diet in 1882.
	Male.	Female.	Total.
Offences relating to work	2,968	160	3,128
Smoking or having forbidden articles in possession ...	299	11	310
Wilful disobedience	180	8	188
Quarrelling and talking	117	53	170
Personal cleanliness and conservancy	114	.....	114
Neglect of duty in convict officials	110	.....	110
Offences relating to food	89	12	101
Stealing and spoiling jail property	76	7	83
Assault and criminal force	56	9	65
Insubordination and malingering	6	.....	6
Other offences against prison discipline	734	78	812
Total ...	4,749	338	5,087

The large preponderance of cases relating to work shows that the punishment has been used with judgment. The following jails are those in which this form of punishment was most largely used:—

	Number of prisoners punished with reduced diet.	Ratio per cent. of deaths to daily average number of prisoners.
Midnapore, District and Central	941	5·22
Bhagulpore, Central	790	4·66
Pooree	584	3·16
Alipore, District and Central	540	5·67
Presidency, Native	325	2·65
Bogra	215	12·29
Hooghly	196	4·19
Bhagulpore, District	169	6·12
Furreedpore	148	2·79
Maldah	125	3·79

I give opposite each jail the death-rate. The average death-rate of this province for the year was 6·98, so that a large proportion of the jails which have used this punishment are among the healthy jails of the province, and I therefore conclude that reduced diet as a punishment, applied in the way it has been, is not injurious to the health of prisoners"

The Lieutenant-Governor does not think that the figures furnished afford any ground for supposing that this form of punishment is inflicted indiscriminately, or with want of judgment. The rules laid down are very clear, and moreover the punishment cannot, under Rule 632 of the Jail Code, be inflicted without the sanction of the medical officer, and this perhaps is the surest safeguard against any improper application of the penalty. The fact also that the jails in which this form of punishment was most largely resorted to were (with the exception of Bogra) jails in which the death-rate was below the average death-rate of these provinces, would seem to indicate that the punishment had no prejudicial effect

The Inspector-General remarks that this steady increase is of considerable importance, as the accommodation for civil prisoners is limited, and there seems to be no doubt that, if the increase continues, more accommodation may ultimately have to be provided for prisoners of this class. The daily average of civil prisoners in jail during the past year was, however, only 252·7, and it is therefore not likely that any steps will be required in this direction for some time, even if the increase in admissions continues.

10. The following table shows the amount expended during the year, and that which preceded it, both in the erection of jail buildings and on repairs:—

	1881.	1882.	1881.	1882.	1881.	1882.	1881.	1882.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Central Jails	1,62,862	3,14,654	740	803	9,067	27,823	1,72,675	3,73,280
District „	4,83,118	5,16,462	1,514	2,832	24,423	61,920	5,09,055	5,81,214
Subsidiary „	48,360	45 974	301	687	9,872	9,686	58,533	56,287
Total .	6,94,340	9,07,090	2,561	4,323	43,362	99,309	7,38,163	10,10,781

The total expenditure was thus considerably in excess of the expenditure during the preceding year. Excluding works which have been commenced, the Inspector-General gives a list of the works still required to place the Jail Department "in a thoroughly satisfactory position as regards its jail buildings." The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to see that the list is a small one, and he hopes, as funds become available, to provide for them. When they have all been finished, and the numerous works now in hand are concluded, Mr. Rivers Thompson believes that there will be little left to do either to improve the sanitation or to add to the security of the various jails in Bengal, as far as the buildings themselves are concerned. The report of the progress made in the work which is now being carried on is, with one or two exceptions, satisfactory. The Chumparun and the Julpigoree jails have been completed; the additions to the Furreedpore jail have been finished, and also the additions to, and the alterations in, the Russa and Mozufferpore jails; the new Gya and the Pubna jails are now occupied by the prisoners; with the exception of the civil ward, which will soon be ready, the Rungpore jail has been completed; in the Bhagulpore jail one of the new barracks has been completed, while a second barrack in the Backergunge jail will soon be finished; the new barracks in the Mymensingh jail will, it is expected, be finished before the rains, and progress is being made in the Dacca jail. Where there has been some delay, namely, in the case of the Lohardugga, Singbhoom, and Bogra jails, the Lieutenant-Governor will see that every effort is made to complete the work as soon as possible. The daily average number of prisoners employed during the past year on jail buildings was 3,538 as compared with 4,108 in 1881.

11. The high state of efficiency to which the warder guard had been brought was noticed in the Resolution on the Report for 1881. Still further advances have been made in respect to the system of guarding. The Inspector-General writes—

"In the year under report there was a further development of the warder guard system. Warders were substituted for police constables in the reserve guards of 15 jails as a tentative measure. This change proved so successful that, towards the end of the year, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor sanctioned the introduction of warder reserve guards into all the jails of the province. Besides the fact that the reserve guard will now be composed of thoroughly trained men under the command of an ex-soldier of the native army, a considerable improvement has been made in the arms supplied to this guard. In the place of the muzzle-loading musket with cartridges containing the ordinary spherical bullet, the guard is now armed with the breech-loading Snider rifle and supplied with buck-shot cartridges. In addition to these improvements, a regular alarm parade has been introduced, in which every jail official is made to take a part, so that he may know exactly what he is expected to do in the case of a disturbance. Most of the jails have made great progress in the military training of their warder guards."

All these changes, which have been successfully introduced, reflect credit upon Dr. Lethbridge. The Lieutenant-Governor had an opportunity of testing the efficiency of the guard on drill and parade in many places.

12. There was a great decrease in the number of escapes of convicts during the past year, there having been only 13 escapes from jails and 7 from subsidiary jails, as compared with 28 from jails and 9 from subsidiary jails in 1881. These results are due to the improvement in the system of guarding, as well as to the increased security of many of the jails. How great the change in this respect has been is seen at a glance, when the number of escapes now is compared with what it was in former years. From the statement furnished in the Report, it appears that the total number of escapes has diminished from 192 in 1870, 157 in 1871 and 128 in 1872, to 37 during 1881 and 20 during the past year. Of the 13 escapes from jails, only 6 were from within jail walls—2 being from the Rajshahye jail, 2 from the Midnapore district jail, which was insecure and has since been closed, 1 from the Burdwan jail, and 1 from the Durbhunga jail. The remaining 7 were effected by prisoners outside the walls. There were no escapes from cells at night, and on this point Dr Lethbridge remarks: "For the first time in the history of the department no escape was effected at night from a sleeping ward or cell, nor is an escape possible after the prisoners are locked up, if jail officers will only carry out the elaborate rules laid down for their guidance." The Lieutenant-Governor regards the results as extremely good, both as marking the better system of jail discipline and the efficiency of the jail guards. For neglect in connection with the 20 escapes, 18 salaried officials and 6 convict officials were punished. Of the prisoners who escaped during 1882, 14 have been recaptured, as well as 6 prisoners who escaped in previous years.

13. The report of the state of discipline in the jails throughout these provinces during the past year is most satisfactory, the jails, with a few exceptions, having been thoroughly well managed in this respect. There was, however, an increase in the percentage of offences committed by prisoners on the daily average jail population. The total number of offences committed during 1882 was only 48,570 as compared with 49,749 in 1881; but in consequence of the reduction in the jail population, the percentage rose from 320·8 to 328, while the percentage on the total number of prisoners who passed through the jail rose from 76·7 in 1881 to 77·4 during the past year. The number and details of offences committed during the last three years are shown in the following table:—

	Criminal offences.	Breaches of Jail Rules.			Total offences.
		Smoking or having possession of forbidden articles.	Offences relating to work.	Other offences against prison discipline.
1880	81	3,890	40,527	17,715	62,013
1881	111	3,711	25,963	17,964	49,749
1882	78	3,994	26,692	18,288	48,570

In letter No. 1219, dated the 19th August 1882, the Government of India remarked regarding jail offences—

"The total number of jail offences in Bengal is still very far in excess of those returned by other Provinces, but the Inspector-General, while admitting this, argues that, as every offence has to be personally enquired into by the Superintendent, there cannot well be any fabrication of evidence against prisoners by the subordinate officials, and he is evidently inclined to believe that elsewhere, though not in Bengal, the objectionable system prevails of allowing the warders and overseers to punish summarily, without record, a large number of petty shortcomings on the part of the prisoners. Sir Ashley Eden showed, however, by his remarks on the Report for 1880, that he considered the subject one calling for special attention, and the present Lieutenant-Governor expresses his concurrence in Sir Ashley Eden's observations. The Governor-General in Council thinks it would be well if the official visitors of jails were invited carefully to enquire into the matter as opportunity offered."

Acting on this suggestion, the Inspector-General was requested to point out to all official visitors the Lieutenant-Governor's wish that they should "take the opportunity of enquiring, on the occasion of their visits to the jails, into the causes of the great number of jail offences, and also as to whether petty offences or shortcomings on the part of the prisoners are ever allowed to be punished summarily and without record by warders and overseers." It was on the health of the prisoners. Under proper conditions the Lieutenant-Governor sees no objection to the maintenance of the rule. Superintendents of Jails have to deal with all classes of convicts and with all kinds of offences, and there are men who can be reached through their stomachs who would be indifferent to other forms of punishment. He would only enjoin the caution that the same judgment should be exercised in inflicting this form of punishment which has hitherto been observed.

15. Out of a daily average of 14,240 male and 561 female convicts, there was a daily average of 739 male and 10 female convict officers. The number of such officers punished during the year was 1,578 as compared with 1,334 in 1881, the increase being due, it is stated, to the stricter supervision enforced. Convict warders have worked very well, and the introduction of this grade of officers is reported to have been a great success. Many Superintendents are in favour of replacing some of the paid staff by convict warders. A strong proof of the satisfactory manner in which these convict warders have worked is found in the fact mentioned by Dr. Lethbridge, that only one out of a daily average of 158 was degraded during the past year. The mark system, under which prisoners obtain a remission of a portion of their sentence, has also continued to work satisfactorily, and the punishment of prisoners by depriving them of some of the marks which they have earned has in some of the large jails helped to reduce the number of such punishments as penal diet and whipping. In both directions this is a salutary result.

16. The following statement shows the total expenditure on central district and subsidiary jails during the last eight years:—

Excluding subsidiary jails, the total expenditure on central and district jails was Rs. 9,01,769 as compared with Rs. 8,49,632, and the average cost per prisoner Rs. 58-8-7 as against Rs. 52-12-9 in the preceding year, and Rs. 57-10-6 and Rs. 61-8-2 in 1880 and 1879 respectively. Although there was a decrease in the total jail population, there was a net increase of Rs. 10,511 in the expenditure on rations for the prisoners, the average expenditure on diet being Rs. 19-4-10 per man as compared with Rs. 17-12-5 in 1881. The increase is attributed in part to the increase in the price of the principal articles of consumption. It was also, it is stated, in part due to the fact that medical officers exercised in many jails the power of giving animal food and of varying the diet in other ways. Dr. Lethbridge remarks:—"This action has had my full approval, because a large proportion of the prisoners in our jails were received in a very unhealthy condition, and most of the jails are situated in malarious districts. It is necessary, under the present circumstances, to do our utmost to improve the general health by giving a better and more varied diet." To this point reference will be made hereafter, when commenting on that portion of the report which refers to the health of the prisoners.

There was a decrease in the average cost of the diet per prisoner in nine jails: in the other jails there was an increase. Excluding the Presidency and the Darjeeling jail, in both of which, for special reasons, the expenditure on account of diet is always high, the highest average cost per prison r for diet was Rs. 23-9-5 in the Julpigoree jail, and the lowest, Rs. 11-9-6, in the Singbhoom jail. The high rate in the Julpigoree jail was caused by the price paid for meat, the supply of which was necessitated on medical grounds. The extreme cheapness in the Singbhoom jail was due to the fact that, as there is no proper means of export, the price of rice in that district is low. The average cost varied in the different jails between those two extremes, local circumstances, or better or worse management, having the effect of raising or decreasing the cost of feeding the inmates.

17. The total expenditure on account of establishment in jails only amounted to Rs. 3,76,450 as compared with Rs. 3,49,657 in 1881. The following statement gives the details :—

	Expenditure.		Increase.	Decrease.
	1882.	1881.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Superintendents and Deputy Superintendents ...	1,38,801	1,17,855	20,946	...
Jailors, Deputy Jailors, and Assistant Jailors ...	1,03,051	1,00,288	2,763	....
Native Doctors and Compounders	14,631	15,383	...	752
Warder staff	1,19,967	1,16,131	3,836	...
Total ...	3,76,450	3,49,657	26,793	.....

There was a considerable increase under the head of "Superintendents and Deputy Superintendents." This increase was in a measure due to the new arrangement regarding the superintendence of the Presidency Jail. Formerly a Surgeon attached to the General Hospital held also the appointment of Superintendent and Medical Officer of the Presidency Jail, and the Jail Department was debited with only half his salary. A separate Superintendent has now been appointed, and during the past year the whole of his salary was paid by the Jail Department. The increase of Rs. 3,836 was due to the substitution of warder reserve guards for police reserves in many of the jails; the step has, however, caused an actual saving, as the amount expended on police guards was less by Rs. 7,566 during the past year than during 1881.

18. The Lieutenant-Governor is sorry that he cannot congratulate the Head of the Jail Department on the maintenance of the reduced expenditure which was last year exhibited. Setting aside for the moment the large outlay in the Public Works Department for buildings (amounting in 1882 to Rs. 10,10,781), which he hopes has come to an end, the Lieutenant-Governor notices that, except under two heads—"General supervision" (where the reduction is trival) and "Police" (where the diminished cost is the natural result of the introduction of the warder guard system)—the expenditure under every head is higher than in the previous year. Though special reasons are given for the enhanced cost of dieting, the increased expenditure is remarkable under "Establishments," "Hospital charges," "Medical stores," and "Clothing," when it is seen that the daily average population of all classes in the jails was considerably below that of 1881. The subject demands a little closer investigation. Even the general cause which is alleged as regards the higher price of food-grains admits of some modification. For instance, under the good management of Dr. Gupta and the Jailor, expenditure under this head was lower at Pooree than in the preceding year; and it is not readily intelligible why the excuse of rise in prices should be accepted for Balasore and Cuttack in the same division, as sufficient to account for the difference between Rs. 19-12-8 and Rs. 20-3-8, the average expenditure per prisoner for diet in those two jails respectively, and Rs. 13-7-5, the cost per prisoner in Pooree. Similar results are noticeable elsewhere. The difference between Jessore (Rs. 16-4-10) and the neighbouring district of Nudden (Rs. 20-2-9) is traceable, the Lieutenant-Governor suspects, more to the better arrangements and management of Dr. Comins in the former than to "the higher prices prevailing in the markets." The Inspector-General of Jails should call the special attention of all Superintendents, and especially of those in charge of the larger and central jails, to the facts recorded in the fifth chapter of his report. A better system of gardening can evidently be adopted in most Bengal jails, both for the supply of provisions to the prisoners and as a healthy and remunerative occupation. No excuse is admissible here, where Superintendents have to deal mainly with classes accustomed to agricultural labour, and where success has attended intelligent efforts in such unpromising soils as at Midnapore and Bankoora. Again, the practice which obtains in Beerbhoom (where purchases of food-supplies are made from the surrounding country, and not from the sudder bazar dealers of the station) indicates a plan by which unreasonable claims can be met with advantage. Some allowance is admissible for the extra cost of "Establishments," in the fact that the annual increments to the pay of jail officials account for the difference; but the "Hospital charges" are excessive, and are scarcely explained by the common formula of the higher prices paid for articles of diet. The extraordinary charge of Rs. 106-13-1 per sick prisoner at Bankoora should be met by an enquiry into the case of the "very old and invalid prisoners" confined in that jail. If their circumstances admit of release, the Lieutenant-Governor would be ready to entertain representations in their favour. The cost for "Clothing" in most jails is abnormally high, and with the facilities for manufacture in our central jails, this item of expenditure should admit of reduction.

19. The average number of prisoners undergoing sentences of labour during 1882 was 14,569·37 as compared with 15,274 during 1881. Of these, 3,598 were employed specially on prison duties, of whom 749 were employed as prison officials, 1,386 as prison servants, 895 in gardening, 407 in making articles for jail use, and 161 in executing jail repairs.

There was a decrease of Rs. 63,950 in profits as compared with those of 1881. In the case of central jails alone there was a falling off in the amount of profits of Rs. 59,667 as compared with the profits realized during 1881. In the Presidency Jail the profits of the Press decreased in consequence of a lower scale of charges being introduced during the year. There was a profit of only Rs. 31,722 in the Bhagulpore Central Jail, as compared with Rs. 51,834 in 1881. Dr. Lethbridge remarks regarding the falling off in profits generally, and specially in the Bhagulpore Jail—"The lower earning at the Bhagulpore Central Jail is due to the withdrawal of the support which it had enjoyed in former years from Government departments, and it also suffered to a considerable extent since the publication of the Government of India Resolution on jail manufactures. Large contracts that the jail stood a chance of getting could not be tendered for while there was any uncertainty regarding the future of the industry. All things considered, I think it a subject of some congratulation that I am enabled to present such a favourable statement of the year's work, for outside the provincial requirements, I may say the demand from other Government departments has practically ceased." In the Buxar jail the profits rose from Rs. 10,145 in 1881 to Rs. 31,853 in 1882. The whole of the goods manufactured in this jail were for Government, and consisted of tents, and clothing for prisoners, warders, the police and hospital patients. In the Rajshahye Central Jail the profits rose from Rs. 13,623 in 1881 to Rs. 19,404 during the past year. Owing, it is explained, to the almost complete failure of the castor-oil seed crop in the district, from which supplies for this jail are usually drawn, the profits from castor-oil pressing, the staple industry of the jail, were not so large as were anticipated. Seed had to be procured from greater distances and at an enhanced cost. A loss of nearly Rs. 5,000 was also incurred by the sinking of two boats of oil in the Ganges. A new industry, that of silk-worm rearing has, however, been introduced into the jail with a view to improving the breed of silk-worms in the neighbourhood, and the mulberry is being cultivated in the jail garden. The profits in the Hazareebagh jail amounted to Rs. 8,268. The aloe-fibre matting, which is manufactured in this jail, received special mention at the Exhibition in Melbourne. The aloe plantation round the jail is thriving, and the excess fibre has a ready sale. A profit of Rs. 7,051, as compared with Rs. 4,479 in 1881, was realized in the Darjeeling jail. The profits were principally derived from the bakery, from which almost the whole of Darjeeling is supplied with bread. The average earning per prisoner sentenced to labour in central, district and subsidiary jails was lower than in 1881, but higher than in 1880, the average during the three years being—

	Rs.

There was an increase in the value of plant and machinery from Rs. 4,18,433 in 1881 to Rs. 5,22,108 in 1882. The Lieutenant-Governor is, on the whole, satisfied with the results of the manufactures during the past year. The profits are lower no doubt than they would have been had not there been a number of jails under construction, and had not the acceptance of contracts been to some extent retarded by the uncertainty which existed in connection with the future of the manufactures in consequence of the Resolution of the Government of India to which Dr. Lethbridge refers. The question is one which has been the subject of direct correspondence between the Government of India and this Government, and need not be further alluded to in this place.

21. Three new subsidiary jails at Netrokona, Nowgong and Kurseong, were open during the year, while those at Rajmehal and Deoghur were converted into Magistrates' lnjuts, the total number of subsidiary jails at the close of the year being 83 as compared with 82 at the close of 1882. The total number of prisoners of all classes in subsidiary jails at the close of 1881 was 676 as compared with 610 at the close of 1880; 28,136 were admitted during the year as compared with 27,589 during 1881; and the number remaining in the subsidiary jails at the close of the year was 823 as compared with 676 at the close of 1881. As regards convicts only, the number admitted during the year was 14,474 as against 14,317 admitted during the preceding year; the total number, including those in the jails at the commencement of the year and those admitted by transfer, was 15,307. Of these 9,975 were transferred, 4,879 were released, 13 died, and 2 escaped. There were, at the close of the year, 438 convicts in confinement as compared with 334 at the close of the preceding year. The daily average of convicts in subsidiary jails during the past year was 280·56 as compared with 244·13 in 1881. There was an increase in the average detention of convicts in subsidiary jails as compared with 1881, 1880 and 1879, though the average period was less than in 1878 or 1877;

the average during 1882 being 6·82 days as compared with 6·03 and 6·11 days in 1881 and 1880 respectively. The Inspector-General explains that the increase was due to the detention of some short-term prisoners in subsidiary jails under construction, and remarks that, as a rule, prisoners, except those sentenced to less than seven days' imprisonment, are transferred on conviction to district jails. The Lieutenant-Governor accepts the explanation, and trusts that, when the necessity for detaining convicts in connection with the construction of subsidiary jails has ceased, the average period of detention will show a satisfactory diminution. The average detention of under-trial prisoners increased from 11·7 days in 1881 and 12·05 days in 1880 to 12·88 days in the past year. Though this was much less than the average detention in 1879, when it reached 17·16 days, it was high, as the period during which prisoners committed to the Court of Sessions are in confinement awaiting trial does not affect the average period of detention of under-trial prisoners in subsidiary jails as it does the average detention in all the jails in these provinces taken as a whole, and consequently the average detention in subsidiary jail should be much less than the average in jails. The average detention in the following subsidiary jails was very high :—Godda (30·67 days), Ungool (27·54 days), Gaibanda (20·50 days), Cutwa (20·46 days), Attia (20·36 days), and Kishorgunge (19·68 days). In calling the attention of District Magistrates to the subject of the long detention of under-trial prisoners, their special attention will be directed to the detentions in the case of sub-divisions. The number of civil prisoners admitted during 1882 was 184 as compared with 97 in 1881, 93 in 1880, and 84 in 1879. Only 6 prisoners were subjected to corporal punishment for breaches of jail rules as compared with 33 in 1881 and 81 in 1880. The infliction of corporal punishment for jail offences is now prohibited in all subsidiary jails. The number of deaths amongst prisoners of all classes in subsidiary jails rose from 14 in 1880 to 21 in 1881, and 22 during the past year; the percentages on the daily average population being 2·06, 3·20, and 2·93 respectively. The total expenditure on subsidiary jails during 1882 was Rs. 1,33,826, of which Rs. 56,287 was expended on public works, as compared with Rs. 1,33,200 (including Rs. 56,533) expended in 1881. The total average cost of each prisoner, exclusive of the amount spent on public works, was Rs. 103-3-11, as compared with Rs. 117-0-9 in 1881, the average cost of diet per prisoner being Rs. 18-2-8, as compared with Rs. 19-3-10 in 1881. The net profits from manufactures was Rs. 2,354, as compared with Rs. 2,795 in 1881; the average profit per prisoner sentenced to labour being Rs. 10-1-8, as compared with Rs. 13-11-2 in the preceding year. During the year the revised Jail Code for all central and district jails, to which allusion was made in the Resolution on the last report, was passed, and shortly after the close of the year a code, applicable to subsidiary jails only, received the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor. This code, it is hoped, will simplify the work of reference, as in the old Jail Code the special rules for subsidiary jails were also embodied, and reference to any particular rule was thus rendered a work of difficulty. Now, all the rules applicable to subsidiary jails only, have, after revision and improvement, been brought together and issued in a convenient form

22. The vital statistics contained in the Annual Jail Report for 1881, as compared with those contained in previous reports, has formed the subject of a correspondence with the Government of India, and a copy of a further report on the subject submitted by Dr. Lethbridge has very recently been forwarded to the Government of India, with an intimation that the Lieutenant-Governor would deal more fully with the question when reviewing the Annual Jail Report for 1882. In considering this most important subject, the Lieutenant-Governor will examine the statistics for the past year, as compared with those which preceded it; enquire into the causes, as far as they are set forth in the report, of the sickness and mortality amongst the prisoners; and advert to the steps which have been taken to improve the sanitary condition of the jails in these provinces.

The year, as regards the number of admissions into hospital and the percentage of the daily average sick, cannot be regarded as a healthy one. The total number of admissions of prisoners of all classes into hospital in central, district, and subsidiary jails was 27,154, as compared with 27,589 in 1881. The following table given by the Inspector-General of Jails shews the vital statistics in all jails and subsidiary jails since 1863 :—

From this table it appears that the percentage of the average daily sick on the average of the total jail population was 5·33, which is higher than in any year since 1866 ; while the percentage of deaths from all causes was 6·81, which is higher than the percentage in either of the two preceding years, though lower than the percentage in 1878 or 1879. Excluding from the deaths those which were caused by cholera, the percentage was 5·86, which is lower than the percentages similarly obtained for the three preceding years. The Inspector-General is of opinion that the increase in the number of admissions into hospital is, in part, due to the fact that the fortnightly weighments have resulted in the sending to hospital prisoners who would not, under the old system, have been subjected to medical treatment at all, and the remarks of the officer in medical charge of the Dacca Jail point to the same conclusion. In this view Dr. Lethbridge is no doubt correct, and the conclusion is consistent with the fact that, with a higher percentage of daily average sick, there was, excluding deaths from cholera, a decrease in the percentage of deaths, as compared with the percentage in the three preceding years. Referring to the statistics regarding convicts only, it appears that the total number of deaths was 1,034, or 6·98 per cent., as compared with 1,065, or 6·86 per cent., in 1881. Excluding deaths from cholera, the death-rate in the same class was 6·03, as compared with 6·34 in the preceding year. The results of the year as compared with the preceding three years were as shewn in the following table :—

Year.	Ratio per cent. of average strength of convicts. Admissions into hospital.	Daily sick.	Deaths. Total.	Deaths. Excluding deaths from cholera.
1879 ...	167·8	5·3	9·79	7·96
1880 ...	168·2	5·4	6·36	6·36
1881 ...	169·6	5·4	6·86	6·34
1882 ...	174·1	5·5	6·98	6·03

There was a considerable increase in the percentage of admissions into hospital, and a slight increase in the average daily sick, and also in the percentage of deaths from all causes. It is, however, in some degree, satisfactory to observe that the death-rate, excluding deaths from cholera, has decreased. Excluding deaths from this cause, the average death-rate in all the jails in Bengal for the past 20 years is 5·13 per cent., and there were 23 jails, containing 8,845 convicts, in which the death-rate was below this percentage, and 24 jails, containing 5,675 convicts, in which the death-rate exceeded it. In the Mymensingh Jail the death-rate amounted to 22·6 per cent. In the following jails the death-rate, though not so excessive, was very high:—Chumparun (14·5), Burdwan (14·2), Bogra (12·2), Lohardugga 11·9), Dinagepore (11·7), Purneah (11·4), Beerbhoom (11·1), Moorshedabad (10·7), and Singbhoom (10·2). In no other jail did the rate reach 9 per cent., though in Backergunge it was 8·8 per cent., and in four other jails—Mozufferpore, Sarun, Durbhunga, and Buxar—it exceeded 8 per cent. In the Darjeeling, Julpigoree, Rajshahye, and Rungpore jails the death-rate exceeded 7 per cent., and in the Baraset, Hazaribagh, Monghyr, and Nuddea jails it exceeded 6 per cent. The death-rate in the Julpigoree Jail shews a very satisfactory decrease from 28·5 per cent. in 1881, to 7·5 per cent. in 1882, whilst in the Baraset Jail it fell from 20·8 to 6·7, and in the Nuddea Jail from 10·5 to 6. The number of admissions into hospital of cases of dysentery and diarrhœa amounted to 7,765, as compared with 7,484 in 1881, though the deaths from these diseases decreased from 475 to 431. There were 825 admissions for anæmia and general debility, and 97 deaths from these causes, against 100 in 1881; 80 deaths out of 745 cases of respiratory diseases, as compared with 107 in the preceding year; 8,602 cases of intermittent fever and 69 deaths; 49 deaths from scrofula and phthisis, against 43 in 1881; and 48 deaths from remittent and continued fever, the same number of deaths as in the preceding year. The number of deaths from cholera was large, and the disease was generally severe in type, there being 146 deaths out of 256 cases, or 57·03 per cent. The deaths from this disease were much in excess of those in 1881 and 1880, in which years they amounted to only 80 and 31, respectively. The jails in which the largest number of deaths from cholera took place were Dacca (30), Bhagulpore (26), Mymensingh (17), Chumparun (17), Alipore (11), and Buxar (9). In the following jails there was an increase in the percentage of the daily average sick:—

Of the convicted prisoners who were discharged during the year, 56·73 per cent. as compared with 54·35 in 1881, 47·51 in 1880, and 37·16 in 1879, had increased in weight, while the percentage of those who had lost weight was only 28·76 as compared with 33 per cent. in 1881, 38·68 in 1880, and 48·87 in 1879.

23. In reviewing the vital statistics, the Inspector-General gives in his Report extracts from the reports of many of the officers in medical charge of the various jails. These reports all tend to show that the chief cause of the sickness and mortality in the Bengal jails is the sickness of the free population either in the district in which the jails are situated, or in the district in which the prisoner was first received before his transfer for the sake of his health to some jail in a more salubrious climate. The Government of India, in their letter No. 1219, dated the 19th August 1882, suggest that "endeavours should be made to ascertain whether the figures of jail sickness and mortality during the past decade can in any degree be taken to indicate a falling off in the health of the general population," and give statistics which show a steady increase in the admissions for, and deaths from, intermittent fever, and suggest that "the steady increase in this form of climatic disease" is "possibly not without significance from this point of view." The attention of Government has already on various occasions been directed to the unhealthiness of certain parts of the country, and endeavours have been made to ascertain the cause of the insanitary condition of these localities. The Report of the Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal for 1881-82 shows that during that year fever was worse than during any preceding year of which any statistics were kept. Bearing this fact in mind, the Lieutenant-Governor believes that in the Report now before Government there is abundant evidence to confirm the view that the unhealthiness of the prisoners in the Bengal jails, and the mortality amongst them, must mainly be attributed in a very great degree to the unhealthiness of the country generally rather than to any defects in the jails themselves, or to the diet and treatment of the prisoners, or the work upon which they are employed. Out of 1,034 deaths, 645, or 62·37 per cent., were caused by fever, intermittent and remittent, dysentery and diarrhœa, anæmia and general debility; and excluding 146 deaths due to cholera, the percentage of the deaths from the above-mentioned causes amounted to 72·6 per cent. of the total number of deaths. It is a well-known fact that dysentery, diarrhœa, anæmia and general debility are the results of fever, and this is clearly pointed out and affirmed both by Dr. Lethbridge and by many of the medical officers whose opinions he quotes. Accepting this fact, it appears that, excluding cholera, nearly three-fourths of the deaths in the jails during the past year, resulted from fever or from its after effects, though the vast majority of the deaths are attributable to the latter cause. Nor is this state of things peculiar, it is believed, to jails alone. Fever of course prevails in them, but is not confined to them. It is certain that it prevails also to a very large extent amongst the free population, though the want of reliable vital statistics renders it impossible to compare with any approach to accuracy their state with that of the jail population. Registration of deaths amongst the free population is, it is true, kept up, but the work has scarcely reached any statistical accuracy. The Army Sanitary Commission, in their memorandum on the Report of the Sanitary Commissioner with the Government of India for 1880, attempt, in the absence of better materials, to compare the vital statistics of the jail population with those of the Native Army, though it is admitted at the same time that the army differs so much from the jail classes in age and condition that any comparison is scarcely admissible. In the Lieutenant-Governor's opinion, any comparison is not only scarcely admissible, but is practically worthless. The jail classes are recruited generally from the lowest classes, and those, too, of a race of people from which the military authorities will not recruit. Many of them, too, are, as the present Jail Report shows, in bad or indifferent health at the time of their admission into jail. The Native Army, on the other hand, is composed of picked men. Not only is no man selected for it who is in bad or even in indifferent health, but no man is allowed to enlist who does not possess certain physical qualifications which ensure, as far as possible, a continuance of sound health. Any comparison, therefore, between two such classes is useless, and the results are not only valueless, but misleading. That fever and its sequelæ are prevalent in many parts of the country is a well-known fact, and the general state of health amongst the lower or criminal classes is clearly shown from the number of prisoners admitted in bad or indifferent health. The following table, showing the number of prisoners in good, bad, and indifferent health when admitted during the last five years, indicates apparently that the general health of the free population, or at least of that portion of it from which the bulk of the jail population is drawn, is deteriorating:—

	State of Health on Admission of those who were admitted into the Jails during the year.			Proportion to total number admitted.
	Good.	Indifferent.	Bad.	Good.	Indifferent.	Bad.
1878	83,108	4,945	2,306	87·90	8 19	3·91
1879	69,021	6,626	2,131	84 64	11 24	4·12
1880	64,404	7,516	2,343	81·83	13·84	4·31
1881	60,884	6,858	2,366	81·59	13·64	4·77
1882	59,374	7,083	2,000	79·39	15·38	5·23

The Report of the Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal for 1881-82 supports this view and shows that fever is spreading in Bengal.

The following statement shows the extent to which the death-rate was affected by the prisoners admitted in bad or indifferent health:—

	State of Health on Admission into Jails of those who died during the year.			Proportion to total deaths.
	Good.	Indifferent.	Bad.	Good.	Indifferent.	Bad.
1879	987	386	348	56·83	22·25	20·87
1880	519	312	289	46·34	27·86	25·80
1881	566	295	270	50·60	24 86	24 08
1882	517	295	251	48 64	27·75	23·61

Dr. Lethbridge remarks—

In regard to the prevalence of disease in the province, and the state of health of the free population, I find the following remarks in paragraph 9 of the Government of India Resolution on the last Bengal Jail Report:—

"It is worthy of notice that the number of prisoners was smaller than it had been for many years, and it may therefore be inferred that the outside population was not suffering from privation or high prices, and that the health of the new admissions may therefore be presumed to have been at least fairly normal."

However appropriate these remarks may be in regard to other provinces, they cannot be said to apply to the relation between disease and general prosperity in Bengal. The great increase of sickness in Bengal proper is not due to privation or high prices, but to malaria. The peasantry of Rungpore, Bogra, Dinagepore, Mymensingh, Rajshahye, Jessore, Moorshedabad, Burdwan, and Nuddea are a prosperous peasantry as regards food and the means wherewith to purchase it, but in consequence of the extraordinary development of malaria in these districts, they have come to our jails in such hopelessly diseased conditions as to largely affect the death-rate of the prison population.

In another part of his Report Dr. Lethbridge remarks—

Dysentery and diarrhœa, anæmia and debility.

There has been a considerable increase in the number of cases of dysentery and diarrhœa, 7,765 as compared with 7,484 in 1881. The number of deaths have decreased from 475 in 1881 to 431 in 1882. I have said that it is the almost universal opinion of medical officers that a large proportion of these cases are the sequelæ of malarious fever, and that it is the asthenic form of diseases of the bowels, which follow after frequent attacks of fever, that are so fatal. In cases of asthenic dysentery, ipecacuanha has little effect. The medical treatment of these cases is most unsatisfactory, and in those in which malarial cachexia is pronounced, the result is almost invariably fatal. A considerable proportion of the prisoners received into our jails in indifferent and bad health suffer from these diseases in various stages of development To see that they have their origin in malaria and not in the conditions peculiar to jail life, I give the following table showing the jails in which the average of deaths from bowel-complaints was highest:—

	Per cent.		Per cent.
Chumparun	9·97	Buxar—Central	5·08
Bogra	9·21	Durbhunga	4·82
Mymensingh	8·53	Baraset	4·74
Singbhoom	7·71	Dinagepore	4·70
Beerbhoom	7·05	Backergunge	4·67
Moorshedabad	6·69	Julpigoree	4·30
Sarun	5·95	Burdwan	4·03

It will not, I think, be denied that most of these jails receive prisoners from, and are situated in, districts which are well known to have suffered severely from malarious fever. The case of the Buxar Central Jail is a good instance of the relation between malarious fever and subsequent bowel-complaints and anæmia. Towards the close of 1881 this jail, with the rest of the district of Shahabad, suffered severely from intermittent fever There were 1,094 admissions from fever in 1881 as against 588 cases in 1880. Occurring as the fever did towards the end of the year, it had no apparent effect in increasing the cases of anæmia and bowel complaints. In 1881, therefore, we find only 24 cases of anæmia with no deaths, and 280 cases of bowel-complaints with 14 deaths. The effect in the subsequent year 1882 is remarkable; with a reduced number of cases of intermittent fever, 751 against 1,094, we have 52 cases of anæmia with 9 deaths, and 468 cases of bowel complaints with 46 deaths. I have already quoted the medical officer's opinion in regard to the health of the prisoners of this jail. What I hope is clear from these statistics, is the fact that the bowel complaints in our jails are not due to any preventible causes within the jails, but to the very unhealthy condition of many of the districts of Bengal; and until there is a decided improvement in the general health of the population from which the prisoners are received, the jail mortality cannot be expected to be as low as it is in other provinces, where no such climatic causes prevail.

The remarks quoted by the Inspector-General of many of the medical officers lead to the same conclusion, viz., that the unhealthiness of the prisoners in the Bengal jails is due to the unhealthiness of the country generally from which the prisoners come, or that part of it in which the jail is situated. The Government of India, in their letter No. 1219, dated 19th August 1882, remarked that the causes of the steady deterioration in the health of the convicts must be sought elsewhere than in the relations between diet and disease in jails. The Army Sanitary Commission, in its memorandum to which reference has already been made in speaking of jail vital statistics, remarks: "Whatever influence defective dietary may have had in individual cases, the disease and death causes must be sought in the local and sanitary surroundings of the prisons" The connection between the health of the jail population and the health of the free population in the surrounding district is very clearly set forth in the report of the Committee appointed to enquire into the cause of the unhealthiness of the Chumparun jail. The report is quoted in extenso by Dr. Lethbridge at paragraph 131 of his report. The Committee went very carefully into the whole subject, and arrived at the conclusion that the sickness in the jail was intimately connected with the health of the district. The Committee remark—

Though the conditions of jail life at Motiharee may at one time have affected seriously the health of feeble men, they have not been at any time bad enough to enfeeble persons in good health. When the deadly capabilities of the district work with full effect on the jail population, it seems that the prisoners cannot be saved from it by any care or skill or means that can be used in jail.

The Army Sanitary Commission, in their memorandum, remark: "In England the prison population is considered to be much more healthy than the same age in civil life," and after comparing the vital statistics of the Native Army with those of the jail population, they come to the conclusion that "for some cause the mortality of prisoners must be greatly in excess of that due to the same ages in the native population, or at least in that portion of it over which some sanitary control is exercised." The Lieutenant-Governor has already pointed out why conclusions drawn from any such comparison cannot be accurate, and he is not prepared to say that in healthy jails, if no convicts were brought from unhealthy districts, the mortality would be markedly greater than amongst persons of the same age amongst the free population. In unhealthy districts it most probably is considerably higher. On this point, as regards Chumparun, the Committee remark—

In ascribing so potent an influence to the public health in determining jail mortality at Motiharee, we have to face two difficult questions. First, can it be supposed that the death-rate of the jail represents no more than the general death-rate of the population, even in the sickliest places? This would be an extravagant supposition. It must first be asked and answered whether convicted persons, in their vitality, fairly represent that of the free population. In Chumparun it seems clear that they do not. They come largely from the most unhealthy tracts. As pauperism leads to crime, and sickness and pauperism are reciprocal causes each of the other, it is probable that where both abound, the one directly, and the other indirectly, will lead to imprisonment. If this be so, mortality in jail, in such a place as Motiharee, must always be greater than it is among the people in general. In addition there is the common effect of separation from family and mental depression. This, though not easily definable, is doubtless an influence against the prisoner's health. On the other hand there are the advantages of regular life in jail, with good food and lodging and clothing and moderate work, to weigh against the evils of free life. The former will frequently prevail, but the balance is sometimes heavily turned against them.

No doubt the effect of confinement on prisoners is, at first especially, to render them depressed and less easily able to cope with diseases than men in a state of freedom. The entire change in life on their admission into jail may also in some cases have a prejudicial effect on them during the earlier stages of their confinement. But the longer prisoners remain in jail after a certain time, the lower apparently becomes the death-rate per cent. The returns for the past year show that the percentage of deaths amongst prisoners who had been in jail for less than six months was 6·03; in the case of those who had been in confinement between six and twelve months it rose to 8·86, whilst the highest percentage, 9·76, was in the case of prisoners who had been in jail between one and two years. By the end of this time, apparently those who entered in bad health had either died or been cured, and the prisoners generally had also become accustomed to jail life, for the percentage after two years begins to fall, and goes on steadily decreasing the longer the prisoners are in confinement. The percentage amongst those who had been in jail from two to three years was only 6·11, while of those who had been in confinement from three to seven years, only 5·27 per cent. died, and after seven years the percentage was only 4·05. The Army Sanitary Commission, in their memorandum, observe that most of the jails in India require a thorough sanitary inspection and enquiry as the first step towards improvement; and the Government of India, in their letter of the 19th August last, suggested to this Government the necessity for the appointment of a small committee to discover the source of the sickness and the remedies to be applied. The Government of India have been already informed of the reason why their suggestion was not at once adopted by this Government. On this subject Dr. Lethbridge says:—

Having considered the mortality in each of the unhealthy jails separately, I am now in a position to offer some remarks regarding the recommendation made by the Government that a special committee should be appointed to enquire into the steady deterioration in the health of the prisoners in Bengal jails. I have shown that if the mortality, exclusive of cholera, is taken, as it should be taken, as the final test of health of our jails, there has been no steady deterioration. In fact there has, notwithstanding the increasing unhealthiness of the country, been some improvement since 1879. This view was supported by the fact that there has been a steady increase in the weight of the prisoners discharged. If the prisoners of 24 jails, containing 61 per cent. of the jail population of the province, show a death-rate, of 35·9 per mille, there can be nothing radically wrong in the general management of the jails of Bengal or of the diet scale in force. In 1879, when the diet scale was supposed to be defective, there were only 11 jails containing 26 per cent of the jail population, which taken together, gave a death-rate of 36 per mille. From what has been said in regard to each of the jails showing a large mortality, it will be seen that climatic causes, acting not only on the prisoners in jail, but on the free population from which those jails received their prisoners, has been the main cause of sickness, if, after the failure of numerous committees to discover the causes of epidemic fever in Bengal, the Government still thinks that any good is to be gained by another special committee, I have no objection to offer Supposing such a committee was appointed, it should, I consider, go into the general question of the health of the population from which the convicts are taken, and, further, such an enquiry to be of any value must be made during the season of greatest sickness, that is, from July to October No pleasant cold-weather tour will give any idea of what medical officers, have to contend with during the unhealthy season. With few exceptions, all the civil officers, medical officers, and Public Works officers of this province, are connected with the administration of jails in Bengal, either as official visitors, superintendents, medical officers, or executive engineers, and no opportunity has been lost of utilizing suggestions of any value made by them. I do not therefore expect that they, at least, will be able to suggest any improvements that have not already been adopted. If, therefore, a committee is appointed it should consist of officers not connected with Bengal. I am of opinion that such an enquiry as that recommended by the Government of India is not necessary; but if Government thinks otherwise, a thorough enquiry by one really competent officer, like Dr. Walker, late Inspector-General of Prisons of the North-Western Provinces, where the mortality has always been low, will be of more use than any committee composed of officers who do not possess his practical experience."

There is much force in Dr. Lethbridge's remarks, and so much has been, and is still being, done in these provinces for the improvement of jail buildings, water-supply, ventilation, drainage, &c., that the Lieutenant-Governor, as the Government of India has already been informed, would prefer to await the result of another year's administration before considering seriously the question of the appointment of a committee.

24. To whatever cause the unhealthiness of many of the Bengal jails may be attributed, the Lieutenant-Governor is decidedly of opinion that the evil is not due to any defects in the jails themselves. A great expenditure has been incurred in their construction. They are palatial residences compared with the mud huts of the native villages. Many of them during the last few years have been provided at a very heavy cost with barracks of two and three stories in height, for the accommodation of prisoners at night. The occupants, therefore, are not only well raised from the ground, but have clean, roomy, well ventilated wards to sleep in. Wherever it has been possible, the prescribed space of 36 superficial and 560 cubic feet per prisoner has been increased to 50 superficial and 648 cubic feet; so that the question of overcrowding can but seldom arise; indeed, wherever a jail has more than its full complement of prisoners, endeavours are, as a rule, made to provide additional temporary accommodation, or to utilize verandahs and corridors instead of overcrowding the wards. Great care is taken to supply good drinking-water, and every jail is provided with a proper filter, and where water is procured from wells, it is raised by means of a pump to prevent contamination. The care taken with regard to diet is evident from the frequent exercise by medical officers of their power to order animal food or to change the diet scale if required under special circumstances, the result being that with a smaller number of prisoners the expenditure on diet was larger than during the preceding year. The kinds of labour have remained unchanged, but Superintendents can lessen the labour if a prisoner is losing weight, or if his general health is suffering, and no prisoner with a sentence of over two months can now, under the new Jail Rules, be put on penal labour before the expiration of a month. The fortnightly weighments are continued, and have resulted in many cases of failing health being discovered and dealt with, which would formerly have probably escaped observation until it had become really pronounced; and it is quite possible, as the officer in medical charge of the Dacca jail remarks, that the diminished death-rate may be due to the free admission into hospital, the prisoners at once receiving proper treatment. Special measures have been taken in specially unhealthy jails. The Chumparun jail was removed to what it is hoped will prove a more healthy site; the Mymensingh jail has, since the close of the year, been so completely drained as to lower the level of the sub-soil water by about seven feet, while in other jails, as already remarked, elevated barracks have been erected. The number of visits paid by official visitors, who are otherwise unconnected with the administration of the department, has very much increased, their special attention is directed to all matters connected with the health of the prisoners and the sanitary condition of the jails, and minute enquiries are made by them into all such subjects as diet, water-supply, labour, &c. The results of this careful supervision, and the close scrutiny to which jail administration is now subjected down to its most minute details, can hardly fail, the Lieutenant-Governor considers, to have a good effect; and he trusts that, with the extensive improvements above adverted to, they may bring about a diminution both in the sickness and mortality in the Bengal jails in the current year.

25. With reference to the question of diet, elaborate rules on the subject have been embodied in the new Jail Code, and, as has already been observed, the medical officers are empowered to alter the diet scale and to make certain variations in it when necessary. Stress has been laid on the issue of antiscorbutic fruit to the prisoners. Dr. Lethbridge states that he believes that most of the medical officers are satisfied with the existing scale, and there is no necessity for altering it at present.

26. During the year Dr. Lethbridge (who was absent for three months on leave) visited 39 out of the 46 jails in these provinces. The five which were not visited contained only 6·31 per cent. of the total jail population. The Lieutenant-Governor notes with satisfaction the names of the officers specially mentioned by Dr. Lethbridge, and desires to record his appreciation of the valuable services which Dr. Lethbridge has himself again rendered to the department. No officer could take a keener interest in his work, and the result is apparent in Bengal in the large and beneficial reforms introduced into the jail administration of these provinces, during the last few years. The Lieute-nan[illegible]Governor's thanks are due to the official visitors, who, in the past year, have taken a prominent interest in matters connected with jail management.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Jails for information and guidance, and to all Commissioners for information, and for communication to the district and sub-divisional officers in their divisions.

Ordered, also, that a copy of this Resolution and a copy of the Report be submitted to the Government of India in the Home Department.

ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE HOOGHLY BRIDGE COMMISSIONERS FOR THE YEAR 1882-83.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL—PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

No. 1628C, dated Calcutta, the 14th June 1883.

COMMUNICATIONS.

READ—

Administration Report of the Hooghly Bridge Commissioners for the year 1882-83.

Read again—

Public Works Proceedings (A), Communications for July 1882, Nos. 1-2, being the Administration Report of the Hooghly Bridge Commissioners for 1881-82, together with the Resolution passed thereon.

RESOLUTION.—The actual receipts and expenditure on the Hooghly Bridge during the year 1882-83, as compared with the estimated amounts, were as follow:—

	Revised estimate.	Actual.	More.	Less.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Receipts ...	4,84,571	4,85,682	1,111	...
Expenditure ...	4,12,682	4,00,678	...	12,004

In addition to the actual expenditure of Rs. 4,00,678, a further sum of Rs. 1,404 was charged against the suspense account.

2. Rupees 1,98,334 were paid to Government during the year towards the liquidation of the outstanding debt, the balance remaining unpaid at the close of the year being Rs. 14,88,333. The amount invested in Government paper on account of the reserve fund was Rs. 5,37,176 as in the previous year. The cash balance was Rs. 97,558 and stock to the value of Rs. 1,08,761 has been provided to meet any emergent repairs that may be necessary through an accident occurring to the bridge.

3. The railway and local traffic receipts stood thus—

	1881-82.	1882-83.
	Actual.	Revised estimate.	Actual.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Railway traffic ...	3,09,038	3,32,500	3,25,556
Local traffic ...	1,10,959	1,10,959	1,11,813

The receipts from railway traffic were Rs. 16,518 more than in the previous year. These were entirely due to an increase in the quantity of goods carried, and not to any enhancement in the schedule of rates. The receipts from local traffic were Rs. 854 above the amount realized in 1881-82, owing to the bridge tolls having been leased out from the 1st March last at Rs. 854 monthly in excess of the amount paid by the previous lessee. The present lessee is Baboo Hurdeal Marwaree.

4. Both the steamers Buckland and Hetty were employed throughout the year. The former, as stated last year, is now only employed to convey passengers across the river on the days when the bridge is open; the latter was utilized for towing vessels up and down through the bridge opening, and her services appear to have been in greater requisition during the year than in the previous year, as evinced by the large increase in her earnings.

5. No sea-going vessels collided with the bridge, but there were 124 collisions of other vessels against 140 in the last year. None of these collisions caused any damage to the bridge, and only one of them was attended with loss of life. Besides these actual collisions, the bridge narrowly escaped another one, which, if it had actually occurred, might have involved the destruction of a large portion of the bridge. A steamer with three flats in tow had left her moorings at the strongest time of an ebb tide, and being unable to steam against the tide drifted on to the bridge. Fortunately the tide changed just in time and floated the vessels away. A Port Rule has therefore been passed prohibiting inland steamers from hauling out of their moorings during the freshets on the last quarter of the ebb tide.

6. An application was made by the Tramway Company during the year for carrying the tramway lines across the bridge into Howrah, but was refused by the Bridge Commissioners on the representation of the Agent of the East Indian Railway that the traffic across the bridge would be seriously interfered with

7. The Agent of the East Indian Railway Company submitted an application that all goods conveyed across the river by boats, &c., and not across the bridge, and all passengers arriving at or leaving Howrah by train, should be exempted from tolls. These tolls are at present collected by the Railway Company. The matter has had the careful consideration of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor. It was decided that considering the risks to which the bridge is exposed, and the probability of the revenue being considerably diminished on the opening of the railway bridge at Hooghly, it would not be wise to forego any source of the present income.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Bridge Commissioners for information.

Ordered also that this Resolution be published in the Supplement to the Calcutta Gazette for general information.

PROCEDURE REGULATING THE SUBMISSION BY PUBLIC BODIES OF ADDRESSES TO THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

No. 20—697-713.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India, in the Home Department (Public),—under date Simla, the 21st May 1883.

READ—

Home Department Resolution Nos. 12—408-424, dated the 16th March 1883, laying down rules for the submission by public bodies of addresses to the Government of India, the first of which is as follows :—

I.—An address, the sole or principal object of which is to promote or oppose a measure of Imperial legislation, or one which bears immediately upon general questions of Imperial policy, may be submitted direct to the Governor-General in Council.

RESOLUTION.

THE foregoing rule must be read with, and be held to be subject to, rule 14 of the Rules for the conduct of the legislative business of the Council, which relates to Bills actually pending before the Council of the Governor-General for making laws and regulations, and is as follows :—

Communications on matters connected with any Bill before the Council may be addressed either in the form of a petition to the Governor-General in Council, or in a letter to the Secretary, and must in either case be sent to the Secretary. Ordinarily such communications will not be answered.

Except in the case of the High Court at Fort William, such communications from courts, officials, or public bodies shall ordinarily be sent through the Local Government.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Local Governments and Administrations marginally noted for information and guidance ; that a copy be forwarded to the several departments of the Government of India for information ; and that the Resolution be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India for general information.

Rainfall, Weather, and State and Prospects of the Crops.

Statement showing Rainfall, Weather, and State and Prospects of the Crops in the different Districts of Bengal, as reported to Government during the week ending the 16th June 1883.

No.	District, and date of return.	Rainfall at Sudder Station in inches.	Character of the weather, state and prospects of the crops, and state of health at date.
	BENGAL.
	Western Districts.
Burdwan Div. 1	Burdwan, June 16 '83	3·03	Weather—cool on account of the rain. Good rain throughout the district except in the Cutwa sub-division. Prospects favourable. Land being generally ploughed and sown. Public health fair.
	Culna	4·01
	Cutwa	0 46
	Raneegunge	4 39
2	Bankoora, „ 16 „	1·75	Weather—hot and cloudy, with occasional rain. Rain fell in almost all parts of the district during the week. It has done much good to the crops, prospects of which are now favourable. Public health good.
	Hishenpore	5·19
	Maliara	3·90
	Khatra	3·12
3	Beerbhoom. „ 16 „	6·84	Weather—cooler; frequent showers. Owing to considerable rainfall, ploughing and sowing for aus crop have become general Prospect of til crop good. Health of district good.
	Rampore Haut	1·16
4	Midnapore, „ 16 „	2·28	Weather—cloudy, with occasional showers. More rain wanted. Ploughing and sowing going on. Public health good.
5	Hooghly, „ 16 „	2·81	Weather—sultry, with rain. More rain required in Jehanabad sub-division. State and prospects of crops fair. Public health good, but there are still a few sporadic cases of cholera.
	Howrah „ 18 „	4·48*	Rain daily since 12th June, but of a local and partial character. Aus rice and jute growing. Ploughing for amun rice going on.
	Oolooberia	2·04
	Central Districts
Presidency Div. 6	24-Pergunnahs, June 18 '83	2 05*	Weather—seasonable; cloudy with occasional rain. The general fall of rain during the week has materially assisted in the cultivation of the early crops, but more rain is wanted in the Sudder sub-division and in Bussirhat and Diamond Harbour for the cultivation of amun crop. Public health generally good.
7	Nuddea, „ 16 „	...	The rains appear to have regularly set in. Weather cloudy and warm. State of crops fair. Cholera abating; fever unchanged. There has been a slight decrease in the mortality this week.

SUMMARY OF METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, 15TH JUNE 1883.

THE chief feature of the past week has been the establishment of the south-west monsoon over the province. It was advancing along the Pegu and Aracan coasts last week. During the early part of the week, whilst it was still progressing slowly northwards, winds were light and unsteady at the head of the Bay. They began to strengthen on the 12th, by which time the current had reached the Bengal coast and was giving general rain in North and East Bengal. Previous to this, from the 10th, the southerly winds crossing the Bengal coast from the head of the Bay were continued as easterly winds in Behar and gradually and steadily increased the humidity of that province. On the morning of the 12th the atmospheric conditions, and more especially those of humidity, cloud, and air motion of the whole province generally were those of the south-west monsoon. One frequent feature of the rains is the tendency to the formation of small cyclonic vortices in which the fall of the barometer is small, but which usually give heavy rainfall to those districts over which they pass. They more generally form in the Bay between the Orissa, Chittagong, and Aracan coasts. Last year, for example, the rains were ushered in by a storm or cyclonic whirl, which formed to the south-east of Saugor Island and advanced across the coast between that station and Balasore. Occasionally they form over the land. The returns shew that for two or three days previously the deficiency of pressure had been greatest in the neighbourhood of Saugor Island, Balasore and Calcutta. Heavy rain began to fall over this area on the 13th, and a feeble cyclonic circulation was set up, the indraught to which at once greatly diminished the rainfall in Eastern and Northern Bengal. It moved during the next three or four days to the north-north-west over Hazaribagh, Gya, Patna, into North Behar, and has given very heavy and general rain to Orissa, South-West Bengal, Chutia Nagpur, and Behar.

During the week pressure has been steadily below the average. The deficiency was greatest at Saugor Island (·1″) and False Point (·09″). The mean temperature of the week was below the average at all stations except Patna and Jessore. The deficiency was greatest in Orissa. High day temperatures were registered in the early part of the week in South Behar, the highest being 108·2° on the 9th at Gya. Winds were southerly in South and East Bengal, and easterly in North Bengal and Behar. They were light and variable in South Behar and Chutia Nagpur on the 9th, but easterly winds set in on the 10th and rapidly increased the humidity up to above the June average.

The following table gives the more important data for the distribution of temperature and rainfall in each of the seven meteorological districts of the province during the past week :—

The table shows that rainfall has been in excess of the normal amount in Orissa, South-West Bengal, North Behar, and Chutia Nagpur. In East Bengal it varied very slightly in amount from the normal, whilst in North Bengal only 60 per cent. of the average amount was received, and in South Behar barely 40 per cent. The average number of rainy days was everywhere in excess of the normal number, so that the deficiency in the rainfall in North Bengal was due entirely to the lightness of the showers.

The amount of rain received since the 15th of May is generally below the average; the deficiency being most marked in North and East Bengal and South Behar. The deficiency is 50 per cent. in South Behar, and 25 per cent in East and North Bengal.

Saturday, 9th June.—Pressure was increasing in East and North Bengal, and falling elsewhere, more especially in Chutia Nagpur and Behar. Pressure was relatively lowest in a narrow area stretching from Saugor Island to Hazaribagh. Temperature was diminishing except in the more easterly districts of Behar. The mean temperature of the day was 4° above the normal in Behar. Winds were strengthening at the head of the Bay. They were light and variable in South Behar and Chutia Nagpur and normal in direction elsewhere. The air was much damper in South-West and East Bengal, where the sky was also overcast. Humidity also began to increase rapidly in South Behar and the sky to cloud over. General rain fell on the day in East Bengal. The heaviest falls were 4·97 inches at Netrokona in the Mymensing district and 4·12 inches at Noakholly. Light to moderate showers fell in the north-eastern districts of North Bengal, and also in the Burdwan, Bankoora, Beerbhoom, Moorshedabad districts of South-West Bengal, and in Monghyr, South Bhagulpore, the Sonthal Pergunnahs. A few local showers of no importance fell in the remaining districts.

Sunday, 10*th June*.—The barometric changes of the previous 24 hours were small. The general tendency was towards decrease of pressure Temperature was steadily diminishing with the increased rainfall The mean for the day was 4° below the normal in East Bengal and 2° in South-West Bengal and Orissa. It was still slightly above it in Behar and South Nagpur, and high maximum temperatures continued to be registered (the highest being 107·2° at Gya). The wind continued to increase steadily in force at the head of the Bay. Skies were overcast or thickly clouded in every part of the Province except South Behar and Chutia Nagpur. General rain fell during the day, moderate in amount, over North and East Bengal. The heaviest falls were 3·16 inches at Naraingunge and 2·81 inches at Kishoregunge of the Mymensing district. Light to moderate showers fell in Midnapore, the 24-Pergunnahs, Howrah, and Hooghly. The heaviest was 1·46 inches at Howrah.

Monday, 11*th June*.—Pressure increased slightly during the past 24 hours, but was below the normal by amounts vating from ·03″ in Behar to ·1″ at False Point. Temperature was below the average in Orissa and Bengal and slightly above it in Chutia Nagpur and Behar. The mean temperature of the day was 6½° below the normal in Orissa. Easterly winds were now fully established over Behar and were giving it overcast skies and increased humidity. General rain fell in Orissa, South-West Bengal (excepting Midnapore and the 24-Pergunnahs, East and North Bengal, and local showers in Chutia Nagpur and the Sonthal Pergunnahs The most important falls were Cuttack 3·47 inches, Ranaghat 4·51 inches, Meherpore (Nuddea district) 4 16 inches, Atia (Mymensing district) 3·80 inches, and Serajgunge 3·1 inches.

Tuesday, 12*th June*.—A further increase of pressure took place during the past day and it was now below the average by amounts ranging from ·03″at Calcutta to ·06″ at False Point and Saugor Island. The mean temperature of the day was 5° below the average in Orissa and 1° above it in Behar and Chutia Nagpur. The highest dry temperature was 105·9° registered at Buxar. Winds were lighter and less steady at the head of the Bay Easterly winds continued in Behar and now brought the humidity up to the June average, showing that the monsoon was established over the Province. Skies were overcast or thickly clouded. General rain, generally less in amount than on the 11th, fell in Orissa, South-West Bengal, and East Bengal, and also in Behar and Chutia Nagpur. The heaviest falls reported were 5·18 inches at Purulia (Manbhoom), 3·22 inches at Raneegunge, and 2·98 inches at Beerbhoom, Soory. A few light showers fell in North Bengal: North Behar was the only area in which no rain fell.

Wednesday, 13*th June*.—Pressure began to give way, and a small area of low pressure and cyclonic circulation was formed during the day in the south-west districts of South-West Bengal and adjacent districts of Orissa, where pressure had been in defect to a greater extent than elsewhere during the previous three or four days. Pressure varied from the normal by amounts ranging from ·01″ at Durbhunga to ·11″ at Saugor Island. The mean temperature of the day was 3° above the average in East and North Bengal and North Behar, where little rain was falling, and from 1° to 5° below it in the remaining districts. The highest day temperature registered was only 101·7° at Gya. Winds were light at the head of the Bay. The only important feature was the commencement of cyclonic motion of the air over the area of barometric depression It was, however, as yet feeble. A further considerable increase in the humidity of the air had taken place in South Behar, and skies were overcast in Orissa, South-West Bengal, Chutia Nagpur, and South Behar. ain more or less general occurred in Orissa, South-West Bengal, East Bengal, Chutia Nagpur, and South Behar (excepting the Patna and Monghyr districts). The most important falls reported were 5 69 inches at Saugor Island, 2·25 inches at Gya, 2 inches at Ranchi, and 1·77 inches at Cuttack. Local showers of little or no importance fell in North Bengal.

Thursday, 14*th June*.—Pressure continued to decrease over the Province The main effect of the changes was to intensify slightly the barometric depression in South-West Bengal. Pressure was lowest in the neighbourhood of Saugor Island, Balasore, and Calcutta. Temperature was generally below the average. The mean of the previous 24 hours was 6½° Below the normal in Orissa, 4½° in Behar and Chutia Nagpur, and 1° in South-West Bengal. Patna recorded the highest day temperature (100·5°). Winds were light to moderate at the head of the Bay and was increasing in strength. The cyclonic circulation in connection with the depression was very distinctly marked, although the force of the winds was barely up to their normal monsoon strength. Humidity was now very high over the whole province except in North Behar. Skies were overcast in the same districts as on the 13th. Heavy rain was now falling and maintained the depression in South-West Bengal. The rainfall was heavy and general in Orissa and South-West Bengal (more especially the western districts) and in the eastern districts of Chutia Nagpur The heaviest falls were Balasore 3·14 inches, Barrackpore 3·85 inches, Baraset 3·48 inches and Dum-Dum 3·25 inches. East Bengal, North Bengal, and North Behar received local showers of little importance. A few light showers also fell in South Behar.

Friday, 15*th June*.—The barometer was now rising in East Bengal and over the greater part of South-West Bengal. The changes accompanied and were mainly due to the transferrence of the area of low pressure to South Behar and the adjacent districts of Chutia Nagpur. The centre was between Gya and Hazaribagh at 10 A.M. Pressure was lowest at Gya, where it was ·13″ below the normal of the day. Temperature was unusually low with the continuance of overcast skies and rainfall. The mean for the day was 6½° below the normal in Orissa, 4° in Chutia Nagpur and South Orissa, 3° in South-West and East Bengal. It was slightly (2°) above the normal in North Behar. Winds continued to increase in strength at the head of the Bay. The circulation in connection with the depression was light near the eastern surface, but was also now increasing. The air was very damp everywhere, the humidity in North Behar having increased considerably.

METEOROLOGICAL OFFICE, BENGAL, the 15*th June* 1883.

VITAL STATISTICS OF THE FIRST CLASS MUNICIPALITIES IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 2ND JUNE 1883.

DURING the week ending 2nd June, births and deaths were returned from 22 of the 27 first class municipalities mentioned in the annexed table. The mean birth and death rates in these municipalities, containing a population of 768,843, were 16·9 and 24·8 per 1,000 respectively, against 15·3 and 27·9 per 1,000 in the preceding week, shewing that, with an increase in births, there was a decrease in deaths. The following towns furnished the highest birth and death-rates :—

Births.	Ratio per mille.	Deaths.	Ratio per mille.
Darjiling ..	37·0	Durbhanga ..	60·6
Comillah ..	30·8	Mozufferpore ..	52·3
Bhagulpore ..	30·8	Uterpara ..	47·2
Chittagong ..	30·5	Arrah ..	38·8
Uterpara ..	28·3	Bhagulpore ..	31·7
Arrah ..	27·5	Ranaghat ..	30·0
Durbhanga ..	27·5	Burdwan ..	25·9

Small-pox was absent during this week from all the municipalities under notice, except from Bhagulpore, where it prevailed to a small extent, and from Durbhanga, where its virulence had abated to a great extent, as compared with that in the preceding week. Cholera and fever prevailed with the most conspicuous fatality in the following municipalities :—

Cholera.	Ratio per mille in weeks ending		Fever.	Ratio per mille in weeks ending
	2nd June.	26th May.		2nd June.	26th May.
Durbhanga ..	26·0	9·4	Uterpara ..	37·7	9·4
Mozufferpore ..	19·5	30·4	Burdwan ..	24·4	18·3
Hughli ..	10·7	5·4	Ranaghat ..	24·0	12·0
Howrah ..	4·9	10·8
Arrah ..	4·8	14·3
Purneah ..	3·5	None.

It is observable from the above figures that, in comparison with the preceding week, there was a considerable increase in mortality from cholera in Hughli and Durbhanga, as opposed to a sensible decline in the fatality of the disease in the other municipalities above mentioned, except Purneah, which was invaded by the disease during this week. With regard to fever, Uterpara, Burdwan, and Ranaghat were the most severely afflicted towns in this week, as against Santipur and Purneah in the preceding week.

Considering the mortality according to Class or Nationality, Christians appear to have suffered the most this week, returning a death rate of 32·4 per 1,000 of population; Hindus in the next degree, the mortality among them amounting to 26·2 per 1,000, and Mahomedans the least severely, viz. at 21·3 per 1,000: no deaths occurred among the other races.

Referring to the Ages at which deaths occurred, the highest mortality took place during the periods of infancy, childhood, and old age, and the lowest during the period of 15 to 20 years; thus :—

	Ratio per mille.
Under 1 year	166·2
60 years and upwards	47·7
1 to 5 years	36·1
15 to 20 years	13·0

These death-rates are, however, considerably below those which prevailed at the same ages during the preceding week.

The mean pressure, temperature &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86 formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The direction of the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL, GENERAL (MARINE) DEPARTMENT.

CEYLON—EAST COAST.

TRINCOMALIE.

Rock off York Shoal.

INFORMATION has been received from the Naval Commander-in-Chief in the East Indies of the existence of a sunken rock (on which the steam-ship Kerbela struck) lying in the approach to the Merchant Ships' anchorage at the entrance to the Inner Harbour of Trincomalie.

The rock, with a least depth of 15 feet over it at low-water, lies one cable North from the centre of York Shoal, with the following bearings:—

Dockyard flagstaff .. .. S. 18° E.
West extreme of York Shoal .. .. .. N. 87° E.

This new danger, not marked on charts, consists of a rocky, uneven bottom, with soft mud all round, the shoalest part being almost a pinnacle, and difficult to find with a lead. The approach is sudden on the North side, but between the rock and York Shoal there are five fathoms of water.

By direction of the Government of Bengal,
J. MENTEITH BREBNER,
Offg. Port Officer of Calcutta,

CALCUTTA PORT OFFICE, the 16th June 1883.

NOTIFICATION.

The 19th June 1883.—The following sailing directions and Hydrographic descriptions of the port and approaches to Chittagong, and Hydrographic information regarding the Burabalang River, the roadstead of Balasor, and the Dhamra and Baitarani Rivers with the port of Chandbali, are published for general information.

BAY OF BENGAL—ORISSA COAST.

Burabalang River and Balasor.

V All bearings are Magnetic—Variations in 1883, 2° 40′ W.

The following hydrographic information regarding the Burabalang River and roadstead of Balasor has been received from Commander L. S. Dawson, R.N., in charge of the Marine Survey of India, 1883.

BURABALANG RIVER, literally "The Old Twister," rises among the Morbhanj Hills in latitude 21° 24′ N., and longitude 86° 36′ E., and after receiving two small tributaries, the Gangahár and Sunai, wriggles into the sea in latitude 21° 28′ N. and longitude 87° 5′ E. The tide runs up twenty-three miles. In the upper parts of its course the banks are sandy, steep, and cultivated; in the lower part, they are of firm mud, covered to high-water mark with black slime and surrounded by jungle or open grassy plains. Native craft and small sea-going steamers of nine feet draught can navigate as far as the town of Balasor, about sixteen miles up its twisting course, but the sand-bar across the mouth of the river renders the entrance difficult.

While inside Gymkhana bar, about a mile below Balasor, is an unavoidable obstruction, extending, as it does, between sand banks and carrying over it from one to two feet at low water.

The course up the river was formerly marked by beacons, but of recent years these appear to have been discontinued.

A project for rendering the course of the river shorter and more direct has been discussed, it being expected that such a measure would add to the tidal scour and deepen the channel over the outer bar, but the engineering opinion formed, however, did not permit any definite conclusion being arrived at, it being considered by some that the opposite results might thereby be caused.

A cut was made in 1863, shortening the course of the river by a mile, but no observations of the results produced were taken.*

THE COAST in the neighbourhood of the mouth of the Burabalang appears from the offing, sandy and barren, about four miles to the northward of the entrance. Sand hills of mottled grey and yellow colour will be noticed, while on the fringe of low sand hills to the southward of the river, and bordering the coast, Chandipore flagstaff, near a large white bungalow, can easily be recognized. A single palm tree, known to those who resort to the river, forms a good mark also; but it is difficult to detect by a stranger. It bears from Chandipore flagstaff N. 44 E., distant one mile seven cables nearly.

BALASOR ROADS, in about latitude 21° 28′ N., in the north-west part of the Bay of Bengal, are largely resorted to in the north-east monsoon by vessels bound to Mauritius and elsewhere for cargoes of rice brought down the Burabalang by large cargo boats. Sloops from the Madras coast and the Laccadive and Maldive Islands also annually resort to Balasor port for the same cargo.

The largest native vessels which ascend to Balasor or receive their full cargo in the river are of about 4,000 maunds (145 tons) burden.

The best mark for making the anchorage will be found in the highest part of the Nilgiri Hills, situated about 15¼ miles inland, and bearing about W.N.W.

The holding ground is of stiff mud, and the best anchorage for a vessel of 20 feet draught will be found with Chandipur flagstaff bearing N. 66 W. Highest peak of Nilgiri Hills N. 81 W., and the single palm tree on the north bank of the entrance to the river, N. 51° W. This position will place a vessel about 5¼ miles off shore, and 2 miles 7 cables distant from the anchoring buoy in 4 fathoms at low-water spring tides.

BURABALANG RIVER ENTRANCE is 400 yards in width, and has a depth at low water of from 21 to 23 feet; but is almost closed by an extensive bar spread out between continuous banks of mud and sand,

* Statistical Account of Bengal vol. XVIII., p. 256.

having its northern limit at about half a mile south, and reaching as far southward and seaward as two miles from the river entrance.

BALASOR BAR had over it, in 1883, at low-water spring tide, two feet of water, and with a south-easterly wind, was observed to break right across. The last quarter flood-tide is the best time for crossing.

BUOYS.—In 1883, the following were the buoys with their respective positions at the entrance of the Burabalang River.

ANCHORING BUOY is a black beacon buoy with staff surmounted by a cage. On one side it has an anchor, and on the opposite side the letter B, both painted in white. The depth at low-water spring tides at this buoy is 18 feet, and it bears from Chandipur flagstaff on the sand hills bordering the coast on the south side of the entrance of the Burabalang River S. 53 E., distant nearly 4 miles. By noting the depth at the anchoring buoy and comparing with the chart, the depth on the outer bar and in the river generally may be ascertained

A RED CAN BUOY termed the "outer bar buoy," is moored in 9 feet at low water, with Chandipur flagstaff bearing N. 53 W, distant 2 miles 4½ cables and single palm tree bearing N 16 W., distant 2 miles 8 cables.

A RED BUOY known as Elfin flat buoy, from the shoal ground it is intended to mark, in 1883 was moored in 4 feet at low water, with Chandipur flagstaff bearing N. 70° W., distant 1 mile ¼ cable.

A BLACK BUOY, termed the "inner bar buoy" is moored in 5 feet at low water, with Chandipur flagstaff bearing S. 72° W., distant 1 mile 2 cables, and single palm tree N. 1° E distant 8½ cables.

CHANDIPUR FLAGSTAFF bears S. 44 W., distant 1 mile 7 cables from single palm tree on the north bank of the Burabalang River. It is 60 feet high, and stands on a sand hill 53 feet above sea-level.

LIGHT.—A lantern, exhibiting a fixed white light, is hoisted on Chandipur flagstaff from sunset to sunrise; it is elevated 106 feet above the sea, and should be visible from a distance of 5 miles.

A TIDE GAUGE is placed 5½ cables westward of and inside the entrance of the Burabalang River; it is near the south or right bank of the river, and about a cable westward of it is the landing pier connecting with the road which leads to the town of Balasor.

DIRECTIONS FOR ENTERING.—From the anchoring buoy steer direct for the single palm tree on the north bank at the entrance of the Burabalang River on a N. 26 W. bearing for one mile 6 cables, or until the second red buoy from the outside, termed Elfin flat buoy, is seen just open northward of Chandipur flagstaff, with the latter bearing N. 68 W., when alter course for Chandipur flagstaff upon the bearing and with the red buoy just described left open. This will lead in the deepest water over the outer bar, care being taken, if the flood tide be making, not to be set to the northward of the leading mark.

When the inner bar buoy, which is black, comes in line with the single palm on the north point of the entrance to the river, alter course, keeping the two in line on N. 6° E. bearing and passing on the east side of the black buoy, after passing which, alter course to north by east or with the palm tree half a point on the port bow This leads in the deepest water until abreast the single palm tree; the best course then along the first reach which trends about west by north, is at about a cable's distance from the northern or left bank until abreast Chota Ghira Point, which is 5¼ cables westward of the house on the north bank known as Balramgari. At Chota Ghira Point the river takes a sharp turn to S. by E, and it is here advisable, if in a steam-vessel, to slow the engines and use plenty of helm.

The channel, after passing Chota Ghira Point, is near the east bank of the river; the western bank in this reach being low and swampy and fringed with jungle.

This second reach runs at first S. by E., gradually curving round to S. by W., and is 1¼ miles in length. The central part is comparatively shoal, having depths extending for half a mile of 9 and 10 feet at low water.

The third reach turns gradually round a low tongue, and doubles back on the second reach, running for a mile north by east finishing by turning at right angles to the westward round Ghentee Point. The channel, which in the second reach and bend has been near the western and southern shore, or right bank, in the third reach changes to the eastern shore, or left bank. The southern part of the third reach has only from 9 to 10 feet of water over its southern part

The fourth reach pursues a serpentine, but on the whole, westerly course, and at 7 cables westward of Ghentee Point is obstructed by the

Dinga bar, formed by a flat of sand extending from the southern shore more than half way across the river. Between this flat and the northern or left bank the depths at low water is from 6 to 7 feet; and here it is necessary to pick the way carefully by means of the lead, borrowing throughout in the fourth reach, after passing Ghentee Point, on the northern shore or left bank of the river.

Dinga bar passed, the channel changes over to the southern or left bank of the river, and has depths of from 14 to 22 feet, until the latter part of the fourth reach in the neighbourhood of Whoarguddee is approached, where depths of 10 and 11 feet will again be found unavoidable.

The country now, which so far has consisted on the right bank of an extensive maidan or grassy plain and on the left of jungle, opens out, and at Chargutia, just above Whoarguddee, has a considerable clearing for clay fields and rice cultivation. From thence onwards to Balasor, the land presents civilized features—rice fields, workshops, and huts for the Calcutta Coast Canal works meeting the eye from a vessel's deck.

JUNGLE POINT is the extremity of the peninsula, abutting into the land near Whoarguddee. The river takes a sharp trend to the eastward, its general direction throughout the next or fifth reach being E.S.E. for a mile and two cables, the northern part of this bank of the river washing the south shore of the part known as Chargutia. This, the fifth reach, carries in its deepest channel depths of from 9 to 12 and 18 feet, and the chart is the best guide to the navigator.

Rounding Chargutia Point somewhat suddenly the river now enters its sixth decided reach, which extends in a westerly direction for 1¼ miles, terminating at Buboor Point. The first part of the sixth reach has a north-westerly trend for six cables, where a detached sand bank, dry at low water, about three cables in length by half a cable in breadth, is situated, but is half tucked into a hollow in the northern bank. The depth of the navigable part of the river in the sixth reach is from 3 to 10 feet, the channel passing southward of the detached sand bank and then gradually crossing to the northern or left bank of the river. Above and parallel to the detached sand bank just described a finger-like sand bank runs in a westerly direction along the south or right bank, for a distance of nearly seven cables. The deepest part of the river in this part of sixth reach is mid-stream between the sand banks, and then towards the northern shore again crossing to the south shore or right bank, as Buboor Point is approached.

CANAL WORKS.—At 2¼ cables' distance eastward from Buboor Point, and on the south or right bank of the river, is the spot where the connection of the Calcutta Coast Canal with the Burabalang River is proposed to take place to the southward. The northern connection is intended to be at a position some 6¼ cables to the northward of Buboor Point, the Burabalang River between these points entering into, or forming part of, the canal. These works in 1883 were in an advanced state, and it is contemplated that when completed a canal connecting Calcutta and Cuttack will be formed having a minimum depth of 4 feet at low water and a bottom breadth of 50 feet.

Seventh reach maintains a northerly trend at right angles to sixth reach, and extends for a mile in that direction. A detached sand bank, 4 cables long north and south, by three-quarters of a cable broad, blocks up the greater part of seventh reach. On the east side of this sand bank is a narrow channel carrying three feet of water. The navigable channel, however, lies on the west side of the sand bank, and is about half a cable in breadth, carrying depths at low water of three and four feet. This part of the river is known as Buboor bar. On the eastern or left bank of the river, and near the northern end of seventh reach, it Nulcolee, the name given to the village which has sprung up around the works, houses, &c., of the Engineers employed on the Calcutta Coast Canal, excavations for which are taking place close at hand. Opposite to Nulcolee is Nudiapha Point, which is a considerable tongue protruding in a northerly direction. The river from seventh reach winds round it, assuming a south-westerly trend for a mile to Pukarabhar on the north bank opposite to the entrance of the old canal, which disembogues on the south or right bank, then a direction of west by north for seven cables to Gymkhana, and again a south-westerly trend for 5¼ cables, which brings a vessel to the point, known as Mahomed Pau, which is the last point before Balasor port is reached.

In the eastern part of this, the eighth reach, clay excavations and brick-making for the canal works appeared in full operation in 1883. At Pukarabhar, on the north bank, is a collection of houses backed by some tall trees, and to the southward at a distance of four cables from the river's bank is the bungalow of the Engineer in charge of the canal works.

CANAL ISLAND—So formed by the junction of an old and new canal, fronts the river forming the southern shore opposite to Pukarabhar.

Between Canal Island and Gymkhana on the north bank of the river narrows to a breadth of half a cable, and the channel continuing on the Canal Island, or south side of the river, for a distance of four cables westward of the south-west point of Canal Island, then changes to the opposite southern or left bank, continuing on that side until nearly abreast of Mahomed Pau Point.

Midway between Pukarabhar and Gymkhana, is the Gymkhana bar, consisting of sand, over which, at low-water spring tides, there is a depth of one foot only.

About two cables north-eastward of Mahomed Pau Point, the channel of the river changes over to the southern bank, and from this position on to the Custom House at Balasor, or a distance of three cables, continues near the Balasor or right bank of the river. Depths here will be found to vary between 10 and 22 feet at low-water spring tides.

SUPPLIES—Of fresh provisions for shipping may be obtained by special arrangement at Balasor, but in the absence of fixed demand there is no recognized source of supply.

FRESH WATER.—The river water off Balasor at half ebb is fit for the purpose of drinking, being apparently sweet and clear.

BALASOR PORT—Is about three quarters of a mile in length and consists of that portion of the Burabalang River which fronts the town of Balasor. With the Custom-house bearing S.W. off Balasor 10 feet at low water may be relied on, but the river here is only half a cable wide and a vessel must moor head and stern. There are several awkward bars already described, of which that nearest Balasor, the Gymkhana, has only a foot over it at low-water spring tides.

TIDES.—It is high water at full, and change off Balasor Custom-house at about XI hours. Springs rise 10 and Neaps 6 feet 6 inches. The stream of the ebb tide is felt for from 8 to 9 hours, and runs as much as 4 knots an hour; that of the flood is, however, feeble, averaging about half a knot an hour.

BALASOR.—The chief town and head-quarters of the Balasor, district lies about 7 miles from the sea coast in a straight line and 16 miles by river. Established in 1642, Balasor was the site of one of the earliest English settlements in Eastern India.* The original factory at Pippli (1634) was afterwards transferred to Balasor owing to the silting up of the Subarnarekha River, on which Pippli was situated. Balasor began to decline in importance as its younger rival on the Hugli gradually grew from a cluster of mud huts into the Calcutta of India.

In 1708 the river was found blocked by a dangerous bar, and the town at that time was only four miles from the sea coast; it is now seven miles.

The French, Dutch, and Danes also had settlements at Balasor. Of these, the French settlement, consisting of 100 acres of land on the outskirts of the town, known locally as Farásh-dángá, remains, yielding a revenue of about £5 a year. The Dutch settlement lasted till 1824, and the Danish was ceded to the English in 1846.

The river has long since writhed itself away from the Dutch quarter, extensive rice fields now stretching between their factory site and the river bank.

TIDES.—In Balasor roads the ebb tide sets to the south-west, flood to the north-east; at spring tides about 2 knots an hour.

It is high water at full, and change at the entrance of the Burabalang River at about 9·45. Springs rise 12 to 13; neaps 8 feet.

SUPPLIES—For vessels lying in Balasor roads can only be procured by special arrangement, either with the owners of the various cargo boats, or with the masters of the small steam vessels which ply weekly with Calcutta. The latter generally anchor to await tide near the anchoring buoy, giving opportunity for communication.

TELEGRAPH.—The town of Balasor has telegraphic communication with Calcutta and Cuttack.

PILOTS.—There were no pilots for the Burabalang River in 1883. No steam or other European vessels ventured across the outer bar except the two local trading steamers plying to Calcutta of 6 and 7 feet draught respectively. Shipping are supplied by the cargo boats which, as a rule, succeed in making their way down from Balasor on the ebb, and after awaiting a tide return on the ensuing flood.

CYCLONES.—Balasor roadstead, from the position occupied in the north-west part of the Bay of Bengal, is exposed to the full brunt of the cyclones which, generated in the bay, and following a north-westerly direction, burst upon this part of the coast with great fury.

The severest disaster of this nature is recorded for the 31st October 1831. On this occasion the storm-wave, 7 to 15 feet in height, breached the trunk road to Calcutta at a point 9 miles from the coast as the crow flies. It was estimated that 26,000 persons lost their lives on this occasion. Cyclones also occurred on the 7th October 1832, 13th October 1848, 22nd October 1851, 1st July 1872, and 15th October 1874. Native craft approach the coast as near as high water will permit. Should a storm come on, it is said that they have little to fear. It is a fact notorious on the coast of Balasor road that, should doubt arise as to the possibility of weathering a storm, the best plan is to run a ship straight into the western part of the Balasor roads near Churaman, some 20 miles to the southward of the Burabalang River entrance, where the liquid mass of mud held in solution by the sea affords the best possible non-conductor to the violence of the winds and waves.

BAY OF BENGAL—ORISSA COAST.

Dhamra and Baitarani Rivers with the port of Chandbali.

THE following hydrographic information respecting the above rivers and port has been received from Commander L. S. DAWSON, R.N., in charge of the Marine Survey of India, 1883.

All bearings are Magnetic.—Variation in 1883, 2° 30′ E.

THE DHAMRA or Dhumrah River, which empties itself into the western part of the Bay of Bengal, is the first and most important of the navigable rivers of Orissa, and forms the northern exit of the united streams of the Brahmani, Kharsua, and Baitarani rivers. It lies within the jurisdiction of the Balasor district. The inner bar of the river, which may be said to be the connecting link between the island of Kulibarj on the south and Kanika flat, part of which is always dry on the north, is constantly changing both in depth and position.

The outer bar, however, to the north of Shortt Island has across it two distinct channels, and maintains its position and depth of water.

In 1883 it appeared possible for a vessel of from 21 to 22 feet to navigate as far as the village of Dhamra, some miles above the outer bar, and for a vessel drawing 17 feet to proceed as high as Chandbali, which is the chief port of the neighbourhood, and situated on the north or left bank of the Baitarani River. Ships which can get within the outer bar find protection from the monsoons, but notwithstanding its excellence in this respect, owing to its distance from Cuttack or any large town, it has been less resorted to than False Point by European craft.

At one time it was contemplated to select the Dhamra as the channel by which the whole canal system of Orissa should enter the sea, but after investigation the preference was given to False Point harbour as the basis of operations on the seaboard.

The Dhamra River also divides the province of Bhadrukh in Orissa from that of Jajpur in Cuttack. At a distance of about nine miles from its mouth, the Dhamra River branches into two considerable streams, that to the north, on the banks of which are situated the towns of Chandbali and higher up of Jajpur, is called the Baitarani River, and follows, on the whole, a westerly direction; that to the south is termed the Brahmani River. It takes a south-westerly direction, and is a means of communication with Cuttack. At about six miles above the Baitarani junction, the Brahmani River connects with the Mypurra, and about three miles higher receives a considerable feeder in the Kharsua River, which again connects with the Baitarani above or westward of Jajpur.

APPROACHES.—In making for the mouth of the Dhamra River from the southward, caution is necessary to avoid the dangerous Palmyras shoals, which extend to a distance of 11¾ miles from this part of the coast, and are steep on their eastern face. If fine weather prevails, the discoloured water will be found to generally indicate the outside or eastern edge of the bank. Besides the Palmyras buoy moored in 11 fathoms, a somewhat ill-defined beacon may be noticed on Shortt Island; but the lead should be kept carefully going, and unless certain of position, no stranger should stand into less than ten fathoms. It is recommended that a vessel should either anchor or stand off the land, if overtaken by night when bound for the Dhamra, if Shortt Island beacon or either Palmyras or Kanaka buoys are not recognisable.

SHORTT ISLAND—Is little more than an extensive sand bank shaped like a kite, the tail to the westward, and will be the nearest land sighted when entering the Dhamra River; 2¾ miles in length by 1¾ in its broadest part. It trends away to the westward in a succession of horn-like projections of sand, which cover in parts and are cut off from the island at high-water. Creepers and coarse grass cover the hillocks on the south side of Shortt Island, the highest of which is 1¾ feet above high-water spring tides.

WATER.—No fresh water can be obtained on Shortt Island; three wells have been sunk, the water in each case proving brackish. Young plantations of cocoanut and other trees have been planted, but with what success has not yet been ascertained.

BEACON.—On the western part of Shortt Island, at about 8¼ cables from the extreme point, is a beacon of bamboos surmounted by a black basket, the whole secured to an upright post formed of a wrecked ship's timber. The basket is 50 feet above high water, and can be discerned in fine weather from a vessel's deck at a distance of about 5 miles.

It is contemplated to build a light-house on the highest part of Shortt Island.

PALMYRAS POINT.—The south-east entrance point of the Dhamra River, bearing S. 82° W., distant 5¼ miles from Shortt Island beacon, is low, covered with dark jungle, and difficult to distinguish. The palm tree, which formerly grew upon it, and formed a useful mark from seaward, has recently fallen from decay.

The coast southward from Palmyra's point trends to the southward, and presents the same low jungle grown aspect: a considerable mud bank fringes the coast, which dries at low water as far seaward as a distance of two miles.

KALIBHANJ ISLAND—Trending east and west, is 5¾ miles long by about ¾ in breadth, and divides the Dhamra River into two channels at about 7 miles from the bar entrances. The northern channel is the widest, and carries the deepest water. The woods of Kalibhanj Island, which is not inhabited, as well as the jungle of the country bordering both banks of the Dhamra River, abound with wild animals. Crocodiles are numerous, and will be noticed basking in the sun at low water on almost every sand or mud bank.

DHAMRA VILLAGE—On the north or left bank of the Dhamra River, 10 miles above Shortt Island, consists of a few straggling houses. A Custom house is situated here, and a tide-pole indicates to those acquainted with the locality the depth of water likely to be met with on the Chandipal bar.

MATAI RIVER—Which joins the Dhamra River at about a mile westward of Dhamra village, is about one cable wide and navigable at low water for craft of 8 feet draught.

The Matai River brings down the drainage of the country between the Kanabans and the Saladi, and after a tortuous course over a muddy bed, and between densely wooded banks, enters the Dhamra River near its mouth.

A canal unites the Matai with the Gammai; but an embankment has been built right across its mouth, and it has ceased to be used for traffic.

In the coast canal in course of construction to connect Cuttack with Calcutta, the Matai River is utilised as one of the natural connecting links, the junction occurring about 14 miles above the position at which the Dhamra and Matai rivers connect.

Native vessels plying to ports in the Madras Presidency resort chiefly to the Matai River for their rice cargoes.

NORTH CHANNEL INTO THE DHAMRA RIVER.—There are two channels into the Dhamra; of these, the northern channel, though carrying least water, is generally used, being most contiguous to Calcutta, to which port the steam-vessels visiting the river generally ply.

KANAKA BUOY Is a black wooden beacon buoy with the letter K painted white on it. It is surmounted by two circular discs placed vertically on a staff, which marks the north-east limit of the north channel, and is moored in a depth of 23 feet at low water, and bears from the Shortt Island beacon N. 12 E., distant 2¼ miles. Vessels should keep it on the starboard hand or to the northward of them when entering the Dhamra River, and the reverse when leaving. Latitude 20° 49′ 28″ N, longitude 87° 04′ 40″ E.

BUOY F.—Is conical, of iron, coloured red, surmounted by spire and basket of same colour. It is moored in a depth of 11 feet at low water, and bears from Shortt Island beacon N. 13° W., distant 1 mile 4½ cables, and from Kanaka buoy S. 39° W., distant 1 mile 4 cables. It marks the western limit of the bar, which obstructs the north channel.

BOUY E.—Is black, of iron, surmounted by spire and basket of same colour. It is moored in 10 feet at low water, and bears from bouy F. S. 58° W., distant 8½ cables. About two cables south-east of it, 12 and 13 feet of water will be found.

BUOY D.—Is a red, iron, conical buoy, moored in 16 feet at low water. To the northward, and between it and buoy E, the north and south channels converge, and here depths will be found at low water, of 14 and 15 feet, over a bottom of mud From it Shortt Island beacon bears S. 86° W, distant 1 mile, and E buoy south, distant 1 mile. It is about two cables distant from the westernmost point of Shortt Island, the channel between, through which the tide sets with considerable strength, being deep and free from danger.

BUOY C.—Is a conical buoy, coloured black, surmounted by a staff, and is situated on the north side of the channel about midway between Shortt Island and Kanaka bank. It bears from Shortt Island beacon W. 2° N., distant 2 miles, and has the letter C marked on it in white.

BUOY B.—Is a conical red buoy, surmounted by a staff with a cage of same colour. It marks the south side of the channel southward of Kanaka bank, and bears from C buoy S. 76° W., distant 2 miles.

BUOY A.—Is a conical black buoy, surmounted by a staff with cage of same colour. It marks the north side of the channel southward of Kanaka bank, and bears from the highest part of the Kanaka bank S. 53° W., distant ¼ mile.

INNER BAR BUOYS—Are conical can buoys: that on the south side of the channel coloured red, that on the north side coloured black. They bear from one another N. 21° W. and S. 21° E., distant 1¼ cables, and from Palmyras Point the south or red buoy N. 17° E., distant 5¼ cables; the north or black buoy N. 9° E., distant 6¾ cables.

Depths of 12 to 14 feet at low water will be found between the bar buoys just described.

From the inner bar buoys the channel, to abreast Dhamra village, continues clear of danger and without buoys. Vessels drawing 20 feet may reach as high as, and anchor off Dhamra.

The buoyage of the south channel into the Dhamra River will be next described.

PALMYRAS BUOY, which acts as a guide for vessels entering the Dhamra from the southward, as well as a mark for clearing the Palmyras shoals, if bound to Balasor or the entrance to the Hugli, is a large red beacon buoy with a broad white horizontal stripe, surmounted by a vertical staff and circular disc coloured red. It is moored in 11 fathoms at low water, and bears from Shortt Island beacon N. 73° E. distant 7 miles, and from Kanaka buoy S. 86° E, distant 6 miles 2 cables, or in lattitude 20° 45′ 47″ N., longitude 87° 10′ 55″ E.

The south-eastern finger of the Palmyras shoals, having as little as 4 fathoms at low water, extends about a mile south-eastward of the position of the Palmyras buoy (1883).

The course from Palmyras buoy to buoy H, which marks the south side of the outer bar of the south channel into the Dhamra River, is S. 78° W. and the distance 6 miles.

From a ship's deck, when in the neighbourhood of Palmyras buoy, Shortt Island beacon can generally be recognised, and the position, by cross bearings, of these objects can be obtained, and the direction in which the tide is setting noted, before the bar of the south channel is arrived at.

BUOY H.—Marking the south side of entrance over the outer bar of the south channel into the Dhamra River, is a conical buoy surmounted by a vertical staff, the whole coloured red. It bears from Shortt Island beacon N. 46° E, distant 1 mile 1¼ cables. The letter H is painted on it in white.

BUOY G.—Is a black wooden conical buoy, surmounted by a black cross. The letter G in white, is painted on this buoy, which bears N. 11° W, distant 8¼ cables from the beacon on Shortt Island. The depths found near G buoy at low water are from 14 to 16 feet.

About a quarter of a mile westward of G buoy the north and south channels into the Dhamra River meet, and the channel just here has a breadth of 3¼ cables, and in it depths of from 13 to 20 feet over a muddy bottom will be found.

DIRECTIONS, NORTH CHANNEL.—Pass close southward of the Kanaka buoy, situated in latitude 20° 49′ 28″ N., longitude 87° 04′ 40″ E., keeping a S. 58½° W., course for one mile, then haul to the southward steering S. 23° W., 2 miles 3¼ cables, passing F buoy, which is red and conical, and surmounted by a cage on its western side, at a distance of 1¼ cables, and eastern buoy, which is black, at a distance of 3¼ cables, until Shortt Island beacon bears S. 70° E., when alter course to S. 59° W., which will bring G buoy, which is coloured black, and is surmounted by a black cross right astern. Continue on this course for a distance of a mile and 2 cables, when D buoy, which is red and conical, will be seen open to the north of Shortt Island beacon, bearing N. 78° E., then steer for B buoy, which is red, and surmounted by a red cage, on a S. 86° W. course. Pass close northward of B buoy, and then strike across the channel on a N. 63° W. course for A buoy, which is black, with black cage. Pass close south of A buoy, and thence for the northern buoy of the inner bar, which is a black can buoy, on a course of N. 88° W., which will lead over the inner bar in a depth of 13 feet at low water, and close south of the black can buoy.

Having passed the inner bar, edge away on a S. 72° W. course for the east point of Kalibhanj Island for about 9 cables, or until Chandipal tree on the north bank of the river, which has a triangular cage-beacon protruding from the south side of its branches, bears N. 31° W., when alter course for the perch on the north side of Kalibhanj Island, steering N. 86° W. This perch, which is a basket on bamboos, forms a distinct mark, and may be passed at the distance of a cable. Continue after passing Kalibhanj perch on the south side of the channel, keeping the north shore of Kalibhanj Island about 1¼ cables distant, until Dhamra village bears N. 42° W., when it should be steered for, the deep water now changing to the north side of the channel.

ANCHORAGE—May be found with Dhamra village, bearing north, in from 20 to 24 feet at low water, at a distance of 1¼ cables from the north bank, on which the village is situated.

This is the anchorage for large vessels.

CAUTION.—It is not advisable for any vessel drawing more than 14 feet to navigate beyond Dhamra, but at high water, with the aid of a pilot, draughts of 17 and 18 feet may continue as high as Chandbali or the Baitarani River.

It being desired to continue to Chandbali or Mahurigaon, higher up the Dhamra, bold water will be met with at a cable's distance from the north bank of the river from abreast Dhamra village and for about 1¼ miles westward of the mouth of the Matai River, when the neighbourhood of the Celerity spit, which is marked on its south side by a black can buoy, which joins the bank extending from the western extremity of Kalibhanj Island, will be reached, and the perch on Round Point, on the south side of the river, is sighted.

If the Celerity bar be crossed at a distance of 4 cables from the western extreme of Kalibhanj Island, the west depth found at low water will be 10 feet. The southern or right bank of the river should then be steered along at a distance of 1¼ cables, the black can Celerity buoy being passed on its south side at the distance of a cable, and the basket perch on Round Point kept on the port bow. Continue thus until MacMaster's mark, which is a tall white flagstaff surmounted by a basket, and the three red buoys, which denote the turning into the Baitarani River.

Keep these three red buoys successively on the port hand at half a cable's distance, rounding gradually for the inner or western part of north point, which is steep too.

BAITARANI RIVER - Identified by the Brahmans as the Styx of Hindu mythology, but possibly a corruption of Avitarani, meaning "difficult to cross," enters the Balasore district at the village of Bampur, and flows for about 45 miles in a south-westerly direction till it joins the Dhamra five miles from its mouth. The Baitarani forms the boundary between Balasor and Cuttack. It is nowhere fordable during the rains, but can be crossed everywhere in the dry weather above Olokh, about 15 miles from its mouth. At Olokh it ceases to be navigable, and the tide does not run above this place. It receives two tributaries on its Balasor side, the Salandi and the Matai: the former, properly called Salnadi, takes its name from the sal forests which it traverses. It rises on the southern slope of the Meghasani mountain, literally the "seat of clouds," in Morbhanj, and throughout its upper course, is a black water river, with high banks and a bottom of muddy sand.

In January it scarcely anywhere exceeds three feet in depth. Luxuriant vegetation clothes its banks, which in certain places almost become cliffs, and for miles the river runs through groves of mangoes, palms, and bamboos. It forms no islands or lakes, and has no tide; but it is navigable for country boats as high as six miles from its junction with the Baitarani. Its lower course bifurcates into a network of streams, which are interlaced with those of the Matai.

The country in the neighbourhood of the banks of the Baitarani becomes more open, and is largely cultivated with rice, the jungle which marks the banks of the Dhamra being lost sight of.

Between the entrance of the Baitarani and Chandbali there are 15 villages, but none of these are of an important character, nor present any feature for the guidance of the navigator, the first conspicuous house being the travellers' bungalow at the east end of Chandbali.

The entrance of the Baitarani is split into two channels by Lucheenarain Island, which is about $\frac{4}{5}$ths of a mile in length by $\frac{1}{4}$ of a mile in breadth. Of these the northern is the navigable channel carrying depths of 20 feet at low water mid-channel. The southern channel is shoal and only available for boats.

In the south channel from abreast north point a mid-channel course should be steered until abreast the second creek, which flows into the Baitarani from the northern or left bank.

A WHITE WOODEN CROSS, conspicuous and easily discovered, is situated near the mouth of the second creek just alluded to. Allowing for the bend of the river, its distance is about $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles from north point, and it is erected as a crossing mark for the Jhuta bar, which is the next shoal part of the Baitarani River.

CROSSING MARKS—On the eastern or right bank, consisting of a cage beacon on a pole amongst the trees, for the southern mark, and a black barrel fixed upon a pole a little more than a cable to the northward of the cage beacon, are used for crossing the Jhuta bar.

JHUTA BAR—Is an underwater continuation of the west point of Lucheenarain Island (which divides the entrance of the Baitarani River into two channels) with Pilot's Island situated in the Baitarani about half a mile to the southward. A depth at low water of from 8 to 9 feet may be found in the Jhuta bar.

TO CROSS—The basket or cage amongst the trees kept just open westward of the barrel upon pole, previously described, on Point Douglas, and kept on a bearing of S. 18° E. will lead across the Jhuta bar in about nine feet at low water, with the white wooden cross in the north bank seen right astern.

PILOT ISLAND.—Southward of the Jhuta bar is low and overgrown with grass and creepers extending $11\frac{1}{2}$ cables in a north by east and south by west direction. Considerable sand flats extend from its north and south points, and between it and the western. or left bank of the Baitarani River, is a narrow boat-passage known as "Chapman's gut." The navigable channel which carries from 17 to 23 feet of water, lies between Pilot Island and the eastern bank of the Baitarani, the best track being nearer to the eastern bank. This part of the river is known as Pilot's Reach, and a black can buoy marks the south-west extreme of the spit extending to the south-westward from Pilot Island.

From the black can buoy just mentioned, which is situated near the western end of Pilot Reach, the river turns at right angles round a tongue-like projection known as Palmer Point. On the western side of this part of the river is a sandy island terminating at its southern extremity in mud, termed Sickle Island. Between Sickle Island and the western or right bank of the river is a narrow boat-passage, available at quarter flood.

A RED CAN BUOY marks the western limit of Sickle Island The navigable channel, which is about a cable in breadth and carries 25 to 27 feet at low water, lies close to the eastern or Palmer Point side of the river, and curving gradually to the westward changes over to the opposite or southern side at Sickle Point, which forms the eastern boundary of the next known as Long Reach.

LONG REACH—Runs in a westerly direction for about two miles and around Borarriah Point, which is low and swampy. The upper or northern part of Long Reach terminates in Hurripur bar, having on it eight to nine feet at low water.

The channel in Long Reach lies within half a cable of Sickle Point, and along the southern bend at about the same distance from that shore. As Long Reach trends to the northward, the channel shallows from 26 to 17 and 14 feet, gradually crossing to the eastern bank over the Hurripur bar, which is 3½ cables wide, and has on it from eight to 10 feet of water.

HURRIPUR REACH—Has a northerly trend, and carries from 14 feet on the eastern side of its channel just northward of Hurripur bar to 20 and 25 feet higher up or farther north. The deepest water in this reach lies about mid-stream. The latter part of the reach trends gradually to the westward round Love Point, towards which the deepest water lies.

LOVE POINT BAR—Extends throughout almost the whole space between Love Point and Chandbali, and in the shoalest part of its best water carries from 7 to 8 feet at low water. A course of W ½ N. for 11 cables from Love Point leads in the deepest water at about a quarter of a cable from the southern or right bank up Love Point Reach, until travellers' bungalow bears north distant about a cable.

The three piers of Chandbali may now be distinguished, and anchorage picked up as convenient, in from 22 to 30 feet off the town.

CHANDBALI—Situated on the north or left bank of the Baitarani, about 30 miles by river track from the Kanaka buoy, on the outer bar of the Dhamra, is nevertheless considered within the limits of the port of Dhamra. The station is situated on a narrow sand ridge, which trends north and south, or parallel to the direction of the sea, coast, terminating abruptly on the northern bank of the Baitarani River. Of late years it is said to have risen in importance, and to have an improving trade. There is a police station, travellers' bungalow, and Customs office with Warehouse and three landing piers.

There is weekly communication with Calcutta by steamer and with Cuttack twice a week. Native sailing vessels do not, however, as a rule, frequent Chandbali, preferring the Matai River, a tributary of the Dhamra, for picking up their rice cargoes, to the Baitarani, the Matai affording greater advantages in its long course through a rice-producing tract.

The travellers' bungalow, a conspicuous white house with verandah, is the first house seen in Chandbali when ascending the river; it stands close to the water's edge on the north or left bank of the river clear of any trees.

BUOYS.—There are buoys off Chandbali for the use of the local steam-vessels in hauling out into the stream from their respective piers off Gwire Point, at the western extremity of the reach, in which Chandbali is situated.

PROVISIONS—for Europeans, are scarce, and can only be procured with difficulty at Chandbali.

TRADE—The export consists almost entirely of rice. Large numbers of coolies are brought as passengers from Calcutta by local steam-vessels, for employment in the rice fields at certain seasons of the year. In this respect brisk competition goes on. A portion of the passengers are pilgrims on their way to and from Jagannath. These pilgrims are generally up-country people of the middle class, who can afford to pay their fare by rail to Calcutta, and by steamer to Orissa.

GWIRE POINT.—A sharp tongue on the south side of the river, opposite to, and about half a mile above or westward of, Chandbali terminates Love Reach. Here the river turns sharply to the south-east, and continues navigable for the same draught of water that has reached Chandbali for two miles.

A RED BUOY.—marks the termination of the shoal water off Gwire Point, and in ascending the river, should be kept on the port hand.

MAHURIGAON—Situated 2 miles above Chandbali, but on the opposite side of the river, was formerly of some importance as a halting station for a line of steam-vessels owned by a native firm at Calcutta, but of late years it has fallen off in importance, and the only form of communication in 1883 was by native boats.

Meghna River.

Bearings Magnetic Var. 3.

Report of H. B. Simpson, Esq., Assistant Superintendent 3rd grade, Marine Survey of India, on an examination or running survey made of part of the Rivers Meghna and Shahbazpur in February-March 1883, when detached from the I. G. surveying vessel Investigator under Commander L. S. Dawson, R.N., in charge of the Marine Survey of India.

RIVER MEGHNA.—From Sandwip Channel to Náráyanganj.—In carrying out this examination of the Meghna, the G. T. Hill station of Sitákund, northward of Chittagong, was taken as the starting point, bearings being obtained as long as Sitákund was visible, and when that was lost sight of, stations, six in number, fixed astronomically, were used, the longitudes being determined by a chronometer, the error of which was ascertained both before leaving and after returning to Chittagong, and points were out in by a round of angles taken at the mast-head of the cutter.

The soundings were obtained from a pilot cutter, on the upward route; lines also being run across at the first three stations in the Sandwip channel by a steam cutter, and zig-zag lines were run on the downward route by the steam cutter from Náráyanganj as far as Noakhali creek. A whale boat was also used in some of the narrower channels.

The soundings are reduced below the lowest depths obtained at low water at the different stations, the depth being taken every half hour alongside the pilot cutter, the moon's age being taken into account, and are only approximate.

The strength of the tide was taken by the hand log (at the station off the island of Bidoo, at springs, five days after change of the moon, the tide ran five knots and was considerably stronger in the middle of the channel).

The soundings are approximately fixed by bearings of points, mast-head angles of the pilot cutter, and distances by patent log.

Sandwip Channel above Fenny River.—Depth of water on bar off island of Bidoo seemed about four feet, with a rise of sixteen to eighteen feet at springs, with very strong tides, 5 to 6 knots, and the native craft only work on the neap-tides during the rains, as anchors will not hold in the ebb at springs.

The channel used is about a mile and a quarter off the north-east side of the island of Bidoo leading across to the village of Chiringa, close along the south side of the new char formed on the north side of the river in a W. N. W. direction. There is another channel close to the north bank from Fenny River to Chiringa to the north of the new char.

The second bar is between the island of Bidoo and the village of Chiringa, with about seven feet and a rise of fourteen.

The banks on both sides are much cut away by the stream, the north above Chiringa and the south at Bidoo and Siddhi, the noise of the mud falling into the water being heard at short intervals throughout the night.

The bank at Chiringa is steep, with deep water close in, and the native vessels lie at anchor here in six fathoms out of the tide.

From Chiringa to Noákháli Point the channel lies close to the north bank in a S W. by W. direction, with a breadth of four cables and deep water. The bank is grass-land, without any trees, from a little west of Chiringa, a solitary tree standing on the southernmost part of the bank near Noákháli Point, but it will most likely soon fall into the river from the cutting away of the bank.

At Noákháli Point is another bar with twelve feet and a rise of about ten feet. The river here turns to the north-west.

Noákháli Point to Narnák Chur.—The channel lies close to the east bank with good depth, about five cables wide, as far as two palm trees standing close on the bank, bearing from the north point of Narnák char about N 72° E., towards which it crosses with a depth of about sixteen feet and a rise of about nine feet springs. The stream is not so strong here as in the Sandwip channel, and at ebb tide neaps the water was perfectly fresh alongside.

Two new char have formed in the lower part of this reach.

The east bank is grass-land close to the river, some distance in, clumps of trees grow, and a mosque is visible at intervals, the position being about 22° 46′ N 918 00′ E two miles from the bank.

The west side of the river is scarcely visible, from the east being the Island of Hatiá.

Above Narnák Char (pronounced Lallan chur by the natives) the channel has twenty feet for nine miles. Direction about N. by W. ½ W., and lies near the middle of the river towards the west bank; abreast of and beyond the Ilsa River, as far as the mouth of the Pudda, there is good water, the channel lying close to the west bank. Beyond Aboodu Point on the eastern side a sand extends from the bank to nearly the middle of the river.

The river trends to the north-west from the mouth of the Ilsa to the Nowa Bhangroe, then noth to the mouth of the Pudda.

The west bank is covered with thick jungle from Shahbazpur River to within a mile of the mouth of the Pudda.

Off the Pudda, the mouth of which is ill-defined, about eighteen feet is found. From this to the first char above Chandpur there is deep water; running out from these chars are shoals with channels in between.* Above the last char the channel is wide and deep, direction about north, as far as the mouth of the river leading to Daudkandi, where it again shoals to about twenty-two feet.

From the Pudda to Chandpur N. E. by E., then N. and W.N.W.

After passing the last char above Chandpur, Rajbarree temple comes in sight on the west bank; it is situated four miles from the river, and is a conspicuous mark.

The west bank is almost without jungle from the mouth of the Pudda, and numerous villages are seen. The east bank is covered with jungle, more or less, from a short distance below Chandpur.

From the mouth of the Daudkandi river the eastern channel is deep as far as the mouth of the Luckia River a branch of the Dullesury (on which Naráyángánj is situated), where there is a bar with about 18 feet and a rise of 2 feet.

The western of the two channels formed by a char about two miles in extent, has a depth of about seventeen feet at the upper bar which is the shoalest. Above this the Dullesury River by which Naráyángánj is reached leaves the Meghna.

Off the town of Naráyángánj, the river is deep on the west side (next the town with a breadth of one and a half cables.

SHAHBAZPUR.—River leaves the Meghna immediately above Narnák char, and flows between the Falcon char, Hatia, and Dakhin Shahbazpur. A bar is found close to the entrance at the north side of Falcon char, with about fourteen feet and arise of nine feet. Beyond this is deep water as far as Shahbazpur Point, below which another bar is found with fourteen feet, and a rise of twelve to fourteen feet might be counted on, but no observations of the rise and fall were got From this bar to seaward a channel is shown on the Admiralty Chart entering the Bay of Bengal to the westward of the D'Apre Shoal, and this seems a better approach to the Meghna than by the Sandwip Channel, but is never used.

The passage through the Hatia char, said to be used by the native brigs, is never used and does not seem to be known by them, and is only used by row boats carrying passengers from the surrounding districts to Chittagong. The banks in it seem very much cut away by the stream, and it must have a considerable rise and fall to a good depth at high water.

The land seems to have altered considerably where this river leaves the Meghna since 1841, the date of Captain Lloyd's chart, but is much the same as the revenue survey map of 1865 gives it.

The approaches to the Meghna by the western or Shahbazpur river would be out of sight of land for the first 20 or 25 miles, except having the D'Apre Shoal (dry at low water) about five miles from its mouth, where a beacon could be placed, and would require to be marked with buoys, but the changes would probably be less frequent than in the Sandwip Channel.

A survey of the river from Narayángánj to the sea would probably not repay cost for a considerable period; but a survey of the worst parts might show that vessels of large draught could pass up and down, as native craft drawing ten to twelve feet pass up and down continually by the Sandwip Channel with very small means of navigating and no special marks for channels, working almost entirely by the tide.

The worst parts of the Meghna are the northern portion of the Sandeep Channel as far as Noákháli Point, the crossing at Narnák char as far as the Ilsa River, off the mouth of the Pudda between the chars above Chandpur and the mouth of the river on which Narayángánj is situated.

The worst parts of the Shahbazpur River are the bar at the northern end, the one below Shahbazpur Point.

WINDS AND WEATHER.—During the month of February the winds were northerly, light, with clear weather; towards the end of the month the sky became cloudy, and S.E. squalls, with thunder and lightning, continued for some days.

The weather was cool and pleasant during the whole month.

SUPPLIES.—As the inland steamers from Calcutta to Assam pass up the Meghna, supplies of any sort could be easily procured, and daily postal communication is carried on with Calcutta.

TOWN OF NARAYANGANJ.—On the west bank of the Luckia River, is of considerable size, with several mills and jute presses, the preparation and transport of that article apparently being the chief trade.

A great part of the jute is taken to Chittagong for shipment by native brigs of which there are a large number loading and moving up and down the river, the inland steamers and flats carrying as much of it as is shipped at Calcutta.

Hydrographic Notice.

BAY OF BENGAL

THE following information relating to the coast and port of Chittagong in the north-east portion of the Bay of Bengal has been received from Commander L. S. Dawson, R.N., in charge of the Marine Survey of India:—

COAST OF CHITTAGONG.

[All bearings are magnetic.—Variation in 1893 20° 50′ easterly.]

APPROACHING CHITTAGONG.—Whatever the state of the weather or time of the year, but more especially during the south-west monsoon, or from April to September, the greatest care is necessary in making the mouth of the Karnaphuli, better known as the Chittagong river.

It should be remembered that the tides within 15 miles of this part of the Bay of Bengal set up and down, or in line with the trend of the land, and at springs run five and even six knots an hour. Vessels have been known, in hazy weather, to have been swept past Chittagong by the flood tide, and set upon the sands westward of Sandwip Island, without sighting either Kutabdia Island light by night or the land by day.

The tides at about from 20 to 50 miles from the coast are reported, however, to show a circular tendency, as at the Sandheads of the Hughli River, for the flood tide commences at east-south-east round by south, ending at west-south-west; and the ebb, beginning at west-north-west, works round by north, and ends at east-north-east.

During the south-west monsoon the strong southerly current met with in the Bay of Bengal may be expected, as the coast is closed with, to increase in strength, owing to the heavy outpour from the Meghna and other large rivers, which enter the sea northward of the Karnaphuli or Chittagong River.

Endeavour should be made, in nearing the land, if proceeding from the southward, to obtain soundings in about latitude 21° 10′ north, longitude 91° 10′ east, where the depth at low water will be found to be 10 fathoms, and the bottom soft mud. Even if the weather be favourable for observation, and the Commander of a vessel confident as to his astronomical position, strict attention to the depth of water as well as frequent attention to the course and distance made over the ground, ascertained by making use of the ground log,* will yet be advisable.

The course from the position just given to the entrance of Karnaphuli or Chittagong river is north-north-east ¼ east, and the distance 70 miles. If possible the land should be made in the day time, a night land-fall being rendered unadvisable, not only on account of the off-lying dangers consisting of the Dolphin shoal and north and south patches, the approach to which is not indicated by the soundings, but also on account of the light exhibited at Kutabdia Island being sometimes shrouded by fog and rising mist.

If in doubt as to the position, and the ground log denotes a strong flood tide, it will be well to anchor to avoid being set to the northward on to the tails of the shoals extending from the south end of the Sandwip Island and the entrance to the Meghna River, which are said to extend further south than the chart indicates.†

KUTABDIA ISLAND, or Kutubdeeah, is the westernmost land fallen in with when approaching Chittagong.

It is 12 miles long north and south, by from 4 to 2 miles in width, and is pear-shaped, and although low and level, covered with trees and distinguishable at the distance of seven or eight miles.

Kutabdia, until recently, has been protected by artificial embankments from the encroachment of the sea, but owing to reports that the island is sinking and difficulties in maintaining the necessary repairs to these embankments, any further work in connection therewith has been discontinued, and consequently the island is now almost devoid of inhabitants.

LIGHT.—Near the western extreme of Kutabdia Island, or in latitude 21° 52′ 30″ north, longitude 91° 50′ east, is a masonry tower 111 feet in height, from which is exhibited a fixed white‡ light at an elevation of 126 feet above high water, which should be visible from a vessel's deck in clear weather at a distance of 18 miles. The light tower has its lower storey coloured grey, and the upper part coloured alternately in red and white horizontal bands.

From the 15th of May to the 15th of September (both days included) a blue light is burnt from the top of Kutabdia Light-house hourly between 7 P.M. and 5 A.M. inclusive. The glare of this blue light should be detected at a distance of 20 miles.

SOUTH PATCHES, 18 miles from the nearest land and 15 miles south-west of the south point of Kutabdia Island, consist of three distinct heads of hard sand extending in a north and south direction, the northern and middle of these heads, having respectively 2½ fathoms and 3 fathoms over them, are connected with one another, and are about 1¾ miles apart. The third or southernmost head has over it 4¼ fathoms at low water, and is 2¼ miles distant from the middle head. In fine weather rollers may generally be seen near the south patches, and in a fresh breeze the shoaler parts are reported to have breakers upon them.

Around the south patches and close to will be found depths of 9 and 10 fathoms, muddy bottom, and it is reported that with southerly winds a heavy breaking sea churns up around these formidable dangers.

A WHISTLING BUOY, conical, of iron, and painted red, is moored in 10 fathoms at low water, a quarter of a mile due west of the northern head or shoalest part of the south patches, or in about latitude 21° 32′ north, longitude 91° 38′ 30″ east.

This buoy can be seen from a height of 20 feet at a distance of 4 miles, and with a moderate sea the sound of the whistle has been reported audible at the same distance.

NORTH PATCHES cover 12 miles in a north and south direction, extending southward in a broken tongue for that distance from a position about 3 miles westward of the south point of Kutabdia Island. The depth of water in the north patches varies from ¼ to 2¼ fathoms, and the bottom is of hard sand.

A channel about three-quarters of a mile wide, having from 9 to 16 fathoms of water runs up inside the north patches, or between these dangers and the sands extending off the south end of Kutabdia and westward from Maskhal Island. The tide rushes with great velocity through this channel, and without local knowledge it is better not to attempt it.

DOLPHIN SHOAL is one of the terminations of the shoal tongue running southward of Sandwip (Sundeep) Island. It is about 2 miles long north and south by half a mile in width, and has over it a depth of three-quarters of a fathom at low water. Between Dolphin shoal and the west side of Kutabdia Island, the channel is 3 miles wide, and carries depths of from 6 to 7 fathoms of water.

* Similar to the hand log, except that a lead is used, instead of a log-ship, which former reaches the bottom. By noting the direction of the line as well as the knots run out, the actual speed and course of the ship over the ground, and not through the water only, is thereby ascertained.

† In 1882 the ship Macbeth, through an error in reckoning, was set on to D'Apies Shoal, and became a total wreck.

‡ The light apparatus used in Kutabdia Light-house is an 8-reflector lantern. It is probably the oldest of its sort in use on the coast of India

A BLACK SPIRAL BUOY, surmounted by a cage, is moored in 5 fathoms at low water off the west side of the Dolphin Shoal. From it Kutabdia Light-house bears east, distant 4 miles.

SANGU (SUNGOO) RIVER* the entrance of which, though almost filled up with sand banks at low water, appears at high water, when these banks are covered, to be about 3 miles wide, enters the sea 18 miles northward of Kutabdia Island Light-house, the coast between being low and without distinguishing marks.

The Sangu River is navigable for large cargo boats for 13 miles from its mouth throughout the year, and connects higher up with the Karnaphuli, on which Chittagong is situated, by a channel, which is partly of artificial origin.

NORMAN'S POINT.—The north entrance point of the Sangu River, is broad and flat, and fringed with extensive sand flats, and trending gradually to a bearing of north by west and north, forms the eastern bank of entrance to the Karnaphuli River. Norman's Point, about 6 miles northward of the entrance of the Sangu, terminating the sandy sea-face, for from Norman's Point to the northward extensive flats of mud stretch out into the Karnaphuli River. Embankments are constructed on the face of Norman's Point above high-water mark to protect this part from inundation. Numerous small villages here dot the coast at about half a mile distant from the grass-grown embankment alluded to.

A considerable creek, navigable by large boats, enters the Karnaphuli Point on its north bank, and near the mouth is an extensive village, and about half a mile to the eastward a second village, with a large conspicuous tree near its western end.

LIGHTS.—About 1½ mile southward of Norman's Point, supported on white wooden tripods, are two fixed white lights elevated respectively 40 feet and 34 feet above high water, and bearing from each other north west by west ¼ west and south-east by east ¼ east, 440 yards apart. They should be visible at a distance of 7 miles, but only between the bearings of north-north-west through west to south by east, as seen from sea-ward. These lights can generally be made out before that of Kutabdia Island becomes lost to view.

It is contemplated to replace the lights upon Norman's Point by a masonry light tower of greater elevation, and showing a dioptric light of greater power.

PATUNGA POINT is low and flat and ill-defined, with but few trees. An extensive maidan or grassy plain extends some miles inland from its blunted southern point, and a good-sized flag-staff, situated about the central part of the high-water line, edging the mud flat of the point, affords a good mark. It bears from the highest or easternmost light tripod in Norman's Point north 13° west, and from Jooldia Hill flagstaff south 84°, west.

Villages exist near Patunga Point, and herds of cattle are constantly seen grazing in the grassy flats of the vicinity.

The coast from Patunga Point northward preserves a low unbroken aspect, trending north and forming the eastern shore of the Sandwip Channel. Extensive white sand beach borders the coast, and at about 2¾ miles northward of Patunga flagstaff, Mahesh-khali Creek, which joins the Karnaphuli River below Chittagong, enters the sea.

THE KARNAPHULI RIVER, or Kynsa Khyoung,* as it is called by the hill people, is the most important river in the Chittagong district, or the country comprised in the long strip of coast extending between the Bay of Bengal and the north Arrakan Hill Tracts. It rises in a lofty range of hills to the north-east, and after pursuing a tortuous course through the hill tracts enters the district of Chittagong at the village of Chandraguna.

As far as Kasalang, or a distance of 100 miles from its mouth, the Karnaphuli River is navigable throughout the year for boats of 4 tons burden. About 20 miles above Kasalang navigation is stopped by a succession of low falls and rocky slopes about a mile in length, known as the Barkal rapids Above Barkal, the stream narrows as it enters the higher ranges, its course being north for some distance until the Demagiri falls, some three days' journey from Barkal are reached, above which the river becomes an insignificant stream, with rocky beds, and only navigable by the smallest canoes.

The chief tributaries are the Kasalang, Chingri, Kaptai, and Bankheong rivers, of which the two first are navigable by boats for about three days journey above Barkal.

Below the Barkal falls the Karnaphuli flows in a bed composed of mud and sand, and its banks, covered with jungle, rise to a height of 60 feet. As far as Kasalang, or about 100 miles from its mouth, the tide is felt, and except during the rains, when the current is very rapid, its flow is sluggish.

The lower part of the Karnaphuli is better known as the Chittagong River.

* Strangers are reminded that the Karnaphuli River entrance may be distinguished from that of the S ngu by the flagstaff and semaphore on Jooldia Hill, the light tripods near Norman's Point, and the flagstaff on Patunga Point, on the north bank of the Karnaphuli.

* Statistical Account of Bengal, vol. VI, p. 25.

THE BAR of the Karnaphuli or Chittagong River extends completely across the river's mouth, and for 3 miles in a north-east and south-west direction, or from immediately abreast Jooldia Hill and flag-staff inside, the river, to 1¼ mile westward of Norman's Point near the entrance. The depths on the bar and in the best channel in April 1883, varied from 9 to 17 feet at low water. The shoalest parts are those at the south-west limit, where from 9 to 10 feet will be found at low-water spring tides, immediately between the two outer buoys which are coloured, the northern one red and the southern black; and at about 2 miles inside the outer edge of the bar, or south-eastward of Patunga flagstaff, where from 10 to 11 feet must be expected at low water.

Observations taken in the Investigator tend to show that the outer shelf of the bar, which drops suddenly from 10 feet to 4 and 5 fathoms, is most liable to change, being affected and slightly altered by each spring tide. Nor is the reason far to seek. The rapid tides of the Sandwip Channel, taking a northerly and southerly direction and impinging upon its protruding lip, scour hollows upon the comparatively shallow surface, most marked when aided by a strong south-west wind and sea.* The depth on the bar, however, does not appear of late years to have decreased—a reliable chart by Captain R. Lloyd, I.N., showing, in 1840, a depth of only 7¼ feet at certain positions on the outer part. In strong south-west winds a confused and dangerous sea breaks all over the outer part of the bar.

The best time for vessels to cross the bar is at slack water of high tide, and next to this on the first of the ebb. The tides set across the outer part of the bar, the flood to north-north-west, the ebb to south-south-east. At springs the flood tides run very strong, and are apt to sweep vessels to the northward and westward of the entrance to the river.

A draught of 22 to 23 feet by steam-vessels, or vessels towed in moderate weather during the height of spring tides may cross the bar at any season of the year. The best class of vessels, more especially during the south-west monsoon, for the trade of Chittagong, are those between 600 and 700 tons.

Sailing ships are sometimes detained on leaving the river during the south-west monsoon for want of a favourable wind. This may generally be expected at night in the shape of a land breeze from the northward.

BAR BUOYS.—In 1883 six large can buoys surmounted by baskets, marked the channel entrance to the Karnaphuli or Chittagong River: those on the western side of the channel coloured red, those on the eastern side coloured black.

From the outer red buoy, Patunga flagstaff bears N. 46° W. Mag distant 1¼ mile, and from the outer black buoy, the highest or eastern light-house on Norman's Point bears south 46° east, distant one mile and seven cables.

CAUTION.—The two outer buoys are liable to be washed away as the tide sets fiercely past them, and they are exposed to a chopping sea.

WESTERN ENTRANCE LEADING MARKS.—A square pillar coloured white, situated on a hill bearing nearly north, distant 8¼ cables from Jooldia flagstaff, brought just eastward of, and nearly touching, a white post 50 feet in height, surmounted by a white triangle on the plain bordering the foot of the hills, on a north 40° east bearing, leads over the outer part of the bar in from 9 to 10 feet at low water and about 180 yards south-east of the outer red bar buoy, making the north limit of the channel, until an overhanging tree (Leading Tree), apparently on the same ridge as, and to the northward of, the pillar, comes in line with a white triangle surmounted by a white disc on a pole, on the river bank on a north 35° east bearing. The vessel will now be about 5½ cables north-eastward from the second red buoy, which will have been passed close to, and the course of north 35° east should be pursued, with the white disc and triangle just alluded to, in line with the central part of the overhanging or Leading Tree. This leads over the deepest water on the inner part of the bar, and into the deep basin off Jooldia village, into which the river on its eastern side deepens out, and where quiet anchorage may be found.†

TIDES.—It is high-water at full and change on the outer part of the bar at the entrance to Karnaphuli River at about 0h. 45m. Springs rise 15 to 16 feet and Neaps 10 to 11 feet.

During the south-west monsoon, April to October, extraordinary spring tides have been known to rise as much as 19 feet above the level, to which the soundings upon the Admiralty Chart are reduced, or above low-water ordinary spring tides of the dry season, January to April.

Off Jooldia flagstaff, or upon the inner part of the bar, the flood tide is half an hour later than at the outer part of the bar.

Near the town of Chittagong high-water occurs about ¼ hour later than at Jooldia, and consequently 1¼ hours later than at the outer part of the bar.

The stream of the tide changes on an average 1½ hours after the water has ceased to rise and 1½ hours after the water has ceased to fall off Chitta-

---

* Reported lumps on the bar appear to be often caused by the grounding of vessels, the tendency thus arising for a bank to form around the vessel, more especially on the up-river side, or that exposed to the ebb stream.

† If caught upon the bar and unable to get either out or in, there is anchorage for one ship of 17 feet draught at low-water, close to the middle red buoy.

gong, and 1½ hours after the same cessations in the neighbourhood of Jooldia.

During the rainy season, April to September, the ebb tide runs with great strength. Under ordinary conditions the tidal streams average about 9 knots at neaps, and from 3 to 4 knots at spring tides.

THE EASTERN CHANNEL.—Into the Karnaphuli River, which in 1877 only carried quarter of a fathom of water, has now from 6 to 7 feet at low water, and though only two cables in width in its narrowest part, may be made use of by steam-vessels, there being less tide and sea in it than in the main channel over the bar.

TO ENTER.—The northern of five trees on Five-tree Hill, seen open just southward of Big Tree in a village half a mile eastward of Norman's Point, on a bearing of north 64° east, leads in through the narrowestand deepest part, until the Leading Tree northward of Jooldia Hill flagstaff is seen just open to the right or eastward of the white triangle on the pole situated on the river bank to the southward of the white pillar on a ridge, on a north 25° east bearing, which will lead up until past the small black buoy (which makes the western side of the 7-foot patch), and nearly to abreast Jooldia tide-gauge, when the white barrel on the tripod in line with the white cross on tripod on the eastern or left bank, and two miles northward of Jooldia flagstaff, will be made out, and should be steered for on a north 15° east bearing.

PILOTS.—Vessels strange to the port of Chittagong, and those of large draught, should invariably take a pilot, anchoring in from 30 to 36 feet outside the bar, with Norman's Point light-house bearing east-north-east, distant about 2½ miles, and Patunga flagstaff north by west ¼ west, making the requisite signal.

There are two Government pilot cutters of about 30 tons burden, their distinguishing flag shown at the masthead, having a single white and red horizontal band: one of these will generally be found at anchor about 3 mile, south west of the outer bar buoys In 1883 two of the pilots were Europeans, the remainder natives; all are well conversant with the navigation of the river and may be trusted.

The pilotage rates are as follows: steam vessels are charged a half, and vessels taking steam to tow them, two-thirds pilotage rates:—

Draught in Feet.	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20	21	22	23*
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
In or out ...	30	36	42	50	60	70	80	95	110	125	140	160	180	205	230	260

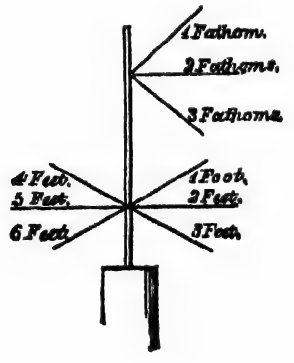
* For every foot or part above 23 feet an additional sum of Rs. 32 will be charged. Three-fourth rates will be charged for steamers and vessels towed by steam.

Vessels can make arrangements for being towed by the mail steamers of the British India Steam Navigation Company, which arrive twice a week. A tug boat is expected to be attached to the port in the course of the year 1883.

PORT DUES.—Are 4½ annas per ton. Vessels in ballast are charged at three-quarters of this rate.

MOORINGS.—There are sixteen sets of moorings for first class ships Of these, fourteen are swinging moorings, this method being judged necessry for accommodation and safety during the south-west monsoon.

TIDAL SIGNALS.—Are exhibited in the day time from the semaphore on Jooldia Hill to vessels outside the bar, and denote the rise of tide on the bar above the level to which the Admiralty Chart of 1883 is reduced.



JOOLDIH ILL.—About 88 feet high, has upon its summit a prominent flagstaff, a semaphore pole, and a well built Government bungalow with a large wide-spreading tree close to the southward of it.

From the flagstaff the various signals regarding shipping an weather are signalled, and from the semaphore the depth of water on the bar.

GEOGRAPHICAL POSITION.*—Jooldia flagstaff is situated in latitude 20° 14′ 6″ 6, longitude 91 49′ 55″ 2, depending upon the latest position of Madras Observatory as being in longitude 80° 14′ 51″ 3 east of Greenwich.

FIVE-TREE HILL.—Has the appearance from the river of forming the southern limit of an extensive table land, of which Jooldia Hill forms a part, and has upon it, as its name denotes, five trees, of which the central one is the most prominent.† The northern tree forms a mark for the eastern channel into the Karnaphuli River.

SOLITARY TREE.—Is round and bushy, and crowns a steep detached hill about the same height as, and situated three cables south-eastward of, Jooldia flagstaff; it forms an unmistakeable mark when navigating up or down the river.

LEADING TREE.—On the ridge about a mile north of Jooldia flagstaff hill, has a rugged looking trunk and flat umbrella-like top. Used in conjunction with the triangle and disc on a pole on the river bank on its southern side, as well as with the single triangle on the river bank on its northern side, it is a leading mark for ascending and descending the river.

WHITE PILLAR.—Is situated on the highest part of the ridge between Jooldia flagstaff hill and leading tree. The pillar is 15 feet high square, built of brick and coloured white, having steps on its eastern side, and is surmounted by a lantern which it is proposed to use as a guide to vessels leaving the river at night.

The lantern is elevated about 90 feet above high-water. White piller seen in line with the south-east or right-hand corner of the white triangle on an iron pole, situated on the river bank, to the southward of it, bearing north 40 east, leads over the outer part of the bar in 9 feet at low-water spring tides.

TIDE-GAUGES.—At a distance of 2½ cables west-south-west of Norman's Point is a disused tide-gauge, which covers at high-water ordinary spring tides.

Off Jooldia Hill station, on a north-west bearing from the semaphore, distant 4 cables, or on the edge of the mud bank lining the river, is a tide-gauge marked in steps at every 3 feet, by which the tidal signals governing the entry and exit of vessels, as signalled from the Semaphore, are judged.

Zero on this tide-gauge represents the level to which the soundings on the Admiralty Chart of 1883 are reduced.

BENCH MARK.—The upper surface of a flat white stone under a banyan tree at the foot, and to the westward of Jooldia Hill, is 29 feet 1¼ inches above the level to which the soundings on the Admiralty Chart are reduced, or above zero on the local tide gauge. The heights upon the same chart are also expressed above the upper surface of this stone.

CROSSING MARKS.—Two miles northward of Jooldia Hill flagstaff, on the east or left bank of the Karnaphuli River, is a tripod surmounted by a barrel, the whole painted white; and 280 yards north 15° east of this tripod, situated amongst houses and trees, is a second tripod surmounted by a pole, on which is a white cross facing southward, and over the cross a white disc facing westward.

The barrel and cross in line lead up in deep water through the Jooldia basin, clear of danger.

FLAT TREE.—Is a widespread tree with dark green foliage, situate on the northern part of the ridge or group of hills, of which Jooldia Hill form a part. It bears from Jooldia flagstaff north 14 east, distant 2 miles 1 cable nearly.

Flat Tree in line with the white disc on the northern of the two tripods previously described on a south 87° east bearing, leads in 13 feet at low-water over the second bar, which extends eastward across the river from the north-east point of Patunga Island.

JOOLDIA VILLAGE.—Is long and straggling, consisting of bamboo cottages, enclosed by bamboo and leaf fences. Narrow lanes run in all directions amongst them. Numerous fresh-water tanks are scattered over the face of the country near the villages of and around Jooldia, many of which are overgrown with weeds.

Between Flat Tree Hill on the northern extreme of the Jooldia range and the group of low hills at the back of the town of Chittagong, there are no natural features calling for note.

A POLE.—Used as a crossing mark on the western or right bank of the river is situated on the north-east part of Patunga Island. It is almost in the same line as that with the white disc over white cross on tripod on with Flat Tree on ridge, and is a rough guide for crossing when bound up river. It also denotes the limit to which vessels of 28 feet draught may be moored in the pool of the river above the second bar.

THE SECOND BAR Extends across the river at the elbow formed by the trend of the reaches of the river around the north-east point of

* The longitude of Chittagong was redetermined in 1883 by an officer of the (Great Trigonometrical) Survey. The results of his observations are not yet published.

† In reality the group of hills forming this apparent table land are much cut up with numerous projecting spurs, detached paps, and twisting valleys, but in the distance the whole blends together and assumes a flat even-topped appearance.

Patunga Island, and has over it from 13 to 14 feet at low-water ordinary spring tides.

THE CROSSING MARK—Is the white disc over the white cross on the northern tripod on the east or left bank of the river on with Flat Tree on the ridge half a mile to the eastward, on the bearing of south 87° east.

After the second bar, the navigation in the ascent of the river to abreast the town of Chittagong is easy until the bar of hard ground, the shoalest part of which is marked by a buoy with staff and ball coloured in horizontal bands of red, black, and white, is reached. This buoy in 12 feet may be passed on either side in a depth, at low-water, of 13 feet, but threading a vessel's way amongst the shipping, if strange to the place, will prove hazardous, and before this part is reached, the services of a local pilot should be engaged.

WRECKS.—In 1883 the wreck of a vessel on the southern extremity of the spit extending southward from Patunga Point was visible at low-water, and 8 cables south 54° west from the highest light tripod on Norman's Point; the wreck of a full-rigged iron vessel,* with the upper deck level with the water and masts standing, formed a conspicuous mark when appoaching the mouth of the Karnaphuli River from the southward.

INNER BUOYS.—A small black can buoy marks the western edge of a 7 feet patch inside the river off Jooldia flagstaff. From it Jooldia flagstaff bears north 63° east and Patunga flagstaff north 81° west.

This patch may be passed on either side, but if using the Western channel, the west side of it is the side that should be kept.

A SMALL BLACK CAN BUOY—Is situated off the mud flat on the east or left bank of the river above Jooldia flagstaff. It is intended as a mark for the western limit of a protuberance which is about a cable south-west of it, which latter extends from the shore bank, having over it as little as 11 feet at low-water. From the buoy Jooldia flagstaff bears south 7° east and leading tree north 69° east. The channel lies on the west side of this buoy.

TWO RED CAN BUOYS—Are situated between Jooldia and the second bar. They are intended to mark the eastern limit of the bank extending out into the river from the north-east part of Patunga Island. The channel lies between these red buoys and the eastern or left bank of the river.

These buoys bear from one another north and south, and are nearly 3¼ cables apart. From the northern leading tree bears south 39° east, distant 5¼ cables, and from the southern the same object bears south 80° east, distant 8¼ cables.

Above or northward of the north-east point of Patunga, known as Goapta-khali Point and the second bar, the deep water channel of the river lies near the western or right bank, and so continues until the mooring buoys of Chittagong are reached.

Six creeks enter the river on the western side between Chittagong and the second bar, named consecutively, working from the southward, Goapta-khali, Coota-khali, Kalla-khali, Doma-khali, Cooma-khali, and Mahesh-khali.

The eastern bank becomes low and swampy, and is broken up into four distinct mud-formed islands locally known as chárs; to these grass-cutters resort in their canoes. There is a passage for boats eastward of these chárs at high-water.

MAHESH-KHALI CREEK or canal, enters the Karnaphuli River about 1¼ miles south-westward of, or below the town of Chittagong, and after circuitously cutting across the low land forming the western bank of that river, enters the Sandwip Channel about 2¼ miles south of Patunga Point, rendering the apparent peninsula of Patunga an island at high water. Although this creek affords a safe and expeditious route for the many cargo boats and small craft plying with cargoes of rice and jute from the ports of the Meghna River, by the crews of which the navigation round Patunga Point is so much dreaded, it was, in 1883, nearly silted up, affording a passage only for the smallest sized boats at high water.

FAKEER'S HILL.—Of moderate height, near the western extremity of the Chittagong cluster of hills, and on the summit of which is a prominent tree, is the only conspicuous mark in the background of the river after the Jooldia group of hills is passed. From the Sandwip Channel it is reported to be visible at a distance of 15 miles on a clear day.

FIVE BLACK CAN BUOYS mark the western edge of the bank on the east side of the channel above the second bar, and there are fourteen large black can mooring buoys, which may be distinguished from those marking the channel by the fact of their being many sizes larger.

A striped ring buoy marks the shoalest part of a bar of hard ground situated half a mile westward of the Government pier, Chittagong. On this bar there is only 13 feet at low-water.

CHITTAGONG PORT—Is the second in importance and prosperity of the ports of Bengal, and affords fairly easy access and safe anchorage to ships of 20 feet, and at spring tides even of 24 feet draught.

With the improvements in lighting and buoying, the approaches to Chittagong, the moorings which have recently been laid down for large vessels, and a steam-tug which will shortly be introduced, Chittagong should continue to increase in mercantile prosperity.

The proximity of the port of Chittagong to the river Meghna, topping as that river does, much of the country traversed by the Ganges and Brahmaputra, and offering a water-way to the numerous native brigs and other craft which carry down from the rapidly developing river port of Narayanganj, jute, rice, &c, in time will probably again earn for it its former title, the "Porto Grandé" of the Portuguese navigators, who in former years frequented it. Judging by the survey of 1883, there appears no foundation for the report that the right bank of the river off Chittagong town is gradually shoaling.

The port of Chittagong and the navigable river and channels leading thereto are subject to the Indian Ports Act of 1875. The limits of the port are:—

To the north east—a line drawn across the river Karnaphuli from the boundary pillar at the mouth of the Chaktai Nulla, to the boundary pillar on the opposite bank.

To the south—a line drawn from Jooldia flagstaff to Patunga beacon.

These limits include the river and the shores lying within fifty yards of high-water mark at ordinary spring tides.

The limits of the navigable river and channel leading to the port of Chittagong are as follow:—

To the north-east—the port of Chittagong as above defined.

To the south—a line drawn west from Norman's Point light-house.

To the north—the port as defined above, and from Patunga beacon a line drawn due west sea-ward.

To the west—a line drawn parallel to the line between Patunga beacon and Norman's Point light-house at a distance of 4 miles.

To the east—the south bank of the river between Jooldia and Norman's Point light-house.

All parts of the river between these limits and below high-water mark at spring tides, are subject to the Act.

A telegraph wire stretches across the river just above the town of Chittagong at a height of about 50 feet above high water. Small vessels bound up river, should lower their upper masts in consequence.

PORT DUES are levied at the following rates, once in 60 days, in the port of Chittagong.

Balam* boats of 10 tons and upwards, 1 anna per ton burthen.

All other sea-going vessels of 10 tons and upwards, 4½ annas for every ton burthen.

TRADE.—The trade report of Chittagong for the year 1881-82 showed an increase over that of 1880-81 of upwards of 45 lakhs of rupees, or about £380,000. The value of the trade in the latter year amounting to £1,571,956, and the number of vessels which entered and cleared the port to 96, representing an aggregate of 68,100 tons, or 19,319 tons in excess of the 71 vessels entered and cleared in the year 1880-81.†

Jute can be loaded at 6 to 7 annas per ton.

Salt discharged at the same price. The average disbursement of vessels arriving in ballast and loading rice cargoes is as follows:—

	Rs.	Rs.
800 tons ...	...	1,200 to 1,400	exclusive of towage.
600 „ ...	...	1,700 to 1,900
1,000 „ ...	...	2,300 to 2,600

Vessels arriving in ballast and loading jute—

1,200 to 1,400 tons, Rs. 6,000, including towage.

Steamers loading jute—

1,200 to 1,500 tons, Rs. 5,000 to 7,000.

Rice can be loaded by sailing vessels generally in two-maund bags, at from 2 to 3 annas per ton; by steam-vessels at 4 annas per ton.

Stone ballast may be procured at from 12 annas to Rs. 1-8 per ton, and can generally be discharged free of expense to the ship.

Mud ballast is also procurable.

Ballast can be discharged at 4 annas per ton.

LABOUR.—Coolies can be hired at from 7 to 8 annas per day, or by contract rates.

EXPORTS.—The export of jute is rapidly increasing. Rice, paddy, tea, and cotton are also largely exported.

IMPORTS.—Salt in large quantities from Great Britain, earth oil, and piece-goods, and occasionally timber from Rangoon.

SUPPLIES.—Fresh provisions are to be had at Chittagong at moderate prices, but fresh-water is not easily procured, the price for delivery alongside

* Boats peculiar to the locality, which carry cargo; the planking is sewn together, and the frame-work jointed. No nails or bolts are made use of in their construction.

† A variety of quaint looking country crafts averaging from 50 to 300 tons, and resembling brigs in their rig and sails, ply between Chittagong and Naryanganj on the Meghna. It would seem that these vessels partake of the relicts of seamanship handed down to the descendants of the early Portugese navigators, who effected a settlement in this part as far back as 1664.

amounting to from Rs 25 to Rs. 30 per 1,000 gallons. For washing purposes the water brought down by the last of the ebb, about 2 miles above the town, will be found sufficiently cleanly.

COAL in quantities up to 100 tons can generally be purchased at a cost (for Welsh coal) of Rs. 25 per ton.

COMMUNICATION.—The great trunk road to Dacca to the northward runs from Chittagong parallel to, and at about three miles from the eastern coast line of the Sandwip Channel. There is a daily post by land to Calcutta, and a telegraph office with facilities for telegraphing throughout India and Europe. Telephonic communication between Chittagong and Jooldia is, it is expected, to be shortly accomplished. Weekly mail steamers run direct to and from Calcutta.

Funds are said to have been granted for a railway, which will connect Chittagong and Daudkandi, Eastern Bengal, in which case the jute trade, at present conducted by small vessels from Narāyángánj, will receive a fresh impetus, and probably increase.

REPAIRS.—Vessels of any size up to 1,400 tons can have their bottoms repaired or cleaned by beaching on a bank of hard sand, bearing south-south-east, distant ½ of a mile, from the Port Officer's flagstaff, near the landing jetty at Chittagong. It is advisable to hire the Government anchor buoy on these occasions, which may be procured for the purpose of laying out the necessary anchors at a cost of Rs 64.

THE TOWN OF CHITTAGONG—Also named by the Moghuls in 1665, Islamabad, or the Residence of the Faithful, has an interesting early history attached to it.* It is situated on the western or left bank of the Karnaphuli River at about 12 miles from its mouth, and lies scattered with its villages amongst a group of small, steep, table-topped hills, the whole covering an area of nine square miles

The European residents inhabit the bungalows built on the summits of these hills, and, generally speaking, each house has a hill to itself.

The chief buildings are the Government offices, Roman Catholic Cathedral, Protestant Church, a large mosque, school-houses, dispensary, post office, and club house.

The merchants' offices and business quarters fringe the rivers bank. Near at hand are the offices of the French and United States Consuls, two mills for cleansing rice.† Agencies for various shipping companies, port office, custom-house, &c.

The total population amounts to 20,604, of which the greater number are males, owing to the fact that the population chiefly consists of men who come from other parts either for trade or in search of employment, leaving their families at home.

Ship-building was formerly carried on to a considerable extent, but of recent years has fallen away. Ship repairs, however, can still be effected at about the same rates as are charged at Calcutta.

HEALTH.—Although the low lying native town of Chittagong, on account of the numerous disused fresh-water tanks, overgrown with rank vegetation, is considered unhealthy, the port is not by any means worse in this respect than other river ports of India. Vessels visiting Chittagong are permitted the benefit of the attendance of a Government surgeon at a moderate charge.

The most unhealthy month of the year is September, or towards the close of the rainy season. Fever is then prevalent. In the months of April and May epidemics of small-pox and cholera are most to be expected. An easterly wind, if of long continuance, is said to be unhealthy. In the cold season northerly winds are most common.

WINDS AND WEATHER.—The situation of Chittagong exposes it to the force of the south-west monsoon, and the rainfall is generally heavy, averaging between 105 and 106 inches.‡ A sea breeze usually prevails during the day, rendering the air comparatively cool. The atmosphere is frequently loaded with moisture, causing heavy dew at night and occasionally dense fogs.

The prevailing winds from March to May are from south-west; from June to September they blow from the south-east; and from October to February from north-east.

From the middle of October to March, the weather is fine and settled; but towards April, or the end of the season, the wind becomes more easterly, with occasional heavy north-westers in the afternoon.

From about the middle of April the south-west monsoon blows fresh in the upper part of the Bay of Bengal; but near the land in the north-east part of the Bay, land and sea breezes are met with.

Near Chittagong, in the forenoon, the wind generally blows from the south-east and is moderate; towards the afternoon freshening up and veering to the south-west quarter.

In June and July, during the height of the south-west monsoon. it blows hard from south-south-east to south-west with rain, leaving now and then a few comparatively fine days.

† Rice at Chittagong in husking is parboiled before shipment. This is said to give it a superiority as a grain cargo, over rice not similarly treated, which latter is liable in bulk to accumulate heat at times to a dangerous extent.

‡ At the beginning of the present century Chittagong was considered a sanitarium, and resorted to from Calcutta on account of its cool sea breeze.

The velocity of the wind is least in October and greatest during June and July.

The following is the monthly mean meteorological table resulting from observations made at Chittagong :—

Month.	Temperature.	Barometer.	Cloud proportion.	Rainfall.
January	66·8	29·917	0·98	0·56

CYCLONES.—Although the neighbourhood of Chittagong is much exposed, serious injury by cyclones is not often caused. In 1849 and again in 1872 and in 1876, severe cyclones accompanied by storm-waves, worked great havoc in the district. In 1849 large quantities of slime and salt were left upon the soil when the sea water had again subsided to its natural level. In 1876 a severe epidemic of cholera occurred immediately after the cyclone, numbers of natives as well as several Europeans falling victims.

WEATHER SIGNALS.—The following arrangements for weather signals for the port of Chittagong, sanctioned by Government in November 1882, are only used within the limits of the port to give notice to the shipping and general public of the early approach of a severe cyclone with its attendant storm-wave. They are hoisted on the flagstaff of the Port Officer and on the yard-arm of the flagstaff at Jooldia, on receipt of instructions from the Meteorological Office at Calcutta :—

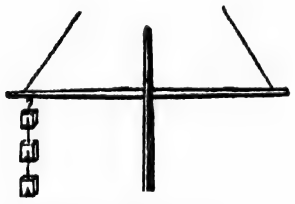
1. Day warning signal.

A Ball indicates that a severe cyclone, of which the centre is in the neighbourhood of the coast, is advancing towards the mouth of the river, and will probably advance towards Chittagong.

2. Day danger signal.

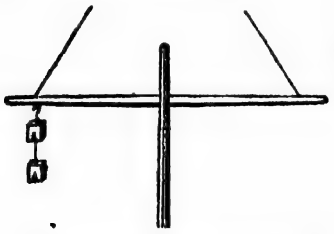
A Drum indicates that a severe cyclone with its attendant storm-wave is approaching Chittagong.

3. Night warning signal.



Three lights in a vertical plane indicate that a severe cyclone, of which the centre is in the neighbourhood of the coast, is advancing towards the mouth of the river, and will probably advance towards Chittagong.

4. Night danger signal.



Two lights in a vertical line indicate the early approach of a severe cyclonic storm and its attendant storm-wave, to the port of Chittagong.

EARTHQUAKES.—Occur at rare intervals, although the shock of them is said to be often felt, generally in the winter season.

In April 1872 Chittagong was violently shaken by one of these phenomenon, the earth opening in many places and throwing up mud and water. In 1865 and as recently as 1882 shocks of earthquakes are reported to have been noticed.

NOTIFICATION.

The 26th June 1883.—Plans and an estimate, amounting to Rs. 1,23,596, for the construction of an anchor vessel for the port of Calcutta, having been submitted by the Commissioners for making Improvements in the Port of Calcutta with their Vice-Chairman's letter No. 636, dated the 23rd May 1883, the Lieutenant-Governor sanctions the expenditure under the provisions of section 35 of Act V (B.C.) of 1870.

Conditions for Scholarships instituted by the Gilchrist Educational Trust for the benefit of Natives of India.

[These Scholarships, like the Degrees and other Academical Rewards of the University of London, are open to Women upon exactly the same conditions as to Men.]

A SCHOLARSHIP of the value of £150 per annum, and tenable for four years, will be annually awarded to a candidate, born in India, who shall become eligible by competitive examination, and shall be desirous of prosecuting a course of Academical study in Great Britain with a view to graduation in one of the Faculties of Arts, Science, Law, or Medicine, in the University of London, under the following conditions:—

1. Of the parents of each candidate one at least shall belong to one of the native races.

2. Every candidate must furnish proof satisfactory to the local authorities that he has completed his sixteenth year, and that his age does not exceed twenty-two years.

3. Every candidate must furnish proof satisfactory to the local authorities that, in regard to personal character and social position, he is qualified to be admitted to competition for a scholarship.

4. Candidates approved by the local authorities shall present themselves at the January Matriculation Examination of the University of London, which will be held simultaneously, under the direction of Government Sub-Examiners, at the three presidential capitals, commencing on the second Monday in January.

5. The answers of the candidates, approved as aforesaid, will be forwarded, through the India Office, to the Registrar of the University, who will cause them to be reviewed by the Examiners, and who will forward their report to the India Office for transmission to the local authorities in the presidential capitals, to be by them announced to the candidates.

6. The scholarship shall be awarded to the candidate whose aggregate of marks stands highest, provided that he passes either in the Honours or in the First Division. Such candidate shall have his choice whether he will pursue his curriculum of study in the University of Edinburgh or in University College, London.

7. The successful candidate will be provided by the Government of India with a free passage to England; and will be expected to arrive in London, and to present himself to the Secretary of the Gilchrist Trust, not later than the first week in the October following his appointment.

8. The scholarship shall be considered as commencing from the 1st of July following the award of the Examiners; and shall be paid in quarterly instalments on the first days of October, January, April, and July.

9. Each scholar shall attend in every session at least three courses of lectures at the institution in which he studies; and shall transmit to the Secretary of the Gilchrist Trust, at the conclusion of each session, a certificate from each of the Professors, whose lectures he has attended, stating that his diligence and conduct have been satisfactory. Should he not be able to produce such a certificate, or should he be proved guilty of discreditable conduct elsewhere, he shall be considered to have forfeited his claim to the remaining instalments of his scholarship.

10. Each scholar shall be expected to present himself at the first examination in one of the Faculties of Arts, Science, Law, or Medicine in the University of London before the termination of the second (Academical year[a] from the commencement of his scholarship, unless excused from doing so by the Trustees; and if he do not so present himself (unless by permission of the Trustees), or if he fail to pass, he shall be considered as forfeiting his claim to the remaining instalments of his scholarship. After having passed the first examination he will be expected to pursue his studies with the view of presenting himself at the next examination within two (Academical) years.

11. A grant of Fifty Pounds will be made by the Trustees for the return passage of every scholar who shall succeed in obtaining his degree in the University of London. For every scholar who may fail to obtain his degree a return passage will be provided by the Government of India.

12. The foregoing scheme shall be subject to revision from time to time, the Trustees reserving to themselves the power of altering the conditions of the scholarships, or of altogether withdrawing them, if they deem it expedient to do either. But no change will be made in such a manner as to affect the interests of candidates already appointed to scholarships, or in any case without twelve months' notice.

[a] Thus a candidate whose scholarship commences on the 1st of July 1884 would be considered as having fulfilled this condition if he pass the Intermediate LL.B. Examination in January 1886; or the Intermediate B.A., the Intermediate B.Sc, or the Preliminary Scientific M.B Examination in the following July.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA (MARINE BRANCH), MILITARY DEPARTMENT.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.—(No. 23).

BAY OF BENGAL—COAST OF ORISSA.

FALSE POINT.

Occasional Obscuration of Light by Fog.

THE attention of Mariners is called to the following remarks relative to False Point Light:—

During the months of January, February, and March, the prevalence of low-lying, heavy fog—over the land which lies between the light-house and the sea—occasionally interferes with the proper visibility of the light, and at times may even obscure it, although the weather at sea may be clear.

Mariners should, therefore, be specially cautious when approaching the light during the first quarter of the year, and use the lead continually.

STAMPS.
H. A. Cockerell, Esq., C.S.I.

WITH reference to the provision contained in clause C, section 51 of the Indian Stamp Act, I of 1879, which requires that, in the event of the impressed stamp used for any bill-of-exchange, &c., signed by the drawer thereof being spoiled or rendered useless in consequence of any error or omission, another completed or duly stamped bill-of-exchange shall be produced indentical in every particular with the spoiled bill, except in the correction of such error or omission, before allowance can be made for the stamps spoiled: it is hereby notified for the information of the public that the Governor-General in Council has authorized the Collector of Stamp Revenue, Calcutta, to renew the stamps used for bills-of-exchange, which have become spoiled in consequence of mistake or error in drawing out the document, after the Collector has satisfied himself by evidence that a fresh set of bills-of-exchange has been executed in each case, and that application for such renewal has been made within ten working days from the date of the bill-of-exchange in respect of which the renewal of the stamp was required.

Rules under Section 24 of Act I (B.C.) of 1880 for regulating the running of Locomotive Engines on the Tramway lines in Calcutta

1. Every engine to be fitted with such mechanical appliances for preventing the motive power of such engine from operating and for bringing such engine and the carriage drawn by it to a stand, as the Commissioners may from time to time think sufficient, and also to be fitted with an indicator, by means of which the speed shall be shewn, with suitable fender to put aside obstructions, and with a special bell whistle or other apparatus to be sounded as a warning when necessary.

2. Every such engine to be free from the noise produced by blast or chatter of machinery, and the machinery concealed from view at all points above four inches from the level of the rails; and all fire used on such engines to be concealed from view.

3. The Commissioners shall be at liberty from time to time to inspect any engine used on the tramways and the machinery therein, and whenever they think fit to prohibit the use on the tramways of any such engine, which in their opinion may not be safe for use on the tramways. The speed at which engines may be driven or propelled along the tramway is not to exceed the rate of 8 miles an hour, and the speed at which engines may pass through moveable facing points is not to exceed the rate of 4 miles an hour.

4. The engines shall be required to burn coke when plying on the tramways.

5. No engine shall draw more than three carriages at the same time.

6. No engine shall start from either end of the line after sunset or before sunrise. Once started an engine may complete its journey after sunset provided that no unusual delay occurs.

7. The penalty for the breach of any of these rules shall be any sum not exceeding Rs. 20.

Calcutta, the 26th August 1875.

The Indian Law Reports.

Published under Authority of the Governor-General in Council.

THE Reports appear in monthly parts, published as soon as possible after the first of each month at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad, and will comprise four series,—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court. The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court will be reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court will be reported in the Calcutta Series.

The Parts of each series can be had separately, or all four Parts can be had stitched into one wrapper at the option of subscribers and purchasers. It will be observed from the following statement of the terms of subscription and sale, that a considerable reduction is allowed to persons taking the complete set.

Terms of subscription, payable annually in advance.

	Without postage.	With postage.

READ—

Endorsements Nos. 170 to 180, dated the 17th January 1883, from the Director of Public Instruction, regarding offers of scholarships and prizes made by several gentlemen in commemoration of the visit of His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General to the Calcutta Madrassa on the 17th January 1883.

Endorsement No. 546, dated the 24th January 1883, from the Director of Public Instruction, submitting copy of a letter from Nawab Shams-ul-Umra Amir-i-Kabir Kurshid Jah Bahadur of Hyderabad.

Demi-official correspondence with the Manager, Durbhunga Raj.

Letter from the Secretary to the National Mahomedan Association, No. 309, dated the 5th February 1883.

Letter to the Government of India, No. 54, dated the 3rd February 1883.
Ditto ditto, No. 84, dated the 14th ditto.
Letter from ditto, No. 90, dated the 15th ditto.
Ditto ditto, No. 98, dated the 23rd ditto.

IN commemoration of His Excellency the Viceroy's visit to the Calcutta Madrassa on the occasion of the last annual distribution of prizes, the following gentlemen and the Mahomedan Literary Society have very liberally offered to invest various sums in Government securities for the foundation of the scholarships and prizes noted below, for the benefit of Mahomedan students.

Syud Lutf Ali Khan, C.I.E.—Rupees 6,000, for two scholarships of Rs. 10 each a month, to be awarded to two Mahomedan students of the Patna Collegiate School who pass the Entrance examination, but fail to obtain scholarships: the scholarships to be designated "Syud Lutf Ali Khan's Ripon Scholarships."

Syud Ali Khan, Khan Bahadur.—Rupees 3,000, for a scholarship of Rs. 10 a month, to be awarded to any Mahomedan student of Bengal who passes the Entrance examination, but fails to win a scholarship, preference being, however, given to a student who passes from the Calcutta Madrassa: the scholarship to be designated "Syud Ali Khan Bahadur's Ripon Scholarship."

Nawab Ahsanoollah of Dacca.—Rupees 3,000, for a scholarship of Rs. 10 a month, to be awarded to a Mahomedan student, and to be tenable for four years at any of the Arts Colleges in Bengal: the scholarship to be designated "Nawab Ahsanoollah's Ripon Scholarship."

Shahzada Mahomed Rahimoodin of the Mysore Family.—Rupees 1,000, for two annual prizes of Rs. 20 each, to be awarded to two Mahomedan students of Bengal who pass the Entrance examination, but fail to obtain scholarships, preference being, however, given to students of the Calcutta Madrassa: the prizes to be designated "Shahzada Mahomed Rahimoodin's Ripon Prizes."

The Mahomedan Literary Society of Calcutta.—Rupees 1,000, for two annual prizes of Rs. 20 each, to be awarded to two Mahomedan students of Bengal who pass the Entrance examination, but fail to obtain scholarships, students of the Calcutta Madrassa, however, receiving the preference: the prizes to be called "The Mahomedan Literary Society's Ripon Prizes."

Moulvi Syud Ali Ahmed.—Rupees 500, for an annual prize of Rs. 20, to be awarded to any Mahomedan student of Bengal or Behar who passes the Entrance examination, but does not obtain a scholarship, preference being, however, given to a student of the Calcutta Madrassa: the prize to be designated "Moulvi Syud Ali Ahmed's Ripon Prize."

Prince Jehan Kadir Mirza Mahomed Wahid Ali Bahadur of the Oudh Family.—Rupees 500, for an annual prize of Rs. 20, to be awarded to any Mahomedan student of Bengal who passes the Entrance examination, but fails to obtain a scholarship, preference being, however, given to a student of the Calcutta Madrassa: the prize to be designated "Prince Jehan Kadir Mirza Bahadur's Ripon Prize."

Shuja-ul-Mulk Asufuddowlah, Nawab Syud Zainul Abidin, Khan Bahadoor, Feroz Jang of the Nizamut Family.—Rupees 500, for an annual prize of Rs. 20, to be awarded to any Mahomedan student of Bengal who passes the Entrance examination, but fails to obtain a scholarship, preference being, however, given to one who passes from the Calcutta Madrassa: the prize to be designated "Nawab Zainul Abidin Khan Bahadur's Ripon Prize."

Munshi Kasim Arif.—Rupees 500, for an annual prize of Rs. 20, to be awarded to any Mahomedan student of Bengal who passes the Entrance examination, but does not obtain a scholarship, preference being, however, given to a student of the Calcutta Madrassa: the prize to be designated "Kasim Arif's Ripon Prize."

Sahibzada Mahomed Naseeroodin Hyder of Mysore Family.—Rupees 300, for an annual prize of Rs. 12, to be awarded to any Mahomedan student of Bengal who passes the Entrance examination, but fails to win a scholarship, preference being, however, given to a student of the Calcutta Madrassa: the prize to be called "Mahomed Naseeroodin Hyder's Ripon Prize."

Haji Mirza Abdul Karim Shirazi.—Rupees 300, for an annual prize of Rs. 12, to be awarded to any Mahomedan student of Bengal who passes the Entrance examination, but does not obtain a scholarship, a student of the Calcutta Madrassa being, however, preferred: the prize to be called "Mirza Abdul Karim Shirazi's Ripon Prize."

Nawab Abdul Latif, C.I.E.—Rupees 300, for an annual prize of Rs. 12, to be awarded to a Mahomedan student of the Calcutta Madrassa who passes the Entrance examination, but fails to obtain a scholarship: the prize to be called "Nawab Abdul Latif's Ripon Prize."

2. His Excellency the Viceroy has been pleased to accord permission to the use of his name in the manner proposed, in connection with the schol-ships and prizes, and the Lieutenant-Governor now accepts the above offers with much pleasure, and tenders his cordial thanks to each of the gentlemen named.

3. In addition to these donations, two other munificent contributions have been received in aid of the Calcutta Madrassa. Nawab Shams-ul-Umra Amir-i-Kabir Kurshid Jah Bahadur of Hyderabad has placed at the disposal of the Government a donation of Rs. 15,000, to be used in the manner most beneficial to the institution; and the Honorable Maharajah of Durbhunga has also given Rs. 12,000 for the foundation of scholarships to be held by its students. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to thank both these noblemen for their very generous help. The Director of Public Instruction will be requested to submit proposals for the utilization of the endowment of Nawab Shams-ul-Umra Amir-i-Kabir Kurshid Jah Bahadur, and for the future disposal of the scholarships founded by the Maharajah of Durbhunga. For the present year the Maharajah has desired that two scholarships should be awarded to the two scholars who stood next to those who took scholarships at the January examination.

4. The Lieutenant-Governor has also learnt with pleasure from the National Mahomedan Association that, in commemoration of His Excellency the Viceroy's visit to the Madrassa, they have established four scholarships: two of Rs. 15 each per mensem, one being tenable by a Mahomedan student at the Medical College for five years, and the other at the Shibpore Engineering College for three years; and two of Rs. 10 each per mensem, tenable for four years at any of the Arts Colleges in Bengal. One of the latter, which is separately noticed above, has been already permanently endowed by Nawab Ahsanoollah of Dacca.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

A. P. MACDONNELL,

Officiating Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

ANNUAL REPORT ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE ORISSA PORTS FOR THE YEAR 1882-83.

No. 779, dated Cuttack, the 26th May 1883.

From—A. SMITH, Esq., Commissioner of the Orissa Division,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, General Department.

I HAVE the honour to submit the Annual Report on the Administration of the Orissa Ports for 1882-83 under Government order No. 2777 of the 14th August 1878.

2. The operations of each port are separately treated.

FALSE POINT.

3. Finance.—Subjoined is a comparative statement of the collections of the port during the past two years:—

PARTICULARS.	1881-82.	1882-83	Increase.	Decrease.	REMARKS.
Port-dues.	Rs. A. P.	Rs. A. P.	Rs. A. P.	Rs. A. P.
On European vessels, foreign trade	752 8 0	1,050 2 0	297 10 0	.....
Ditto, coasting trade	318 14 0	319 14 0	1 0 0	.....
On Native vessels	270 14 0	267 2 0	.....	3 12 0
On Mail steamers	9,582 4 10	10,415 9 0	833 4 2	.....
Fines	8 0 0	13 0 0	10 0 0	.....
Sundry receipts	.....	.....	.....	.....
Cash recoveries	45 0 0	.....	.....	45 0 0
Government contribution	.....	.....	.....	.....
Miscellaneous	96 4 0	375 9 0	279 5 0	.....
Total ...	11,048 12 10	12,441 4 0	1,441 3 2	48 12 0

4. It will be seen that the port-dues levied during the year amounted to Rs. 12,052-11, against Rs. 10,904-8-10 in the preceding year, showing an increase of Rs. 1,148-2-2. Regarding the increase the Collector writes:—"The increase from the port-dues levied from all classes of vessels is by Rs. 1,148-2-2. The reason of this increase is that while 11 months' accounts were shown in the previous year's return, the transactions of 13 months, from March 1882 to March 1883, are included in the return under notice." The increased number of vessels that visited the port during the year, as will be shown in the following paragraph, must also have contributed to the increase to some extent, independently of the cause assigned by the Collector.

5. The sale proceeds of the sailing vessel Alice, sold during the year under the Government order No. 204 of the 27th January 1883, have swelled the receipts under "Miscellaneous."

6. The fluctuations under other heads are insignificant, and call for no remarks.

7. The disbursements of the port during the year, as compared with the previous year, are shown below—

NATURE OF CHARGE.		1881-82.	1882-83.	Increase.	Decrease.
		Rs. A. P.	Rs. A. P.	Rs. A. P.	Rs. A. P.
Port ...	Establishment	3,574 13 7	3,588 0 0	13 2 5	.....
	Cargo boat establishment	2,582 8 0	2,563 9 4	.....	18 14 8
	Travelling	27 0 0	88 3 7	61 3 7	.....
	Contingencies	433 6 10	358 6 6	.....	75 0 4
Other expenditure ...	Dockyard charges	.....	109 3 5	109 3 5	.....
	Refund	34 13 0	.....	.....	34 13 0
	Petty construction and repairs ...	.....	.....	.....	.....
Public works ...	Original works	.....	.....	.....	.....
	Establishments	.....	.....	.....	.....
	Total ...	6,652 9 5	6,707 6 10	183 9 5	128 12 0

8. The increase of Rs. 13-2-5 under "Port Establishment" is nominal, inasmuch as the Port Fund clerk was on leave for a fortnight, without pay during March 1881, and there were deductions on account of fines imposed on the establishment during the preceding year, whereas during the year under report there have been no such retrenchments. A less amount was in consequence disbursed on account of salary in 1881-82.

9. The decrease of Rs. 18-4-8 shown under "Cargo Boat Establishment" is due to the fact that some of the crew were on leave without pay during the year under report, while in the year before the full amount of their pay was disbursed.

10. The increase under "Travelling Allowance" was due to the Port Officer having visited the Pooree port twice during the year instead of once, as in the year preceding.

11. The purchase of cocoanut seedlings worth Rs. 120 during 1881-82 increased the ordinary contingencies, and the year under report, having no such transactions, shows a decrease.

12. The Collector reports that the sum of Rs. 109-3-5 shown under "Dockyard Charges" is the value of stores supplied in November 1881; but as the intimation of the charge was received from the Accountant-General, Bengal, only on the 29th April last, the item has been exhibited in the past year's return, though the charge relates to the previous year.

13. Commercial development.—The number and tonnage of the vessels that visited the port during the past two years are given below:—

Particulars.	1881-82.				1882-83.
	Entered.		Cleared.		Entered.		Cleared.
	Number.	Tonnage.	Number.	Tonnage.	Number.	Tonnage.	Number.	Tonnage.
Steamers	110	1,55,937	110	1,55,937	107	1,50,838	108	1,51,227
Sailing vessels	25	9,938	26	10,020	49	20,192	45	17,392
Total ...	135	1,65,875	136	1,65,957	156	1,71,030	153	1,68,619

14. There has been a decrease of three steamers of 5,099 tons and an increase of 24 sailing vessels of 10,254 tons or a net increase of 21 vessels of 5,155 tons in the arrivals during the year as compared with the previous year. Similarly, in the departures there has been a decrease of two steamers of 4,710 tons and an increase of 19 sailing vessels of 7,372 tons, or a net increase of 17 vessels of 2,662 tons. This increase was due to the increased exportation of rice to home as well as to foreign ports, to be noticed in the sequel.

15. The Collector reports "the visits of the mail steamers were as frequent as in the previous year." The two special steamers engaged during the previous year for the transport of the 32nd Regiment, Madras Native Infantry, to Cuttack caused the increase in the number and tonnage of steamers for that period.

16. A statement showing the quantity and value of grain exported to foreign and home ports during the year, as compared with the previous year, is given below:—

Port.	1881-82.		1882-83.
	Quantity in cwt.	Value.	Quantity in cwt.	Value.
		Rs.		Rs.
Foreign ports	242,010	7,73,448	342,660	9,08,336
Home ports	98,890	2,65,140	319,040	9,21,330
Total ...	340,900	10,38,588	661,700	18,29,666

17. It will be seen from the above that the quantity of rice exported during the year is nearly double that of the preceding year, but the value is very much less in proportion. This is owing to the price of rice being lower during the year.

18. Subjoined is a comparative statement of the quantity and value of the staple imports during the last two years:—

Description.	1881-82.		1882-83.
	Quantity.	Value.	Quantity.	Value.
		Rs.		Rs.
Cotton twist	87,360lb	73,540	17,020lb	12,150
Piece-goods	51,235 pcs.	89,536	81 pcs.	3,672
Metal	380 cwt.	10,271	3,240 cwt.	14,002
Spices	8,960lb	2,250	2,240lb	318
Opium	268¼ mds.	3,43,080	.....	.....
Liquor	2,307 gals.	16,143	1,350 gals.	9,822
Gunnies	1,03,705 no.	26,588	40,943	17,086
Total ...	.....	5,62,008	.....	57,050

19. It will be seen that with the exception of metal, which shows an increase, all the items exhibit decreases.

20. Referring to the above decreases the Collector says:—"It is not to be understood, however, that the importation of the above articles into the district has actually decreased. It is owing, as noticed in the last year's report, to the diversion of trade from False Point to the Chandbally line."

Mr. Jones writes as follows regarding what he considers to be the causes of this diversion:—"So far as I have been able to ascertain, the chief defect of the False Point Harbour, as compared with the Chandbally, is that ordinary country cargo-boats cannot be used for bringing goods from the ships to the interior, because traders and other boatmen are afraid to run the risk of crossing the broad expanse of salt water between the mouth of the Jamboo river and the anchorage, a distance of about five miles, and of remaining at the anchorage for several days, as would sometimes be necessary. Such boats would, in fact, be in considerable danger if bad weather, as is not unfrequently the case, were to come on suddenly. On the other hand, the route to Chandbally and Chandbally itself present no risk of the kind. The whole journey is by canal and rivers of small or moderate width, and Chandbally itself is situated on a moderate-sized river, and, except in the very worst weather, is perfectly safe for the smallest native craft. Moreover, the shore is close to the boats with its bazar and other accommodation, whereas at False Point there is nothing but a low sandy spit of land without any bazar, or, in fact, any accommodation whatever, and the nearest bazar is at Jamboo, a distance of above five miles. It appears probable, too, that the owners of some of the Chandbally steamers would not care to incur the risk and inconvenience of lying at anchor at False Point for several days in each week."

There is no doubt that the native merchants prefer the Chandbally to the False Point route, and that there has in consequence been a diversion of the trade to the latter, as evidenced by its increased imports.

21. The total trade of the port during the last two years is shown below:—

	1881-82.	1882-83.
	Rs.	Rs.
Imports	8,47,160	1,73,961
Total ...	28,41,054	31,44,458

22. From the above it will be seen that the value of imports has decreased by Rs. 6,73,199, while that of exports has increased by Rs. 9,76,603; the net increase of the trade being Rs. 3,03,404, or 10·67 per cent as compared with the previous year. The increase in exports and decrease in imports have been noticed in paragraphs 16 and 17 and 18 to 20 above.

23. Registration of cargo-boats.—The number of cargo-boats registered during the year was 35, against 34 in the year preceding.

24. The Collector reports that no case of throwing ballast in the harbour has occurred during the year.

25. Improvements.—Cuttack, False Point, and Jamboo were connected by telephone, and the arrangements for connecting the False Point Light-House were sanctioned, as stated in my last report. A telephone line has been now laid down, and is in working order between False Point Light-House and Hookeytollah. The latter place is in telegraphic communication with Calcutta. A signaller has been appointed at the light-house to communicate with ships in the offing. This will be useful to the shipping for purposes of communication with their agents and owners.

26. The buoys have been examined and painted. They and the flag-staff are in good order. The steamers of the British India Steam Navigation Company have continued to call at the port regularly during the year.

27. The cocoanut plantation, for watering which six coolies were employed from April to July last, is now growing well.

28. Casualty.—There were no wrecks or casualties during the year. During the last few days the mail steamer Chinsura has run ashore and has not been got off, and I fear there is little room to hope that she ever will be got off.

POOREE.

29. Finance.—A statement showing the collections of the port during the year as compared with the year preceding is given below:—

Particulars.	1881-82.	1882-83.	Increase.	Decrease.
Port-dues.	Rs. A. P.	Rs. A. P.	Rs. A. P.	Rs. A. P.
On native vessels	21 8 11	79 12 3	58 3 4	.....
On British India Steam Navigation Company's steamers ...	.....	438 6 0	438 6 0	.....
On other trading steamers	523 2 0	49 4 0	.....	473 14 0
Miscellaneous receipts	.....	.....	.....	.....
Total ...	544 10 11	567 6 3	496 9 4	473 14 0

30. It will be observed that the port-dues collected during the year show a net increase of Rs 22-11-4 over the preceding year. This increase is due, as the Collector says, to the visits of two extra steamers* of the British India Steam Navigation Company during the year, which paid port-dues as shown in the statement above. The other steamers of that Company which visited the port during the year were mail steamers, and came vid False Point, where they paid the dues for that port as well as for Pooree.

* S.S. Ellora.

31. The increase of port-dues on "Native Vessels" was owing to a greater number of sailing vessels having visited the port during the year to export rice for home ports, to be noticed further on.

32. The other trading steamers which called and paid port-dues during the year were two of smaller tonnage in the aggregate against four in the year preceding.

33. A statement showing the disbursements of the port during the year as compared with the preceding year is given below:—

34. It will be seen that the total disbursements during the year have decreased by annas six and pies eleven as compared with 1881-82. The fluctuations under the different headings are noticed below.

35. The increase under "Light-house Establishment" was owing to no fines having been imposed on any lighter, as was the case in the preceding year, and that under the head of "Contingencies" was due to charges having been incurred in soldering three panes of glass and in doing general repairs to the old lantern and in putting up a new one during the year.

36. The decrease under "Contingencies—Vessels and Boats" was owing to the requirements having been less during the year than in the preceding one.

37. The Cuttack (False Point) and Pooree Ports have a joint Port Fund, and the transactions are separately exhibited for the purpose of this report.

38. Commercial development.—The number and tonnage of the vessels that visited the port during the last two years are shown below:—

	1881-82.				1882-83.
	Entered.		Cleared.		Entered.		Cleared.
	Number.	Tonnage.	Number.	Tonnage.	Number.	Tonnage.	Number.	Tonnage.
Steamers	19	25,017	19	25,017	27	38,099	27	38,099
Sailing vessels	2	423	4	770	8	1,570	8	1,570
Total ...	21	25,440	23	25,787	35	39,669	35	39,669

39. In the arrivals there was an increase of eight steamers of 13,082 tons and six sailing vessels of 1,147 tons, or 14 vessels of 14,229 tons in the aggregate as compared with the year preceding. Similarly there was a corresponding increase of 12 vessels of 13,882 tons in the aggregate in the departures.

40. This increase is due, as the Collector says, to an improvement in the export trade in rice during the last quarter of the year, to meet which the steamers of the British India Steam Navigation Company called regularly every week for the time. The same cause led to an increase in the number of sailing vessels. Besides, two steamers belonging to Messrs. Macneill and Co. visited this port with pilgrims.

41. The following statement shows the quantity and value of grain exported to foreign and home ports during the year as compared with the year preceding:—

Port.	1881-82.		1882-83.
	Quantity in cwt.	Value.	Quantity in cwt.	Value.
		Rs.		Rs.
Foreign ports	16,622	33,936	11,716	32,116
Home „	22,172	46,046	121,384	3,05,039
Total ...	38,794	79,982	133,100	3,37,155

42. From the above it will be seen that the value of the exports to the home ports has increased by Rs. 2,58,993, while that to foreign ports has decreased by Rs. 1,820, showing a net increase of Rs. 2,57,170. Regarding this increase the Collector writes as follows:—

"The total export trade of the year shows a very marked increase, having risen from 38,794 cwt., valued at Rs. 79,982, in 1881-82 to 133,100 cwt., valued at Rs. 3,37,155, in 1882-83, and is greater than that of any year since 1877-78. The highest figure (225,064 cwt.) was reached in 1876-77, when the severe famine of Madras caused an unprecedented demand. Since then there was a steady falling off till the year under report, when suddenly more than four times the quantity of the year before was exported. In the last year's report the causes of depression were fully gone into. As for the causes of this sudden increase, we have to look to the bumper harvests of the last two years, which left an abundant stock available for export; but the main stimulus to the trade was given by the appearance of two new exporters, viz. Haji Abdul Latiff, who started business in December last and exported largely to Madras, and a Deccan trader, who also sent rice to Madras in dhonies chartered by him. In normal years there is always a large surplus available for export, and what is wanted is enterprise to send it away. Had the two men I have referred to not been in the field, the exports in rice would probably have been as poor as in the year before. During the rice season the sea can generally be depended upon, and we only want capital and enterprise for expanding the trade of the port."

Instead of attributing the trade to the advent of the two traders, I should be inclined to think that the traders came because they saw the opportunity of a profitable trade.

43. The decrease in the export to foreign ports is attributed by the Collector "to smaller shipments of rice to foreign ports, notably to Colombo."

44. The following comparative statement shows the staple imports of the port during the last two years:—

Particulars.	1881-82.		1882-83.
	Quantity.	Value.	Quantity.	Value.
		Rs.		Rs.
Increase (a)	.....	.....	.....	3,000

Spices (d)	.....	.....	.....	.....
Provisions, other sorts (e) ...	498 lb	204	1,144 lb	353
Total ...	.....	1,259	.....	19,663

45. From the above it will be seen that there was a considerable increase under the heads marked (a), (b), and (e) during the year as compared with 1881-82. "This is due," the Collector says, "in a large measure to the improvement in the rice trade during the year, in consequence of which there was a great demand for gunny-bags for packing rice intended for export." Treasure worth Rs. 3,000 was also imported for the purchase of the rice exported.

46. No piece-goods and spices were imported during the year or the year preceding. These articles, the Collector says, are generally imported viâ Chandbally, which is preferred by merchants and traders, as offering greater security in landing goods.

47. The total trade of the port during the last two years is given below:—

	1881-82.	1882-83.
	Rs.	Rs.
Imports	3,797	23,164
Exports	80,607	3,41,345
Total ...	84,404	3,64,509

48. It is satisfactory to notice that both the imports and exports have increased, by Rs. 19,367 and Rs. 2,60,738 respectively, the total increase being Rs. 2,80,105, or 331·86 per cent over the preceding year. The subject has been dealt with in paragraphs 41, 42, 44, and 45 above.

49. Forty cargo-boats were registered and licensed during the year, against 19 in 1881-82. The increase is attributable to greater activity in the rice trade, noticed above.

50. Improvements.—No works of material importance were carried out during the year.

51. The Collector reports that the port light has continued to give satisfaction. The old lantern was replaced by one of Chance's port light in September last, and it is now under consideration whether it would be advisable to raise the light so as to be visible further out at sea. It is not, however, certain if the circuit-house, on which the light is placed, will be able to bear the weight of a masonry erection, or if a flag-staff would be raised on it to carry the light and sustain the strong gales it would have to face. There is also some danger, if the light be raised, of its being mistaken for the False Point light, unless the present light being changed some distinctive light be substituted.

52. The three life-buoys of the port are reported by the Collector to be in good order.

53. Casualty.—There were no wrecks or casualties during the year.

BALASORE.

54. Finance.—A comparative statement showing the collections of the port during the last two years is given below:—

55. The Government contributions of Rs. 9,000 and Rs. 7,000, made in 1881-82 and 1883 respectively, were made to meet the deficit balances of the fund. The port-dues levied during the year have decreased by Rs. 216-3-1 as compared with the year preceding. The result is chiefly due to a smaller number of native crafts having visited the port during the year, as will be shown in the following paragraphs.

56. The other fluctuations deserving of notice are the decrease of Rs. 80 and the increase of Rs. 270 under "Pilotage Fees" and "Buoy-dues" respectively. The former was owing to a smaller number of vessels requiring pilotage having visited the port than in the preceding year, and the latter to the levy of such dues for the first time during the year. The steamers formerly used the mooring buoys at the port of Chandbally free of charge; they now pay at Rs. 15 a month per steamer. The change was sanctioned in the Government order No. 441 of the 24th February last.

57. The following statement shows the disbursements of the port during the year as compared with the year preceding:—

* * * * * * *

67. Commercial development.—The number and tonnage of the vessels that visited the port during the year, as compared with the year preceding, are given below :—

Particulars.	1881-82.				1882-83.
	Entered.		Cleared.		Entered.		Cleared.
	Number.	Tonnage.	Number.	Tonnage.	Number.	Tonnage.	Number.	Tonnage.
Steamers	212	52,273	201	50,857	212	57,665	209	55,407
Sailing vessels	308	25,321	308	23,681	160	20,259	194	22,144
Total ...	520	77,594	509	74,538	372	77,924	403	77,551

68. In the arrivals there has been a decrease of 148 vessels with an increase of 330 tons in the aggregate, as compared with the previous year. Similarly, there was a decrease of 106 vessels with an increase of 3,013 tons in the departures. This result was due, as the Collector says, to the decrease in the number of coasting sailing vessels visiting the port owing to the decreased importation of coal for the Coast Canal works during the year.

69. The following comparative statement shows the quantity and value of grain exported to foreign and home ports during the last two years :—

Ports.	1881-82.		1882-83.
	Quantity in cwt.	Value.	Quantity in cwt.	Value.
		Rs		Rs.
Foreign ports	178,424	3,28,881	101,780	1,71,766
Home „	404,860	8,03,164	785,180	14,32,798
Total ...	583,284	11,32,045	886,960	16,04,564

70. From the above it will be seen that the total value of grain exported during the year was Rs. 16,04,564, against Rs. 11,32,045 in 1881-82, showing an increase of Rs. 4,72,519, entirely due to the increased exports to home ports, especially to Madras, induced by the comparative cheapness of rice throughout the year.

71. The decrease in the exports to foreign ports is due, as the Collector says, to the dulness of the trade with the Mauritius. It may be presumed that the large exports of rice, worth Rs. 9,06,599, made from the Cuttack district during the year account to some extent for the falling off in Balasore. The increased export to home ports is also, no doubt, partly responsible.

72. Subjoined is a comparative statement which shows the quantity and value of the staple imports during the past two years :—

Particulars.	1881-82.		1882-83.
	Quantity.	Value.	Quantity.	Value.
		Rs.		Rs.
Piece-goods ...	73,93,207 yds.	9,80,836	76,43,533 yds.	9,46,547
Metals	16,056 cwt.	4,86,089	19,781 cwt.	6,42,793
Twist	3,33,140 lb.	16,96,955	34,52,950 lb.	18,19,159
Spices	41,08,502 lb.	4,05,377	37,04,840 lb.	3,36,788
Total ...	.....	35,69,257	.....	37,45,287

73. The increase in cotton twist indicates a growing market in the province, and will continue with the increasing prosperity of the people. The twist, so largely imported, is extensively used in the manufacture of cloth by handloom. The cloth so made is preferred by the masses to that made by machine.

74. The increase in metals is due to the requirements of the coast canal. As regards "Spices," probably the quantity imported in 1881-82 was found in excess of the year's requirements, and their overstocking made the transactions slow during the year. The decrease in piece-goods is in value only. It is insignificant and requires no remarks.

75. The total trade of the port during the year, as compared with the preceding year, is given below:—

	1881-82.	1882-83.
	Rs.	Rs.
Imports	51,48,069	52,99,098
Exports	47,68,283	43,92,909
Total ...	99,16,352	96,92,007

76. It will be seen that the value of imports has increased by Rs. 1,51,029, while that of exports has decreased by Rs. 3,75,374, the net decrease of the trade being Rs. 2,24,348, or 2·29 per cent as compared with the preceding year. The decrease in the exports was mostly in treasure, which amounted to Rs. 2,60,630. The Collector writes as follows regarding the increase in the import trade:—"On the whole the import trade has increased by Rs. 1,50,934,* following an increase of Rs. 9,78,544 in the preceding year. The natural increase has been greatly affected by the great falling off in the import of foreign cotton twist and piece-goods." After giving the figures shown in the margin, Mr. Beadon goes on to say:—"The Indian-made cotton twist, however, shows some increase, but not to the same extent." He then gives the following extract from a report on the subject submitted to him by Mr. Chapman, customs officer of Chandbally:—"The chief piece-goods imported into this district are as undermentioned, but the main portion of these imports is taken into the Cuttack district, and only a small amount is retained in this district (Balasore) towards Bhadrakh and North Gurjat States, and some little is disposed of locally by petty traders. The trade in mule twist No. 40 (English) has slightly fallen off owing to the small demand of the finer twist There has been a large increase in country twist of Nos. 10, 12, 14, 16, and 20. These numbers, being coarser in texture and cheaper, have a good market, as they are in great demand for weaving of country cloth, which is rapidly increasing and is worked by handloom. The main portion of twist finds its way into the Cuttack district, and very little in Balasore. The other sorts of cloth (Indian) seem to be pretty steady in imports. Imports are as follows, viz. grey shirting, grey dhootee, grey jaconets, grey madapolam, scarfs (plain and striped)—all of European make. The following are Indian (Bombay):—jeans, sheetings, chudders, and coloured saries.

"There is a good deal of traffic now by the steam communication that is between this port and Cuttack."

78. Registration of cargo-boats.—The number of boats registered during the past two years is shown below :—

Total ...	27	64

The increase, as the Collector says, has been the result of a demand for boats required for conveying materials by water for the work of the coast canal and expansion of rice trade.

79. The passenger traffic during the past two years is shown below :—

	Arrivals.	Departures.	Total.
1881-82	61,381	63,426	1,24,807
1882-83	69,379	57,186	1,26,565

80. On the whole the passenger traffic has increased, though slightly, during the year. The Collector writes on the subject as follows :—"I consider that it is now limited only by the capacity of transport. Directly the number of steamers running increases, the traffic will increase with it. The Curlew ceased to run for some months, and the Bassein has been taken off the Chandbally line and brought round to Balasore."

81. The Collector writes as follows regarding the visits of the bi-weekly steamers :—"Of the four bi-weekly steamers, viz. Sir John Lawrence, Reliance, Curlew, and Bassein running between Calcutta and Chandbally, the last has been taken off that line and runs instead to Balasore. The Sir John Lawrence has ceased to ply, and the Medina has been substituted. The weekly steamer Victoria running between Calcutta and Balasore has been taken off, and I think she will be permanently removed."

82. The Jhota bar in the Byturni river is reported to have become somewhat worse during the year, owing to the poor freshets in the last rains.

83. Improvements.—In December and January last the Dhamrah, Byturni, and Burabalang rivers were surveyed by the Marine Survey Party. The result is not yet known, but it cannot fail to be useful to ships visting the port. It should be given to the public as soon as possible.

84. A light is now exhibited on the flag-staff at Chandipur every night, and is of much use to the vessels visiting the port. This light is seen at a distance of four miles, but it is doubtful whether it will be clearly seen in foul weather. The light-keeper's hut has been removed from its former site to the immediate vicinity of the flag-staff.

85. The Port Officer's bungalow, which was under construction in the preceding year, was completed, and occupied by him in April last, as stated above in paragraph 60.

86. A wooden row-boat, sanctioned in the Government order No. 383 of the 23rd March 1882 for the use of the Port Officer of Chandbally, arrived in February last. With the assistance of this boat the Port Officer will now be able to overhaul and paint the buoys annually. The employment of three men at a monthly cost of Rs 32, in addition to the seven men attached to the pilot boat establishment, to work the row-boat, has been also sanctioned in the Government order No. 574 of the 14th March 1883.

87. The Government jetty at the Balasore Custom House was repaired during the year, and is in good condition. It is reported to be very useful.

88. The buoyed channels of the Brahmini and Byturni were kept clear of all obstructions :—

(a) All the channel buoys are in good position. The beacons and tide-guages were painted and kept clean.

(b) The red posts demarcating the banks during the freshets are kept clean and painted, and are in good order.

(c) The bamboo beacon on Shortt's Island is also in good order. A proposal to erect a light-house there is under consideration. Having regard to the large passenger traffic, and the fact that the passenger steamers reach at night, the light is very necessary.

(d) The iron tide guage placed opposite Bulramgori is reported to be in good order.

(e) The Elfin flat buoy, which was adrift, has been replaced.

(f) The buoys at the port of Balasore have been painted, and the three unserviceable buoys repaired.

(g) The cocoanut plants on Shortt's Island are doing well, and other trees are being cared for.

(h) The two wells on the same island are also kept clean.

89. The iron lighter referred to in paragraph 84 of my last report has been retained for the use of the work in connection with the proposed light-house on Shortt's Island.

90. The medicine chest allowed for the Government employés at Chandbally was replenished during the year. The proposal to post a civil hospital assistant to Chandbally is under the consideration of Government, as intimated in its No. 785 of the 29th July 1882.

91. The pilot boat attached to the port is reported to be in a pretty fair condition. She has been cleaned and painted, but is somewhat leaky. The Port Officer proposes to get her repaired at the Cuttack workshop.

92. Other matters in connection with the ports.—The steamers Medina and Reliance fouled their buoys together with chains and anchors. One buoy with two mooring chains and anchors was recovered, and the other buoy is reported to be irrecoverable. This matter has been reported to Government in this office 617, of the 5th instant.

93. Two third-class wooden spare buoys, which were leaky, were repaired in Calcutta.

94. The Collector reports that the recent orders of Government to provide red and green lanterns for the exhibition of lights on native crafts have been enforced.

95. The Suburnrekha river is broad, and has plenty of water inside as far as Jamkunda, but for three miles between that point and the port Baliapal it is much obstructed by sand-banks and shallows. The present difficulty will not be so much felt when the canal opens into the river at Jamkunda. Ships will be able at that point to load from boats if required.

96. The Collector reports that there are no buoys or aids to navigation at the port of Suburnrekha, and suggests that one buoy at the entrance of the river would enable native crafts to move to and fro without any difficulty. In this opinion I agree.

97. With the aid of the new row-boat recently arrived, the Port Officer will, the Collector reports, lay a buoy at the port of Lychunpore. Mr. Beadon's remarks on the necessity for laying buoys at Lychunpore were given in paragraph 87 of my last report, and it is not necessary to reproduce them here.

98. A disastrous fire broke out in the Chandbally bazaar in March last, and destroyed buildings and property belonging to private individuals estimated by Messrs. Chapman, the customs officer, at Rs. 50,000. The breaking out of the fire was reported to Government in this office 297, of the 10th idem.

99. Casualty.—A native sloop called Joydeb Prasad was wrecked on the 15th December 1882 within the jurisdiction of the port of Channa, in Balasore. This wreck was reported to Government in this office 493, of the 16th April last.

100. Messrs. Geary and Palmer, the Port Officers of False Point and Chandbally, have performed their duties satisfactorily during the year. The extension of service granted to Mr. Geary, who has passed 55 years of age, will expire in August next, but I understand that he is applying for further extension, and if he does, I will probably recommend it to be given.

29	Durbhunga, „ 23 '83	14·66	Weather—extraordinarily heavy rain everywhere, far more than wanted. Now cloudy with gleams of sunshine Rain was wanted, and a moderate fall would have done much good. This excessive rain has damaged mung and low land indigo. The rain has, however, done far more good than harm. Transplanting of paddy has begun. Prices rising slightly. Cholera broke out violently in the town again last week, but is subsiding now.
30	Muzufferpore, „ 23 „	16·21	Weather—cloudy and rainy. The rainfall has been very heavy in the centre of the district, lighter in the south, and much lighter in the north. Ploughing and sowing are in rapid progress, but much injury has been caused to the crops in low situations.
	Hajeepore ...	14·99
	Seetamurhee ...	4·16
31	Saran, „ 23 „	6·53	Weather—cloudy and generally cool. Ploughing continues. Bhadoi sowings going on. Prospects of crops fair. Injury to indigo from excessive rain is feared. Public health generally good.
	Sewan ...	1·94
	Gopalgunge ...	1·73
32	Chumparun „ 23 „	3·09	Weather—cloudy and rainy Rain will facilitate agricultural operations. Sowing of bhadoi commenced. Indigo prospects good. Public health satisfactory.
BHAGULPORE DIVN. 33	Monghyr, June 23 '83	6·39	Weather—cool and rainy. The rain generally has proved very beneficial. Agricultural operations are going on briskly. Some damage has been done to young crops in Begusarai sub-division, where the rain has been heaviest. General health good.
	Begusarai ..	14·07
	Jamui ...	1·59
34	Bhagulpore, „ 23 „	11·07	Weather—strong winds, sometimes from west, sometimes from north, and sometimes from east, with heavy rain in first part of week, less rain in latter part. Bhadoi sowings are going on rapidly. Heavy floods have done some injury in the north to the young seedlings and to indigo. In the south, however, the rain has done good to indigo. Generally the prospects are good.
35	Purneah, „ 23 „	4·96	Weather—showery. In places in southern part of the district 21 inches of rain fell between 18th 6 P. M. and 19th 11.30 A. M. Crops all doing well. Health fair.
	Kissengunge ..	12·50
	Arrareah ...	16·39
36	Maldah, „ 23 „	4·85	Weather—cloudy and rainy, East wind prevailing. The rain has done much good. Rivers are rising. Reaping of boro paddy is nearly over. Other standing crops are doing well. Public health generally good.
37	Sonthal Perghs. „ 23 „	5·21	Weather—rainy. Indigo being cut. Ploughing going on. Bhadoi slightly damaged by the heavy rain. Paddy being sown, but transplanting only forward in Pakour.

39	Pooree, „ 21 „	2·09	Weather—showery. Sarad sowings retarded in some places on account of continuous rain, but the present break will do much good. Common rice selling at from 27 to 42 seers per rupee. Public health good.
	Khoorda ...	4·68
40	Balasore, „ 22 „	0·50	Weather—cloudy, with occasional rain. Ploughing and sowing of paddy progressing actively. The season is, so far, all that could be desired. Public health good.
CHOTA NAGPORE.
South-West Frontier Agency.
41	Hazaribagh, June 22 '83	2·25	Weather—fine and warm. Sowing of paddy and bhadoi crops going on. General health good.
42	Lohardugga, „ 23 „	2·81	Weather—showery. Enough rain throughout the district to complete sowings. Public health good. Rice selling at from 20 to 28 seers.
	Palamow ...	3·87
43	Singbhoom, „ 22 „	1·59	Weather—seasonable Rain abundant and general. Paddy has germinated well. Agricultural prospects favourable. General health good.

SUMMARY OF METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, 22ND JUNE 1883.

It was stated in last week's report that an area of barometric depression had formed in South-West Bengal on the 13th, and that it was accompanied by cyclonic circulation of the air and heavy rain. The motion of this cyclonic vortex has formed the chief feature of the past week. Its centre was in the neighbourhood of Gya on Saturday and Sunday. It advanced into North Behar, a little distance north of Patna on Monday, and to Purneah on Tuesday morning. It gave for a short time on Tuesday diminished pressure over the foot of the hills in North Behar and Bengal. It was, as usually happens when a vortex approaches the hills of North Bengal, rapidly broken up during Tuesday evening, and it had completely disappeared as a vortex with cyclonic circulation of the air round it on Wednesday morning. During its progress in Behar the changes of pressure were due to two causes or actions. Pressure was generally rising slowly with the continuance of general rain over the Province. In front of the cyclonic vortex the pressure fell locally and rapidly, whilst it increased even more rapidly in the rear of the vortex as it advanced northwards.

The breaking up of the storm on Tuesday afternoon was accompanied by a very rapid increase of pressure over the whole Province, as shown by the Wednesday observations, on which day pressure was considerably above the normal. A further rise of the barometer occurred during Wednesday, and pressure was nearly ·2″ above the normal on Thursday morning over the Province. Pressure then began to give way slowly, but is still considerably above the normal.

The weather during the past week has been of two different types. During the existence of the cyclonic vortex, excessive rain fell in the districts over which it passed, i.e. Behar and the eastern districts of North Bengal. In consequence of the indraught to the vortex the rainfall in the remaining districts was less than the average and moderate in amount. After the vortex broke up on Tuesday, the southerly monsoon winds gradually fell off in strength, but continued to blow steadily; hence skies were more or less clouded in all parts of the Province, and showers, generally more or less local in character, were received throughout the Province. But, as usual, with steady sea winds blowing across the Bengal Coast into Bengal under normal relative distribution of pressure, rainfall was fairly general in the eastern and southern districts of the Province in the neighbourhood of the hills.

The average pressure of the week exceeds the normal at all stations except Gya and Purneah. The excess is greatest at the Orissa stations and in the south-east districts of East Bengal (as represented by Chittagong). The mean temperature of the week is considerably below the normal in consequence of the excessive rainfall. The deficiency is most marked at the Behar station, where it ranges from 3° to 7°. The day temperature was unusually low from the same causes. The highest temperature registered in the Province was 97·5° at Dehree. Steady southerly winds prevailed in South and Central Bengal during the week, and easterly winds in North Bengal. The winds were variable in direction in Chutia Nagpur and Behar, in consequence of the passage of the cyclonic vortex across Behar.

The following gives a summary of the temperature and rainfall data in the Province for the past week :—

The preceding table shows that during the past week every division except Orissa received more than its normal amount of rain. The excess was not large in amount except in Behar, which received excessive rain in connection with the cyclonic disturbance already noticed. The heavy rainfall in that division was almost entirely confined to the

Gya, Bankipore, Purneah, Darbhanga, Bhagulpore districts and the Sonthal Pergunnahs as shown by the following:—

	Average rainfall of week.	Normal average rainfall of week.	Excess.
Purneah	14·15	2·64	11·51
Bankipore	12·77	1·75	11·02
Darbhanga	12·34	2·44	9·90
Bhagulpore	6·79	1·94	4·85
Gya	5·90	1·40	4·50
Sonthal Pergunnahs	5·63	2·18	3 45

There were also three local centres of heavy rainfall not connected with the cyclonic disturbance. These were Darjeeling, Chittagong and Noakholly, and Ranegunj.

The only districts in which there was a marked deficiency were the Midnapore and the Pooree districts.

The number of rainy days was above the normal in all the divisions excepting Orissa.

Saturday, 16th June.—Pressure fell considerably in South Behar, thus intensifying the cyclonic vortex which was near Gya. The barometer was rising in Orissa and South-West Bengal. The mean temperature of the past 24 hours was 7° below the normal in Chutia Nagpur and South Behar, 4½° in Orissa, and 1½° in South-West and East Bengal. Moderate to strong monsoon winds were blowing at the head of the Bay. The cyclonic indraught in Behar was very distinctly marked, although it was not very strong. The air was very humid in South Behar and Chutia Nagpur, and the sky was overcast over the whole Province, excepting Orissa and the adjacent districts of South-West Bengal. General rain fell in the eastern districts of South-West Bengal, in North and East Bengal, and over the whole of Behar. The amount of the rain was excessive in the Gya and Patna districts. Gya registered 9·04 inches, Jehanabad 7·58 inches, Behar 6·85 inches, Patna 6 35 inches, and Dinapore 5·2 inches.

Sunday, 17th June.—A rapid increase of pressure in South Behar, and a large decrease in North Behar had accompanied the advance of the vortex from Gya to the neighbourhood of Darbhanga. Elsewhere the barometer was slowly rising. Temperature was from 5° to 10° below the normal in Behar. Strongest monsoon winds continued at the head of the Bay. The cyclonic circulation in North Behar gave rise to strong winds varying from two to three times their normal force in June. Excessive humidity of the air obtained in Behar and East Bengal. Sky was overcast or heavily clouded throughout the Province. Local showers fell in North Orissa, Chutia Nagpur, and the western districts of South-West Bengal. General but light rain was received in East Bengal. Moderate to excessive rain fell in North Bengal and North and Central Behar. The largest amounts were registered in the Patna, Mozufferpore, and Darbhanga districts. The following are the more important:—Mozufferpore 12·49 inches, Behar 10·95 inches, Hajipur (Mozufferpore district) 9·39 inches, Tejpur (Darbhanga district) 8·13 inches, Barh 6·4 inches, Darbhanga 5·2 inches, and Patna 5·13 inches.

Monday, 18th June.—The cyclonic vortex had advanced to the neighbourhood of Purneah. This gave a rapid fall of the barometer to that station and a rise to the Central Behar stations; elsewhere the changes were of little importance. The mean temperature was generally below the average. It was 4° in defect in Orissa, 3° in South-West Bengal, and from 3° to 9° in South Behar and Chutia Nagpur. The indraught to the vortex was much feebler than on the 17th. Excessive humidity prevailed in North and Central Behar, North and East Bengal. Skies were generally overcast. Frequent light showers fell in North Orissa and South-West Bengal and also in East Bengal (except in Chittagong and Noakholly, where heavy rain fell). General rain, moderate in amount, fell in North Bengal, and heavy rain in North Behar (except the Chumparun district).

The only rainfalls exceeding 4 inches registered on this day were Darbhanga 8·52 inches, Begoosorai in the Monghyr district 8 inches, and Cox Bazar 6 67 inches.

Tuesday, 19th June.—The barometer continued to rise slowly over the Province. A large local fall occurred at Purneah, due to the advance of the cyclonic vortex. Temperature was very low. The mean of the day was 7° below the normal in South Behar, 6° in Orissa, 4° in South-West Bengal and North Behar, 2° in East Bengal, and 1° in Chutia Nagpur. Moderately strong monsoon winds were blowing at the head of the Bay. General and heavy rain fell over the whole Province, excepting in Orissa and the Gya and Shahabad districts of South Behar, and the Chumparun and Mozufferpore districts. Soory, Chittagong, Fenpy, Buxa, Maddapore, received amounts ranging from six to eight inches.

Wednesday, 20th June.—The cyclonic vortex broke up on Tuesday evening. This caused a rapid recovery of pressure over the Province. The rise of the barometer was greatest at Purneah where it exceeded ·3″. Pressure was now above the normal over the whole Province by amounts ranging from ·02″ at Gya to ·15″ at Chittagong. Temperature was about 5° below the average. The day temperatures were unusually low. Moderate monsoon winds continued at the head of the Bay. Winds in Behar and North Bengal were light and variable after the disappearance of the cyclonic whirl. The air was very damp in North Behar and Bengal, and in East Bengal. Moderately heavy local showers fell in the eastern districts of South-West Bengal and in East Bengal. Heavy rain occurred in North Bengal, the eastern districts of North Behar, and in the Sonthal Pergunnahs. A few light showers of little importance fell in the remaining districts. The largest amounts registered were—7·41 inches at Darjeeling, 6·16 inches at Buxa, and 5·87 inches at Bagdogra.

Thursday, 21 t June.—A further rise of the barometer had taken place during the past 24 hours, and pressure averaged about one-sixth of an inch above the normal pressure of the day. Temperature began to rise again. The mean was 4° below the normal for the greater part of the Province. Light to moderate monsoon winds were blowing over the Province. They were southerly in South Bengal and Orissa, and easterly in North Bengal and Behar. General rain fell in South-West Bengal, and over nearly the whole of North Bengal, East Bengal, and North Behar. No rain fell in Orissa. A few showers of little importance occurred in South Behar and Chutia Nagpur. Rangegunj was a centre of heavy rainfall at this time; 3·7 inches were registered there on this day. The rainfall was heaviest in Cooch Behar, where amounts exceeding 5 inches were received at Matabhanga and Meckligunj.

Friday, 22nd June.—After the rapid increase on the 20th and 21st, pressure now began to give way slowly over the Province. It was above the average by amounts ranging from ·08″ at Purneah and Gya to ·16″ at Chittagong. The mean temperature of the past 24 hours was 2° below the normal. Light monsoon winds prevailed in every part of the Province. The air was drier in South Behar and Chutia Nagpur, and the sky generally less clouded. Local showers fell in nearly every part of the Province, but the amounts were generally not large, and only exceeded one inch in a few cases. Chandballi registered the largest fall—2·2 inches.

METEOROLOGICAL OFFICE, BENGAL, the 25th June 1883.

VITAL STATISTICS OF THE FIRST CLASS MUNICIPALITIES IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 9TH JUNE 1883.

DURING the week ending 9th June, the birth and death-rates of the first class Municipalities (excepting Patna and Beauleah, from which returns have not been received), containing a population of 1,149,652, stood at 15·7 and 30·2 per 1,000, respectively, as opposed to 16·4 and 26·7 per 1,000, respectively, in the preceding week ending 2nd June, showing a small decrease in the birth ratio with a large increase in the death ratio. The following towns returned the highest proportions of births and deaths:—

Births.	Ratio per mille.	Deaths.	Ratio per mille.
Comillah	50·1	Durbhanga	75·5
Bhagulpore	36·2	Mozufferpore	64·5
Gya	25 3	Gya	56 0
Naraingunj	24 8	Chuprah	37·1
Durbhanga	24·4	Comillah	34·7
		Arrah	31 1
		Bhagulpore	30·8
		Suburbs of Calcutta ..	29·6
		Purneah	27·7
		Chittagong	25 8
		Serampore	25·5

The mortality from the several death-causes was as follows, in comparison with that in the preceding week:—

	Mortality per 1,000 during weeks ending
	9th June.	2nd June.
Cholera	7·5	5·9
Small-pox	·7	·1
Fever	12·6	10·9
Bowel-complaints	3 9	3·1
Injury	·3	·5
Other causes	5·2	6 2

indicating that, while the casualties from bowel-complaints and violence remained almost stationary, those from all the other diseases, especially from cholera and fever, had increased.

Excessive mortality from cholera and small-pox occurred in the following towns:—

Cholera.	Ratio per mille.	Small-pox.	Ratio per mille.
Mozufferpore	41·4	Gya	7·5
Durbhanga	29·9	Durbhanga	2·4
Gya	11·6
Suburbs of Calcutta ..	10·1
Chuprah	8·8
Howrah	4·9
Arrah	4·8

Fever continued to prevail with severity in Purneah, but its incidence was normal in all the other Municipalities.

The highest and lowest death-rates in relation to Race and Age are exhibited below:—

According to Race.	Ratio per mille.	According to Age.	Ratio per mille.
Hindus	32·9	Infants (under 1 year) ..	236·4
Christians	29·4	Children (1 and under 5 years)	57·5
Mahomedans	24·2	Old men (60 years and upwards)	46·2
		Adults (of 10 and under 15 years)	14·1

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86 formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The direction of the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o overcast, g gloomy, d drizzling rain, t thunder, p passing temporary showers, < lightning.

REMARKS.

Coal, down ... ... Mds. 2,80,560 Rs. 39,730

The largest increases are shewn against Asansol, Sectarampore, and Barakar.

Wheat ... ... Mds. 3,21,140 Rs. 1,36,930

Large despatches to Howrah, especially towards the close of the period under review.

Gunny ... ... Mds. 32,070 Rs. 23,500

The demand for bagging has improved owing to the exports of produce having increased.

Opium ... ... Mds. 11,890 Rs. 17,590

Piece goods ... ... Mds. 25,410 Rs. 31,580

A marked improvement was noticeable in April in the quantity despatched from Howrah, chiefly to Cawnpore, Delhi and Patna.

Seeds ... ... Mds. 4,82,530 Rs. 1,83,920

This large increase is consequent upon the large demand in the home markets.

Spices ... ... Mds. 10,380 Rs 15,920

There appears to have been an unusually large demand for this article for consumption in the North-West.

DECREASES.

Coal, upwards ... ... Mds. 1,25,740 Rs. 47,240

This decrease is general, and is owing to the diminution of orders from up-country stations and Foreign Railways.

Cotton ... ... Mds. 10,010 Rs. 15,090

Rice ... ... Mds. 1,13,000 Rs 67,080

Last year there was a fair traffic from Howrah, Raneegunge, and the Loop Line station to the North-West, which does not at present exist.

Other grains ... ... Mds. 10,170 Rs. 6,260

No great movement of these cheap food-grains this year.

Iron ... ... Mds. +1,730 Rs. —11,750

The increase in weight is due to the despatch from Howrah of pig-iron for the Barakar Iron Works.

Railway materials (Construction account) ... ... Mds. 6,98,030 Rs. 19,660

This falling off is owing to the completion of the double line between Buxar and Mogulserai.

Railway materials (Foreign) ... ... Mds. +2,880 Rs. —11,940

Last year despatches were heavy to Barh Ghât for the extension of the Tirhoot State Railway which has now been completed.

Salt ... ... Mds. 1,08,070 Rs. 48,810

The decrease is general over the line and points to stocks in the interior being large enough to meet demands.

Sugar ... ... Mds. 37,900 Rs. 17,730

Jaggree ... ... „ +24,770 „ —12,570

There was a general falling off in April owing apparently to prices not being so good as last year.

The train mileage for the period has been, excluding maintenance and locomotive coal train mileage—

URBAN BROUGHTON, Offg. Traffic Manager.

Report on the Fluctuations in Traffic on the Northern Bengal State Railway for the month of May 1883.

GENERAL REMARKS.

THE principal staples of traffic on this railway—Ginger, Gunny-bags, Jute, Piece-goods, Railway material, Salt, and All other goods—all shew a favourable increase as the result of the month's working in comparison with the despatches for the same period last year. The decrease in Food-grain—17,473 maunds—and in Tobacco—11,733 maunds—is due to unfavourable prices in the Calcutta market.

During the month under review, 4,50,689 maunds of goods have been lifted, as against 3,49,788 maunds in May last year. The net increase is therefore 1,00,901 or 25·98 per cent.

INCREASES.

Ale ... ... Mds. 104

This increase was to be expected in the face of the small despatches for the past 4 months.

Ginger ... ... Mds. 6,448

The demand, at fair prices, for this article continues, and despatchers are availing themselves of the favourable opportunity offered to realise.

Gunny-bags ... ... Mds. 11,012

In spite of a quiet market despatches of this commodity continue going forward.

Jute ... ... Mds. 26,224

The market in Calcutta is firm with advancing prices for both baled and unscrewed jute. The coming season, it is believed, will not be as favourable as the last either as to quality or quantity.

Piece-goods ... ... Mds. 10,556

An increase under this head is always anticipated at this season, as buyers are naturally anxious to stock local markets before the break of the monsoons render the roads impassable.

Railway material ... ... Mds. 26,873

Of this amount 45,070 maunds is made up of locomotive coal: the rest comprises material for the Dinagepore extension.

Salt ... ... Mds. 36,334

The despatches in this staple are subject to fluctuations which it is difficult to trace.

In the present case it appears that despatchers are placing as many consignments as they can before the commencement of the rains.

Sugar ... ... Mds. 53

This increase is a nominal one.

All other goods ... ... Mds. 12,965

Up to the end of May 1883 the despatches under this heading have come to 3,13,761 maunds, as against 4,33,590 maunds for the corresponding period last year.

The deficit will no doubt be made up later on.

DECREASES.

Food-grains ... ... Mds. 17,473

An unfavourable Calcutta market continues to have a depressing effect on this traffic so far as the downward despatches are concerned. The upward despatches have been partially checked by through booking to the Darjeeling-Himalyan Railway having been suspended for a week.

Tea ... ... Mds. 462

Tobacco ... ... Mds. 11,733

INCREASE.

Mds.

Hay 7,180
This increase is due to favourable market and greater demand at selling stations.

Straw 829
This increase is due to greater demands at selling stations.

Wooloo 6,491
This increase is due to favourable market.

Rice 3,767
This increase is due to traffic of rice from the rice mills at Canning and exports from Magrahat on the extension.

DECREASE.

Mds.

Building materials 6,460
This decrease is due to works for the extension to Diamond Harbour coming to close.

Railway materials 14,424
This decrease is due to completion of the extension to Diamond Harbour.

Coal 1,144
This decrease is due to coal being less required for the extension.

Firewood 18,503
This decrease is due to less import owing to the Mutla river being very rough.

Sundries 2,570

INCREASE.

Mds.

Salt 1,501
This increase is due to want of sufficient water in the river Bhagirathee which carries this traffic generally.

Jute 6,558
This increase is due to want of sufficient water in the river Bhagirathee which carries the traffic; also high rate in the Calcutta market.

DECREASE.

Edible grain 2,795
This decrease is due to low rate in the Calcutta market.

Seeds of all sorts 941
This decrease is due to low rate, especially seeds for Nuddea district passing vid Howrah and Bhudeshwar in consequence of East Indian Railway's reduced monsoon rate from Cawnpore.

Sundries 911
This decrease is due to less quantity of charcoal brought in from Nalhati.

Revenue stores 553
This decrease is due to no ballast being carried by ordinary train.
